'Move Newark Airport,' Residents Demand

Call Follows Crash Killing 28

Firemen Fight Flames at Scene of Plane Wreck

Firemen battle flaming ruins of homes in Elizabeth, N. J., into which an American Airlines plane crashed. The plane, carrying 23 persons, was enroute to Newark Airport from Buffalo, N. Y. Former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson was among listed passengers.

'None Knows Where or When'

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, perhaps prophetically, remarked only last month that death may come unexpectedly.

Yesterday the former federal judge died in the Elizabeth, N. J., crash of an airliner he boarded after a last-minute decision.

Patterson was in Buffalo, for a court case and had not planned to leave until last night by train. But when the legal action was completed sooner than expected, he canceled the train reservation and asked an associate to get him a plane reservation for his return here.

A few hours later, death came to Patterson, who last Dec. 22 told a Beth El Hospital dinner that "no one knows when or where" death and disease will strike.

The prominent lawyer, who would have been 61 on Feb. 12, reached the pinnacle of his government career in 1945 when President Truman named him secretary of war to succeed Henry L. Stimson, now dead.

President's Tribute

President Truman last night described Patterson as "a great American and a great public servant."

Patterson, a native of Glens Falls, dropped his lucrative New York law practice in 1930 to accept appointment by President Hoover to the bench of the U. S. District Court of Southern New York.

Nine years later, President Roosevelt promoted him to the U. S. Second Circuit Court of Appeals.

The following year, while Patterson was at Plattsburgh, for Elizabeth, N. J., Jan. 23 (AP)—The crash of two big airliners in the middle of this industrial city in a little more than a month—with a combined death toll of 84—brought demands today that nearby Newark Airport be moved to some less populous area.

Twenty-eight persons, including former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, died in the flaming wreck of a fog-bound American Airlines passenger plane that plunged into a residential area yesterday.

This number includes 20 persons and a crew of three aboard the plane and five residents—a mother, her two children, another child and an unidentified person. The mother and her two children were trapped when the plane plunged into their home, demolishing it and setting the debris afire. The other child—a girl—was trapped on the second floor of an adjoining building which was gutted by fire.

DiSalle Is To Quit His Price Post

Head of OPS Will Seek Senate Seat in Ohio; Has Talk With HST Prior to Report

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle announced today he will quit as price boss to run for the United States Senate in Ohio.

DiSalle would seek the Democratic nomination. Senator Bricker, Republican, comes up for re-election this year.

DiSalle told a news conference the date he leaves the Office of Price Stabilization will be determined later. He said he might remain for some time, probably until President Truman names a successor.

Talks With Truman

He made the announcement after he had talked with President Truman at the White House for some 50 minutes in an early forenoon conference.

There had been reports that DiSalle might be offered another high post in the Truman administration. DiSalle had hinted it might be at the cabinet level.

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath also visited the White House while DiSalle was there. This gave rise to rumors DiSalle might replace McGrath, or might become associated with McGrath in the government's clean-up efforts.

But McGrath, on leaving the White House, said there was "no connection" between his visit and DiSalle's call on the President.

DiSalle, asked as he left the White House whether he had been offered another administration post, replied, "there was a possibility." That was all he would say about it.

Receives Reporters

From the White House, he went to his office. He received reporters there and announced his decision to seek a seat in the Senate.

The Ohio Democratic primary is to be held May 6.

Kefauver to Hold Press Conference

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Politicians here look for Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee to flip his coonskin campaign cap into the ring today in a formal bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The lanky one-time chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee scheduled a news conference for 3 p. m. (EST) and said nothing in advance to knock down reports he would announce his candidacy.

"I definitely am going to disclose my intentions," Kefauver told a reporter.

Thruway Permits Foreign Steel Use To Speed Highway

Waiver Adopted by Group to Keep Schedule for Cross-State Parkway

Albany, Jan. 23 (AP)—The State Thruway Authority said today it would permit contractors to use foreign-produced steel on state thruway construction, including the $50,000,000 Tarrytown-Nyack bridge.

The authority announced it was waiving "for the duration of the acute (domestic) steel shortage" its policy ban on the use of foreign steel.

Chairman Bertram D. Tallamy of the Thruway Authority said the waiver was adopted to speed the building of the cross-state superhighway, slated for completion in 1954.

He said the use of foreign steel on thruway projects would help "stave off the prospect of unemployment in the construction industry."

An authority source indicated that contractors probably could obtain steel produced in Belgium and South America.

New York To Request 63 Millions

Impellitteri Also Seeks County Realty Tax to Yield About 100 Millions

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri says he will ask the state Legislature to approve $63,800,000 more state aid for New York city.

The mayor also will seek a county real estate tax with an estimated $100,000,000 annual yield.

But this $163,800,000 program for state financial legislation still leaves a big gap in the $200,000,000 which Impellitteri repeatedly has said the city will need in new revenues in the 1952-53 fiscal year above the current budget of $1,330,000,000.

Impellitteri released his program for the state Legislature last night. He said it had the unanimous backing of the city board of estimate.

Matter Is Discussed

The mayor said he and Comptroller Lazarus Joseph had discussed the immediate introduction of legislation with the Democratic minority legislative leaders, Sen. Elmer Quinn and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut.

His program asked for state approval of the county real estate tax only as a stop-gap measure. The tax, to average about one and one-half per cent, would be assessed against New York city's five counties.

It would remain in effect only until the state constitution could be amended to permit the city to boost its own real estate tax from the present two per cent limitation to a sum not exceeding three per cent of the average assessed property valuation in the last five years, Impellitteri said.

Couldn't Be Effective

At the earliest date, such a constitutional amendment could not be effective before Jan. 1, 1954. It requires approval by two state legislatures and ratification by the voters.

Meanwhile, in Albany, Walter Hoving, chairman of the New York City Anti-Sales Tax Committee, predicted the New York city administration would seek to continue its existing three per cent sales tax.

Hoving, after conferring with several Republican legislative leaders, told newsmen his private committee would "go along" with a two per cent levy after June 30.

The city's authority to levy a sales tax expires June 30.

Hoving also said he opposed any new or broader taxing powers for the city and favored a ten per cent slash in the city's proposed budget.

Weds in Japan

Yokohama, Japan, Jan. 23 (AP)—An American Army officer married today the daughter of a member of the Spanish diplomatic mission. The bridegroom is Lt. Leslie Page Holcomb, Jr., son of Air Force Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Holcomb of Wilton, Conn., and New York. His bride was Miss Maria del Carmen de Larracoechea of Bilbao, Spain. Holcomb is aide-de-camp to Brig. Gen. Francis W. Farrell, commanding general, central command, Japan logistical command. The couple expects to leave Japan for the United States in March.

Cavalry Is Moved To Defend Island

Pulled Out of Korea to Save Habomai From Russians

Camp Crawford, Hokkaido, Japan, Jan. 23 (AP)—The battle-hardened U. S. First Cavalry Division has been pulled out of Korea to defend Japan's northernmost island.

Russian troops on Habomai Island are only 3½ miles away. The Russian-occupied Kuriles are 10 miles to the east. Russia's Sakhalin is less than 30 miles to the north.

Maj. Gen. Thomas L. Harrold, division commander, said today, "I can assure you of this: if they land here we'll be ready for them with everything we have.

"We feel we are as much on the front line here as we ever were in Korea."

The division's move from Korea was completed New Year's Eve—but announcement was withheld until today. The 45th Division, former Oklahoma National Guard unit, replaced the First Cavalry in Korea.

Is Key Defense Force

It is an ironic touch that the famed dismounted cavalry is now the key division in the U. S. defense force for Japan.

The cavalrymen were flown into Japan from the Philippines to cement the surrender in 1945.

Five years later the division was rushed to Korea to help stem the Red invasion.

Now, after 17 months of bitter combat, it is back in Japan—to defend a former enemy.

Hope Is Expressed Officials Can End Deadlocks Over Two Issues

Washington, Jan. 23—(AP)—Officials said today that the United States and its allies are determined to exhaust every reasonable means of obtaining an agreement on an armistice in the Korean truce negotiations.

They expressed hope that the present prolonged deadlocks over the air field and prisoner-of-war issues eventually would be resolved. They said they definitely would be, if the Reds sincerely wanted to end the Korean fighting.

These authorities conceded, however, that the negotiations which began more than six months ago may drag on for many more weeks.

Secretary of State Acheson is understood to have told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee recently that the number of concessions made by the Communists to date gives some basis for hope they will be reasonable on pending issues.

Concessions Made

Concessions of importance which the Reds so far have made are these:

1. They yielded on their original demand that withdrawal of all foreign troops should be the basic condition of armistice.

2. They gave up their insistence that the armistice line should be centered exactly on the 38th Parallel. (The United Nations position has been that the armistice line should follow the battle line at the time the armistice is made.)

3. They insisted at one point on

No Progress Made by Negotiators at Truce Session; to Give POW Map

Munsan, Korea, Jan. 23 (AP)—The allied command acknowledged today that UN planes dropped a bomb on Kaesong, former Korean truce site, and may have strafed a Communist armistice convoy.

The bomb was dropped last Thursday by a pilot who pushed the wrong button when he was trying to drop a wing tank, the allies said.

No one was hurt and no damage was done.

The United Nations did not question that a convoy was hit by strafing planes Friday, but questioned whether they were truce trucks or military trucks illegally bearing truce markings.

Simultaneously with the allied answer to bombing charges, staff officers made arrangements to protect captured American and other prisoners from air attack in Red POW camps in North Korea.

Armistice negotiators failed again to make any progress. The UN's Adm. R. E. Libby commented "it looks like a complete stalemate" ahead.

Safeguards Are Sought

The new prisoner safeguards resulted from a Red report that a POW camp was bombed Jan. 13. The Reds said 20 prisoners were killed and scores injured. The UN command said it was possible an allied plane bombed the camp but they couldn't tell for sure because they didn't know the exact location of POW camps in North Korea.

Today Communist staff officers agreed to supply a map marked with the exact location of the 11 POW camps in North Korea. It also will show a camp where non-Korean civilians are interned.

Communists also agreed to mark these camps so they may be identified from the air by daylight. They refused to light the camps at night, as the UN asked. The Reds said the markings on the camps would not necessarily be "PW," an internationally accepted designation. The implication was the markings might be in Chinese or Korean characters.

Both Sides Agree

Both sides also agreed to reveal the location of processing camps where prisoners first are questioned after capture before they are sent to the rear.

The UN command delivered a map Wednesday showing location of UN POW camps in South Ko-

Police Station Attacked

Tunis, Tunisia, Jan. 23 (AP)—Five thousand Arab demonstrators stormed a police station today at a village near Moknine, Tunisian coastal city. First reports said at least three policemen were killed and two taken as hostages. The latest outbreak of rioting in this French protectorate brought the death toll to 31 in a week of violence and unrest stemming from nationalist demands for independence. Moknine is 120 miles southeast of Tunis.

Witness Declares Key Men Involved In Shakedown Fix

Convicted Man Testifies for State at Trial of J. J. Moran in New York

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Key men in the O'Dwyer and Impellitteri city hall regimes, a state witness says, were involved in a half-million-dollar-a-year fire department shakedown racket.

The extortion plot, the witness adds, was speeded up when former Mayor William O'Dwyer, now U. S. ambassador to Mexico, was running for re-election here in 1949.

Convicted Fireman James F. Smith testified for the state yesterday as the first witness in the General Sessions trial of James J. Moran, 50, an old O'Dwyer friend, on 52 counts of conspiracy and extortion.

Smith said Moran, who then was

Biggest Attendance Is Expected Among Growers—Many Exhibits

The New York State Horticultural Society's eastern meeting opened this morning at the state armory on Manor avenue. Early registrations indicated that memberships issued here to growers this year will exceed last year's figure of 250.

In addition to the growers who obtain memberships, the meeting and its exhibition of farm machinery, products and methods attracts an equal number of wives and family members of fruit growers from the Hudson Valley area, as well as hundreds of local residents. Another 150 or more persons are present representing commercial exhibitors.

D. M. Dalrymple, secretary-treasurer of the society, reported a total of 57 commercial exhibitors—highest in the history of the eastern meeting.

Other exhibits have been prepared by various agencies, such as the Geneva Experiment Station.

New Red Line: U. S. Admits Espionage by Paying Fines

Paris, Jan. 23 (AP)—Russia asserted today that the United States by paying $120,000 in fines for four American fliers forced down in Hungary, had admitted they were spies.

Soviet fighters based in Hungary forced down a U. S. army transport plane, flown by the four airmen, on Nov. 19. They were freed Dec. 28 after the United States paid fines of $30,000 on each to save them from alternative 90-day prison sentences imposed by a Hungarian military court.

Soviet UN Delegate Jacob Malik told the United Nations political committee the U. S. "recognized the correctness of that judgment" by paying the fines.

They were convicted of deliberately violating the Hungarian border to drop maps, radios and other supplies to anti-Communist saboteurs in Hungary. The U. S. Air Force said the fliers lost their way while en route from Germany to Yugoslavia, and that the maps and radios aboard were standard equipment on air force planes.

American officials had expressed fear Russia, for propaganda purposes, might claim payment of the fines was an admission to guilt but said they decided to pay anyway in order to free the men.

Malik referred to the airmen as "wrong way" fliers. He said their flight proved they were "spies sent by Eisenhower."

Discussion of the fliers came up in a debate over admission of new members to the United Nations. Hungary is one of those seeking admission.

U. S. Delegate Ernest Gross said yesterday one way Hungary could prove her eligibility for UN membership would be to reverse the verdict and refund the fines.

Malik's speech was the Russian reply.

Propaganda Accompanies Voting in Capital of Iran

Tehran, Iran, Jan. 23 (AP)—Iranians voted again today in the nation's capital with the polling accompanied by vociferous propaganda for Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's Nationalists and the outlawed but active Communists.

Voting for Tehran's 12 deputies in the lower House of Parliament (Majlis) started yesterday and will continue through Thursday. Counting, due to begin Saturday, may last 10 days.

As voting started, the Communists organized a big turnout near at least four polling places in the proper quarters where they are concentrating their main efforts. False party fronts for the outlawed Communist Tudeh candidates are making a determined bid to elect two or three of their eight Tehran nominees.

The Communists beat the propaganda drums by publishing in their newspaper an open letter to Mossadegh offered him support if American military advisors are kicked out of Iran along with "all Anglo-American economic and espionage organizations." The Communists also asked that Mossadegh stop dealing with the World Bank on the oil issue and seek oil customers from the Soviet bloc.

Four hundred city buses packed with Nationalists youths waving flags and shouting "long live Mossadegh" and "death to the British" roared through the city in a traffic-snarling procession.

Some 10,000 troops and police guarded the tense city. Steel-helmeted troops with fixed bayonets were stationed at the 108 polling places.

Voting for the new parliament began in scattered places in northern Iran early this month and is gradually being extended southward. Completion of the voting may take another two or three weeks.

The six deputies elected so far out of a total of 136 have been pro-Mossadegh.

Impellitteri Also Seeks County Realty Tax to Yield About 100 Millions

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri says he will ask the state Legislature to approve $63,800,000 more state aid for New York city.

The mayor also will seek a county real estate tax with an estimated $100,000,000 annual yield.

But this $163,800,000 program for state financial legislation still leaves a big gap in the $200,000,000 which Impellitteri repeatedly has said the city will need in new revenues in the 1952-53 fiscal year above the current budget of $1,330,000,000.

Witness Declares Key Men Involved In Shakedown Fix

Convicted Man Testifies for State at Trial of J. J. Moran in New York

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Key men in the O'Dwyer and Impellitteri city hall regimes, a state witness says, were involved in a half-million-dollar-a-year fire department shakedown racket.

The extortion plot, the witness adds, was speeded up when former Mayor William O'Dwyer, now U. S. ambassador to Mexico, was running for re-election here in 1949.

Convicted Fireman James F. Smith testified for the state yesterday as the first witness in the General Sessions trial of James J. Moran, 50, an old O'Dwyer friend, on 52 counts of conspiracy and extortion.

Smith said Moran, who then was

Biggest Attendance Is Expected Among Growers—Many Exhibits

The New York State Horticultural Society's eastern meeting opened this morning at the state armory on Manor avenue. Early registrations indicated that memberships issued here to growers this year will exceed last year's figure of 250.

In addition to the growers who obtain memberships, the meeting and its exhibition of farm machinery, products and methods attracts an equal number of wives and family members of fruit growers from the Hudson Valley area, as well as hundreds of local residents. Another 150 or more persons are present representing commercial exhibitors.

D. M. Dalrymple, secretary-treasurer of the society, reported a total of 57 commercial exhibitors—highest in the history of the eastern meeting.

Other exhibits have been prepared by various agencies, such as the Geneva Experiment Station.

New Red Line: U. S. Admits Espionage by Paying Fines

Paris, Jan. 23 (AP)—Russia asserted today that the United States by paying $120,000 in fines for four American fliers forced down in Hungary, had admitted they were spies.

Soviet fighters based in Hungary forced down a U. S. army transport plane, flown by the four airmen, on Nov. 19. They were freed Dec. 28 after the United States paid fines of $30,000 on each to save them from alternative 90-day prison sentences imposed by a Hungarian military court.

Soviet UN Delegate Jacob Malik told the United Nations political committee the U. S. "recognized the correctness of that judgment" by paying the fines.

They were convicted of deliberately violating the Hungarian border to drop maps, radios and other supplies to anti-Communist saboteurs in Hungary. The U. S. Air Force said the fliers lost their way while en route from Germany to Yugoslavia, and that the maps and radios aboard were standard equipment on air force planes.

American officials had expressed fear Russia, for propaganda purposes, might claim payment of the fines was an admission to guilt but said they decided to pay anyway in order to free the men.

Malik referred to the airmen as "wrong way" fliers. He said their flight proved they were "spies sent by Eisenhower."

Discussion of the fliers came up in a debate over admission of new members to the United Nations. Hungary is one of those seeking admission.

U. S. Delegate Ernest Gross said yesterday one way Hungary could prove her eligibility for UN membership would be to reverse the verdict and refund the fines.

Malik's speech was the Russian reply.

Propaganda Accompanies Voting in Capital of Iran

Tehran, Iran, Jan. 23 (AP)—Iranians voted again today in the nation's capital with the polling accompanied by vociferous propaganda for Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's Nationalists and the outlawed but active Communists.

Voting for Tehran's 12 deputies in the lower House of Parliament (Majlis) started yesterday and will continue through Thursday. Counting, due to begin Saturday, may last 10 days.

As voting started, the Communists organized a big turnout near at least four polling places in the proper quarters where they are concentrating their main efforts. False party fronts for the outlawed Communist Tudeh candidates are making a determined bid to elect two or three of their eight Tehran nominees.

The Communists beat the propaganda drums by publishing in their newspaper an open letter to Mossadegh offered him support if American military advisors are kicked out of Iran along with "all Anglo-American economic and espionage organizations." The Communists also asked that Mossadegh stop dealing with the World Bank on the oil issue and seek oil customers from the Soviet bloc.

Four hundred city buses packed with Nationalists youths waving flags and shouting "long live Mossadegh" and "death to the British" roared through the city in a traffic-snarling procession.

Some 10,000 troops and police guarded the tense city. Steel-helmeted troops with fixed bayonets were stationed at the 108 polling places.

Voting for the new parliament began in scattered places in northern Iran early this month and is gradually being extended southward. Completion of the voting may take another two or three weeks.

The six deputies elected so far out of a total of 136 have been pro-Mossadegh.

Police Station Attacked

Tunis, Tunisia, Jan. 23 (AP)—Five thousand Arab demonstrators stormed a police station today at a village near Moknine, Tunisian coastal city. First reports said at least three policemen were killed and two taken as hostages. The latest outbreak of rioting in this French protectorate brought the death toll to 31 in a week of violence and unrest stemming from nationalist demands for independence. Moknine is 120 miles southeast of Tunis.

Dies in Cab Mishap

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Mrs. Sarah Spivack, 30, of 480 West 187th street, was killed at 12:20 a. m. today when two taxicabs struck her in succession as she crossed Broadway near 116th street, police said. A northbound taxi operated by David Oppenheimer, 45, of 88-06 Parsons boulevard, Queens, struck her in the roadway near the Columbia University station of the IRT subway, and knocked her into the path of another northbound cab driven by Elias Zaiontz, 22, of 1035 Freeman street, the Bronx, police said. Police booked both drivers on charges of vehicle homicide.

The automobile, mass-produced on assembly lines by Ford in 1903, inaugurated a revolution in modern life.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator was somewhat amused at the Wall Street Journal's cynical editorial retort upon the issuance of the Preident's annual economic report to the nation. Said the Journal: "The law calls for Mr. Truman to deliver this annual report to Congress. That is the only excuse we can see for it."

There is some reason to be cynical about the report because it was so mightily charged with politics and delusions. For example, the report begins with this amazing sentence: "The past year has been marked by great gains in our basic economic strength."

Well, you and I know that if the word "economic" is changed to "military" we might agree with the assertion. But to claim that our economic strength shows great gains is, of course, plainly an illusion.

We have built up, by government military orders, an industrial machine that is only working at top productive capacity because of the demands made upon it by government. If you wish to measure our economic strength by a government-supported arms program, then you might use the President's opening assertion, but the Ruminator doesn't think many conservative people would go along with you on such an analysis.

So, we find ourselves up against the old story of the New Deal, the war years, and the Fair Deal: Deficit financing to underwrite the government program.

And to add insult to injury we find ourselves in an election year When Nobody Will Want to Save Money. One or two voices in Congress will be raised to cut down expenses, but by and large Congressmen will be thinking of next November and not of the time farther ahead when the Piper will come around to be paid off.

Already we hear Congressmen shouting "no additional taxes." We have to agree with them on that! But we do not hear the essential demand for cutting expenses.

At the moment, therefore, the outlook is for a whopping addition to the public debt—and the danger that entails on the value of our money.

So let us turn the President's remark around and write it as it should be written: "The past year has been marked by great gains in loose fiscal management on the part of the government."

There is an interesting psychological sidelight to the reckless financial joy ride we are indulging in. (And when I say "we" I mean both government and the people, because extravagance and loose money policies on the part of the government find reflection in the acts of we the people. Everyone is throwing money around with abandon, and buying unneeded things.)

To get back to the psychological sidelight — in recent years there has developed a general sentiment that we might term a "depression overhanging us." That is, everyone is continually looking for a "depression next year." This has gone on now for several years. The sentiment set in before the war ended (because people had always heard of a post-war depression). The strange part of this overhanging fear is that it continues with us, regardless of prevailing economic conditions.

At the moment, for instance, we read that when the arms program lets down "next year" then we shall have a depression. Well, we read the same thing in 1950 and in 1951. Back five years ago we used to write here about the "much-advertised recession" that never came about.

I grant you that when we see the productive capacities of America increased to such gigantic proportions one is justified in reasoning that ordinary demands would never keep this production machine going at capacity; that when the arms program is dropped, industries will have to cut back drastically, causing unemployment and the other ills of a slump.

However, this viewpoint loses track of a number of "ifs." In the first place, there is no possibility that the arms program will be dropped "next year." In the second place, consumer demands conceivably will be curtailed in the months ahead and future demands thereby increased. Thirdly, the population is leaping upwards.

And lastly, we do not have the foggiest notion of what will occur in the year or two years ahead. There is nothing you can definitely count on. We are building a huge army to forestall Russia's "marching westward to the sea." Yet, for all we know, Russia has no intentions in the west and her strategy may be to take over in Asia and the middle-east.

The only sure thing you can count on is that we shall not be able to make any accurate forecasts for a long time to come. We'll have to live day to day and like it!

VA Officials Remind Vets to Check Benefits

Failure to recognize a service connected disability and ignorance of the fact that the Veterans Administration will pay the doctor and hospital bill, has cost veterans of this area hundreds of dollars, Howard C. Shurter, director of the County Veterans' Service Agency and State Veteran Counselor Donald G. Moore revealed today.

Shurter and Moore said that they have learned that many veterans in this area have been paying such medical expenses out of their own pockets when all such costs as medical and hospital expenses growing out of a service connected disability will be met by the Veterans Administration.

Veterans with service connected disabilities who have not taken advantage of this federal benefit and veterans whose disability status is uncertain should contact the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main street, Kingston for complete advice and assistance in securing their entitlements. There are also branch offices of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency in Highland, Ellenville, Kerhonkson and Saugerties.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

LEGISLATORS HAVE ONE CHOICE

President Truman is now on the record as wanting $5 billion in new taxes, but surely he nor anyone else is under the illusion Congress will vote such levies in an election year.

Indeed, it will be a surprise if any new taxes are voted at all. Democratic tax leaders in both houses already have declared it unlikely.

Mr. Truman, in his economic message to Congress, sought to strike fear in congressional hearts by predicting that the federal deficit for the coming fiscal year would be $16 billion unless new levies are imposed.

He said federal spending in the year ahead will run from $85 billion to $90 billion.

There's no question these are frightening figures. For the current fiscal year outlays are expected to hit $71 billion, with the deficit at $8 billion, and those totals are bad enough.

But it's still a very difficult thing to scare a congressman sufficiently to convince him he should raise taxes in a year when he faces the voters.

The lawmakers, of course, have their alternative: to cut expenses down. They speak of this necessity in loud tones. The trouble is, they seldom do anything about it except where foreign aid funds are concerned. They are aware that Europeans do not vote in American polling booths.

Yet if serious additions to the national debt are not to follow, it will take more than foreign aid savings to get us into sound financial shape. This is where the congressmen come smack up against it.

The alternatives to new taxes are either reduction of spending or a debt increase that might have a ruinous inflationary effect.

The opportunity to save has confronted congressmen for three years. The Hoover Commission's notable plans for reorganizing the federal government are little more than half in operation.

The portions not yet adopted involve some of the biggest spenders among the government agencies—the Interior and Agriculture Departments, the Veterans Administration, the Army Engineers.

These are the sacred cows of government, the agencies with lots of money and jobs, both of which temptations are distributed conveniently throughout the country. Few lawmakers can bring themselves to vote economy when it may mean chopping off funds or jobs in their own districts.

New taxes vs. job-slashing economy: No more uncomfortable choice could be given a legislator in campaign season. But if the lawmakers duck it this time, they may soon find the national debt soaring toward a third of a trillion dollars. And they may then wake up to the fact that they are not evading trouble, but just postponing it.

NO SNAIL INVASION

The snail is not a particularly lovable creature. When a great number of green-colored ones of golf-ball size appeared in a lake in Central Park, New Yorkers were justifiably concerned. They were not immediately identified, and it was feared that they might be the first echelon of an invasion of a foreign variety. Snails can be a threat to farmers; it is said that some varieties can eat an entire head of lettuce in a single day. Considering the size of most snails this statement, if true, marks them as greedy creatures. A Brussels sprout would seem a sufficient meal.

The snails were later identified as members of a common American variety, and everyone can be glad except the small boys who would like new snails for their collections.

Inflation is not really such a complicated matter. A dollar simply doesn't go as far as it did ten years ago, but it gets there quicker.

The person who complains that he never gets what is coming to him may be lucky after all. He might not like it a bit.

There are said to be ten million chronic snorers in the United States. Out of sight is not always out of sound.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE SOLDIER'S REPUBLIC

It is fascinating to note how often the course of history moves in identical directions centuries apart. The Roman Republic, for instance, was jealously civilian, the Senate controlling policy and governing the soldier. It was the veterans of Rome's various wars who, in the end, so weakened the civilian authority and the economy of the republic that it led to monarchy and decay.

The generals, in time, took control, made themselves Caesars and emperors, killed each other, and made their capitals on the Danube and Euphrates rather than in Rome. Even in the time of the Stoic Emperor, Marcus Aurelius, the veterans had to be conciliated. Of this, Jacob Burckhardt, in his remarkable study of Rome, entitled "The Age of Constantine the Great," says:

". . . Marcus acquiesced in the traditional abuse of bestowing a huge donative upon the army at his accession, and to such a degree that each soldier (at least those of the Guard) acquired a fortune, and that the soldiers thereafter regarded that amount as a norm. . . ."

This norm had constantly to be raised. The soldiers and veterans asked for more, until there was no more to be got. The Guards would kill an emperor because a usurper promised them more. For instance, Pertinax (193) was acknowledged emperor by the soldiers and Senate. He was murdered, after donating a huge sum to the Guards. But that did not help him, for one Didius Julianus, described as a rich fool, offered in excess of $1,000 per soldier. He had a few wonderful weeks and then he too was killed in favor of the highest bidder.

The United States has had few professional military men as President, the foremost being General Ulysses S. Grant, whose administration was a failure. It is an error to speak of George Washington as a soldier in any professional sense. He was a surveyor and land-owner. When he became Commander-in-Chief of the Revolutionary Army, he was a civilian with rudimentary experience in the French and Indian War.

This country has, in the past, avoided a permanent professional army which might have done for us what the overpowering force of militarism did to Rome at the beginning of the Christian Era, and what militarism in modern times did to Germany, Japan, and some South American countries.

In the time of the Emperor Severus, "when peace was restored at home it became apparent that the military rule, with its necessary corollary of foreign war, had become an end in itself. . . ."

The military man interprets loyalty differently from the civilian. The military man, for success, requires personal loyalty, whereas the civilian is loyal to a country, a flag, a constitution, an ideal. The military man is trained to command; the civilian to consultation.

Further, the soldier is accustomed to the trappings of his craft, to rigid ceremonials. There are no Harrys and Bobs among soldiers. It is the salute and attention even among cronies. Soldiers are always on parade. And, in time, the simplicities of the Roman civilian life disappeared and in their place came the rigidities of the camp. So that by the time of Diocletian, the soldier became a satrap. Of him, it is said:

". . . Instead of the simple purple with which almost all his predecessors (excepting only the mad emperors) had been content, Diocletian wore, after 293, silk and gold-embroidered garments, and even his shoes were decorated with precious stones and pearls; upon his head he wore a diadem, a white band set with pearls. Naturally, these were the official vestments in which he appeared only on ceremonial occasions . . . access to his sacred person was daily rendered more difficult by elaborations of ceremonial . . ."

This story can be told wherever soldiers prevailed politically. Genghis Khan was a simple herdsman from near Lake Baikal who lived in a yurt, but his successors, Ogatai Khan and Kublai Khan, lived in Oriental splendor and ceremony which were a far cry from their origin. Even Napoleon, the Corsican, learned how to strut his position.

The civilian knows when his day is done and he is reduced to simple citizenship, often to obscurity. Herbert Hoover and even Harry Truman could understand that. When Al Smith ceased to be a Presidential candidate, he used to say that he became a janitor; that is, he ran the Empire State Building. Wendell Willkie rejected obscurity and therefore fought the inevitable until his death.

All this points up any way you choose. History does not occur to teach a moral; yet, some read one into its patterns.

WHEN TO REMOVE TONSILS

Once a year I write about infected tonsils and how they can cause rheumatism and heart disease.

Unfortunately, patients and some physicians have confused large tonsils with infected tonsils, which means that these large tonsils, with no infection present, have been removed without helping the condition for which they were removed.

At a time when infection of tonsils, gums and teeth are not considered by some physicians as causes of various ailments—rheumatism, heart disease, kidney, liver and intestinal disease—while an equal number from long and dramatic experience have found the removal of infection has cured the majority of their cases, it is well to have the advice of a high authority on removal of tonsils.

In Postgraduate Medicine, Dr. Francis L. Lederer, professor and head of the Department of Otolaryngology (ear and throat) states that not so very long ago it was considered sound for physicians to advise their patients that the tonsils served no useful purpose and that they were a potential threat to good health and emphasized the close relationship between large and presumably infected tonsils. The tonsils were therefore better out than in.

Today we know that Nature wants healthy tonsils, even if large, left in the troat to fight off diseases of infancy and childhood, causing the tonsils to disappear gradually at teen age in most cases.

General rules suggested by Dr. Lederer as to when tonsils should be removed are:

1. Frequent attacks of acute tonsilitis with fever, fatigue, difficult breathing.
2. Recurring attacks of peritonsillar abscess (quincy).
3. Recurring or persistent swelling of glands of the neck.
4. Great enlargement of tonsils and (or) adenoids, producing mechanical obstruction to breathing or swallowing and causing alteration in speech.

Other conditions, which, added up, even if the above four conditions are not present, taken in a general sense which justify removal of tonsils are: (1) Repeated sore throats. (2) Unexplained fevers. (3) Dry tickling or spasmodic cough. (4) Chronic otorrhea or repeated attacks of series otitis media (chronic running ear). (5) Failure of the child to gain weight. (6) Diphtheria carriers. (7) Frequent and continuous head colds with mucus containing pus. (8) Diseased tonsils.

The tonsils should not be removed when (1) the patient is less than 3 years (preferable age is 5 to 6), (2) when acute local fever is present, albumin in urine or infectious diseases are present, (3) conditions where general anaesthetic is risky.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—If the King Committee looks into the income-tax case of Iowa's Gov. William Beardsley, it will find some interesting buck passing between the Justice Department and the Treasury.

The Treasury frequently complains that it sends tax-fraud cases to Justice, then Justice twiddles its fingers, fails to prosecute. But in the case of the governor of a state, it looks as if neither wanted to prosecute.

At any rate, before the Treasury sent the tax fraud of Gov. Beardsley to Justice, T-men phoned the Justice Department's tax division, asked whether Justice would prosecute a governor. Justice lawyers replied they would make no commitment, would look at the case, then decide.

So Treasury sent the case to Justice—"without recommendation." Justice tax attorneys, then under Lamar Caudle, took a look, tentatively decided for prosecution. Caudle agreed.

Later Caudle was ousted, and the Iowa governor's case was referred to Attorney General McGrath himself. He made a quick check, found this was the first time in 11 years the Treasury had sent a case to Justice "without recommendation." So McGrath decided he wasn't going to be the first A. G. in 11 years to be put on the spot. He sent the case back to the Treasury with a brief note: "What is your recommendation?"

African Holiday

If your the son of a general in the army engineers, you can get a summer vacation in Morocco—all expenses paid by the taxpayers.

At least that's what happened to the 20-year-old son of Maj. Gen. J. Stewart Bragdon, just before he retired as Deputy Chief of Army Engineers. The son became a $460-per-month "inspector" on an army engineer project in French Morocco; stayed just long enough for a summer vacation.

Curious fact is that young J. Stewart Bragdon, Jr., did not apply for the job. Word was passed to the contractor to hire him—a "recommendation" from the Mills Company to Atlas Constructors building air bases in French Morocco for the army engineers.

Atlas Constructors immediately took the hint and wrote a nice letter to the general's son at the University of Virginia.

"Mr. Ralph Mills has advised us that you are interested in employment on our project when your school term is over," formally wrote L. W. Sproat, Atlas personnel director. "I would appreciate your advising me of your availablity date and would like also a resume of the work you have done in the past in order that I can best place you in our organization."

However, the general's son had no past construction experience. So the company simply labeled him "inspector," put him on the payroll at $400 per month, beginning June 17 with transportation, meals en route and medical expenses paid by Uncle Sam via the company.

Part of young Bragdon's salary was withheld to pay his fare home. Sure enough, just before the fall school term, Bragdon quit and was flown home. However, the full amount of the plane ticket hadn't been deducted from his pay, so Atlas was forced to make up the difference. As a result, Bragdon still owes Atlas—and the taxpayers—$179.85.

It's a cheap way to finance an overseas trip, if your dad happens to be an important general in the army engineers.

Senators Eye Oil

Senators didn't expect their remarks to leak into print when they talked about oil leases behind closed doors the other day. However, here is what they said at a private session of the Senate Interior Committee:

1. Sen. Jim Murray, Montana Democrat, wanted to know whether senators could claim a share in Indian oil rights by being adopted into the tribe.

2. Sen. Clint Anderson, New Mexico Democrat, sharply criticized the Interior Department for giving away oil leases by drawing names out of a hat.

The oil question was raised by Montana's meek, GOP Sen. Zales Ecton, who observed: "As you know, we discovered oil in Montana and it is on Indian lands up there, and Senator Murray and I have been besieged by the Indians on every hand to get these leases out and jarred loose."

But Murray seemed more interested in whether senators adopted into an Indian tribe as a political stunt might be eligible for some of the Indians' oil.

"I wonder," mused Murray, "if this committee would have any jurisdiction over this question of whether or not it is proper for us to be adopted into the Indian tribes up there and become eligible for some rights in connection with this oil?"

"You want to be adopted there?" asked Chairman Joe O'Mahoney, Wyoming Democrat.

"We have already been adopted," explained Murray.

"Senator, I don't believe they discovered oil since you and I have been adopted in those particular tribes," suggested Ecton. And the subject was dropped.

Leases in a Hat

New Mexico's Senator Anderson then broke in with his complaint about the oil-lease lottery.

"May I just burst out here now and say I think the drawing they had at Santa Fe was the most disgraceful thing that the Department of Interior has conducted for a long time," he protested. "Unquestionably, the government could have gotten millions of dollars for leases put up for sale.

"One filling-station operator at Santa Fe drew two numbers out of the hat for leases," added Anderson. "Strangely, the men knew in advance that they were the good pieces of ground, and this filling-station operator has two $20,000 leases just by having the numbers picked out of the hat. I think that is going pretty far." The New Mexico senator demanded that the Interior Department "be required to come up here and tell us whether this is a modern, progressive way of handling oil."

"I think," he snorted, "if they did the same thing for the Indians in Montana, it would be terrible."

Chairman O'Mahoney promptly agreed that he "would be disposed to call upon the Interior Department to come up and report to us both with respect to the handling of these new Indian lands and the system mentioned by Senator Anderson."

Mass Jump Slated

Camp Drum, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—Paratroopers assigned to "Exercise Snowfall" are scheduled to rehearse their winter maneuver roles in mass jumps Friday and Saturday. A camp spokesman said yesterday about 500 members of the 11th Airborne Division would hit the silk in each of four flights, one in the morning and one in the afternoon of each day. The jumps will be made on the camp reservation, about a mile south of the village of Philadelphia. The paratroopers will be flown in C-46 and C-119 transport planes of the 18th Air Force Troop Carrier Command.

Murray Writes to Humphrey Regarding Red Conspiracy Legislation Affecting Labor

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 23 — Philip Murray, president of the CIO, has attempted to discourage Congress from enacting legislation that would emancipate American workers from the conspiracies of the Communists, who take control of key unions in the United States as a part of their plot to dominate the course of labor-management relations in vital industries.

Mr. Murray, in writing to Senator Humphrey, Democrat, of Minnesota, who heads a subcommittee which is studying the question, says that there should not be any legislation affecting the bargaining rights of Communist-controlled unions except after a showing that it is "vitally necessary to our national safety," and he adds: "We do not believe any such showing has been made."

This is virtually a challenge to the subcommittee to demonstrate by testimony what has been happening in Communist-controlled unions in recent years in this country. Mr. Murray asks where is the danger against which Congress seeks to legislate, and then says:

It is the possibility that a union may seek to instigate a work stoppage, not to rectify the just grievances of the workers, but to hamper production for our defense program and thus to aid Soviet Russia. But there has been no evidence of a single such stoppage despite a year and a half of the war in Korea and an even longer period of the cold war."

Has Mr. Murray overlooked the copper strike which has caused such a shortage of copper as to cut down auto production and cause tens of thousands of members of the CIO Auto Workers' Union to walk the streets of Detroit seeking employment? Or has Mr. Murray overlooked the costly dock strikes conducted by unions with Communist influences in them, thus delaying important shipments of goods?

The truth is that, while Mr. Murray claims that the CIO is ridding itself of Communists and has them on the run, the record of what has happened since the charges were preferred against CIO unions shows that there has not been as much alertness or vigilance as he would like to believe has prevailed.

Thus it took from March 1944—when the House Un-American Activities Committee, after lengthy hearings, published its first report citing 24 CIO unions as under Communist influence—until the CIO convention of 1949 to get eight of these unions expelled. Why did it take five years?

During a large part of those same five years, and in fact until 1948, Mr. Murray had at his side as general counsel a member of the Communist party—Lee Pressman—who did not confess until August 28, 1950, that he had been a party member. He stated that he had broken with the party only about thirty days before he made his confession to the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Everybody knows that a general counsel sits in on important policy matters and advises on many questions affecting constituent unions.

The House committee called attention in 1944 to the fact that 18 of the 49 CIO executive board members had Communist records.

Now it is assumed that the CIO has completely purged itself of all such influences, but can it be said that the interests of the United States would not have been better protected if there had been legislation which would have assisted the CIO in getting rid of Communist-controlled unions sooner?

Today the Communists can enjoy collective-bargaining rights in their respective unions. Congress is considering a change in that privilege. Mr. Murray says Communists swear falsely to non-Communist affidavits or they administer union affairs through "fronts" and hence, he argues, the Taft-Hartley provisions requiring anti-Communist affidavits from union officers are no good. What he is saying in effect is that, because persons conspiring to violate the laws of the United States are for the moment not being detected, it serves no useful purpose to have such laws on the statute books.

If the CIO record were one of having dealt promptly with charges of Communist infiltration, its advice not to pass any new laws might have greater weight. But having been soiled with Communist infiltration and having been gullible and having been deceived by Communists before the CIO should be among the forefront of those who are advocating adequate safeguards against Communist conspirators who capture American labor union through an abuse of collective-bargaining privileges.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Luxembourg, Jan. 22—I arrived in Luxembourg after dark by automobile from Paris and found three rooms reserved in the grand Hotel Brasseur with a big pitcher of pink tulips in the bedroom and a blooming pink azalea on a table in the sitting-room. The room between is a sort of dressing-room with a balcony overlooking the corner of the main street where the Luxembourg Super-Chief goes by morning and evening. The Super-Chief has a dinky engine which tinkles and squeals on the curve, a miniature box-car and two grimy, little, hard passenger cars originally painted cream and blue.

Starting on the 22nd, there will be a great national gala in honor of the 57th birthday of her royal highness, Grand Duchess Charlotte, including public festivities for the common people who seem to love her in the innocent, unbelievable, old-fashioned storybook way. These public exercises will wind up in a cortege, as they call it, with floats, masks, music, antics and all that sort of business. But the spirit of the occasion is a composition of personal loyalty, patriotism and innocent gaiety hardly touched with commerce.

Examining the cards on the flowers in my quarters and on a bunch of blue hot-house grapes the size of new potatoes, with a gold label on the stem, I learned that they were the gifts of Mrs. Perle Mesta, the minister of the United States, the heroine of the musical comedy "Call Me Madam" and a friend of Harry Truman and of Ethel Merman who plays Madam La Minister in the show. The theme song of "Call Me Madam" is "I'm the Hostess With the Mostes' on the Ball." Madam La Minister did not go to the opening in New York but she did go one afternoon quite a while later, with Mrs. Truman and Margaret, who gets a robustious rousting in one scene where Ethel grabs a gold telephone in the American Legation and yells, "Hello, Har-ee-ee! How's it going with Margaret? Huh? Do you mean to tell me they have got critics in Peoria?"

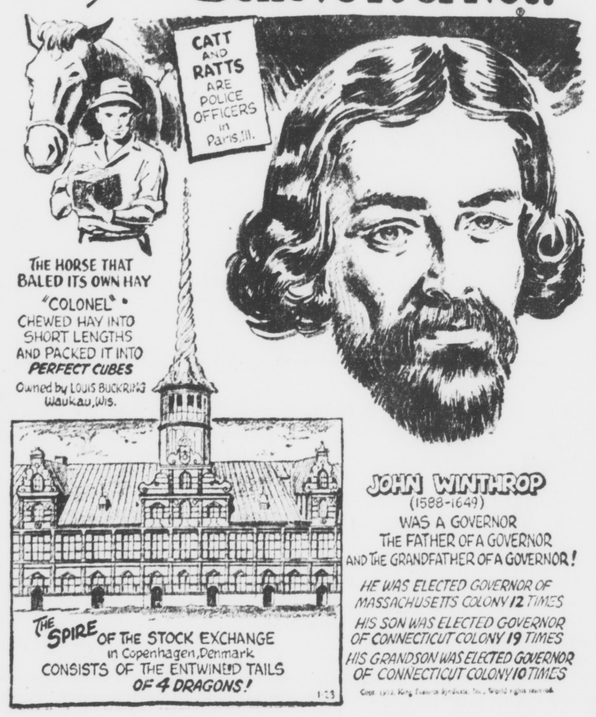

Truman, who has the gangster's touchiness about his child, burned to a cinder over this but Madam Minister said she and the President's wife and daughter all enjoyed the show. This called for some endurance on Perle's part because it depicts her as a loud, vulgar American parvenue of the old-time burlesque version who nevertheless endears herself to the population of a paraphrase version of Luxembourg and to its officials and the ruling family. Mrs. Mesta says she and Ethel Merman are friends. She quite honestly confirms that fantastic situation in the show where the presentation of the new American lady minister to the Luxembourg foreign minister is delayed for an embarrassing interlude because she got mixed up and went to Belgium instead of Luxembourg. The way of it, however, was not that the Hostess with the Mostes' On the Ball, confused Luxembourg and Belgium but merely that she accepted an offer of guidance from a newspaper man on the assignment who had his own car and said he knew the way but made a wrong turn and led her excellency into the wrong country.

I have been almost entirely in the hospitable custody of Madam La Minister for three days and was guest of honor, if I may say so as a professional statement, at a state dinner in which she presented me in terms so complimentary that Har-ee-ee, if he hears the text, will fire her by phone. In this prejudicial atmosphere I have formed an opinion that Mrs. Mesta has endeared herself to the commonality of Luxembourg and at least ingratiated herself with the official list, although not necessarily with our State Department. In the streets, people, especially women, start at the sight of her big Cadillac (and this will raise the devil with the Lincoln-Ford outfit) and their faces come alight with smiles which, in my judgment, express friendship and pleasure, not supercilious amusement. In a large tea and pastry shop or restaurant, called Namur's, where the luxury is startling by comparison with the proud, sad self-denial of England and the abundance of rich candy stirs strange feelings vis-a-vis the Russian menace, a normal five o'clock clientele of local women noted her presence with a stir of glances and subdued comments and seemed to me to be friendly toward her.

The prime minister, Pierre Dupong, also has seen "Call Me Madam" and to the surprise of some of his colleagues liked it because it depicted Luxembourg as a proud, self-reliant little nation of stout people who turned down the Marshall Plan notwithstanding

President Truman is now on the record as wanting $5 billion in new taxes, but surely he nor anyone else is under the illusion Congress will vote such levies in an election year.

Indeed, it will be a surprise if any new taxes are voted at all. Democratic tax leaders in both houses already have declared it unlikely.

Mr. Truman, in his economic message to Congress, sought to strike fear in congressional hearts by predicting that the federal deficit for the coming fiscal year would be $16 billion unless new levies are imposed.

He said federal spending in the year ahead will run from $85 billion to $90 billion.

There's no question these are frightening figures. For the current fiscal year outlays are expected to hit $71 billion, with the deficit at $8 billion, and those totals are bad enough.

But it's still a very difficult thing to scare a congressman sufficiently to convince him he should raise taxes in a year when he faces the voters.

The lawmakers, of course, have their alternative: to cut expenses down. They speak of this necessity in loud tones. The trouble is, they seldom do anything about it except where foreign aid funds are concerned. They are aware that Europeans do not vote in American polling booths.

Yet if serious additions to the national debt are not to follow, it will take more than foreign aid savings to get us into sound financial shape. This is where the congressmen come smack up against it.

The alternatives to new taxes are either reduction of spending or a debt increase that might have a ruinous inflationary effect.

The opportunity to save has confronted congressmen for three years. The Hoover Commission's notable plans for reorganizing the federal government are little more than half in operation.

The portions not yet adopted involve some of the biggest spenders among the government agencies—the Interior and Agriculture Departments, the Veterans Administration, the Army Engineers.

These are the sacred cows of government, the agencies with lots of money and jobs, both of which temptations are distributed conveniently throughout the country. Few lawmakers can bring themselves to vote economy when it may mean chopping off funds or jobs in their own districts.

New taxes vs. job-slashing economy: No more uncomfortable choice could be given a legislator in campaign season. But if the lawmakers duck it this time, they may soon find the national debt soaring toward a third of a trillion dollars. And they may then wake up to the fact that they are not evading trouble, but just postponing it.

NO SNAIL INVASION

The snail is not a particularly lovable creature. When a great number of green-colored ones of golf-ball size appeared in a lake in Central Park, New Yorkers were justifiably concerned. They were not immediately identified, and it was feared that they might be the first echelon of an invasion of a foreign variety. Snails can be a threat to farmers; it is said that some varieties can eat an entire head of lettuce in a single day. Considering the size of most snails this statement, if true, marks them as greedy creatures. A Brussels sprout would seem a sufficient meal.

The snails were later identified as members of a common American variety, and everyone can be glad except the small boys who would like new snails for their collections.

Inflation is not really such a complicated matter. A dollar simply doesn't go as far as it did ten years ago, but it gets there quicker.

The person who complains that he never gets what is coming to him may be lucky after all. He might not like it a bit.

There are said to be ten million chronic snorers in the United States. Out of sight is not always out of sound.

THE SOLDIER'S REPUBLIC

It is fascinating to note how often the course of history moves in identical directions centuries apart. The Roman Republic, for instance, was jealously civilian, the Senate controlling policy and governing the soldier. It was the veterans of Rome's various wars who, in the end, so weakened the civilian authority and the economy of the republic that it led to monarchy and decay.

The generals, in time, took control, made themselves Caesars and emperors, killed each other, and made their capitals on the Danube and Euphrates rather than in Rome. Even in the time of the Stoic Emperor, Marcus Aurelius, the veterans had to be conciliated. Of this, Jacob Burckhardt, in his remarkable study of Rome, entitled "The Age of Constantine the Great," says:

". . . Marcus acquiesced in the traditional abuse of bestowing a huge donative upon the army at his accession, and to such a degree that each soldier (at least those of the Guard) acquired a fortune, and that the soldiers thereafter regarded that amount as a norm. . . ."

This norm had constantly to be raised. The soldiers and veterans asked for more, until there was no more to be got. The Guards would kill an emperor because a usurper promised them more. For instance, Pertinax (193) was acknowledged emperor by the soldiers and Senate. He was murdered, after donating a huge sum to the Guards. But that did not help him, for one Didius Julianus, described as a rich fool, offered in excess of $1,000 per soldier. He had a few wonderful weeks and then he too was killed in favor of the highest bidder.

The United States has had few professional military men as President, the foremost being General Ulysses S. Grant, whose administration was a failure. It is an error to speak of George Washington as a soldier in any professional sense. He was a surveyor and land-owner. When he became Commander-in-Chief of the Revolutionary Army, he was a civilian with rudimentary experience in the French and Indian War.

This country has, in the past, avoided a permanent professional army which might have done for us what the overpowering force of militarism did to Rome at the beginning of the Christian Era, and what militarism in modern times did to Germany, Japan, and some South American countries.

In the time of the Emperor Severus, "when peace was restored at home it became apparent that the military rule, with its necessary corollary of foreign war, had become an end in itself. . . ."

The military man interprets loyalty differently from the civilian. The military man, for success, requires personal loyalty, whereas the civilian is loyal to a country, a flag, a constitution, an ideal. The military man is trained to command; the civilian to consultation.

Further, the soldier is accustomed to the trappings of his craft, to rigid ceremonials. There are no Harrys and Bobs among soldiers. It is the salute and attention even among cronies. Soldiers are always on parade. And, in time, the simplicities of the Roman civilian life disappeared and in their place came the rigidities of the camp. So that by the time of Diocletian, the soldier became a satrap. Of him, it is said:

". . . Instead of the simple purple with which almost all his predecessors (excepting only the mad emperors) had been content, Diocletian wore, after 293, silk and gold-embroidered garments, and even his shoes were decorated with precious stones and pearls; upon his head he wore a diadem, a white band set with pearls. Naturally, these were the official vestments in which he appeared only on ceremonial occasions . . . access to his sacred person was daily rendered more difficult by elaborations of ceremonial . . ."

This story can be told wherever soldiers prevailed politically. Genghis Khan was a simple herdsman from near Lake Baikal who lived in a yurt, but his successors, Ogatai Khan and Kublai Khan, lived in Oriental splendor and ceremony which were a far cry from their origin. Even Napoleon, the Corsican, learned how to strut his position.

The civilian knows when his day is done and he is reduced to simple citizenship often to obscurity. Herbert Hoover and even Harry Truman could understand that. When Al Smith ceased to be a Presidential candidate, he used to say that he became a janitor; that is, he ran the Empire State Building. Wendell Willkie rejected obscurity and therefore fought the inevitable until his death.

All this points up any way you choose. History does not occur to teach a moral; yet, some read one into its patterns.

WHEN TO REMOVE TONSILS

Once a year I write about infected tonsils and how they can cause rheumatism and heart disease.

Unfortunately, patients and some physicians have confused large tonsils with infected tonsils, which means that these large tonsils, with no infection present, have been removed without helping the condition for which they were removed.

At a time when infection of tonsils, gums and teeth are not considered by some physicians as causes of various ailments—rheumatism, heart disease, kidney, liver and intestinal disease—while an equal number from long and dramatic experience have found the removal of infection has cured the majority of their cases, it is well to have the advice of a high authority on removal of tonsils.

In Postgraduate Medicine, Dr. Francis L. Lederer, professor and head of the Department of Otolaryngology (ear and throat) states that not so very long ago it was considered sound for physicians to advise their patients that the tonsils served no useful purpose and that they were a potential threat to good health and emphasized the close relationship between large and presumably infected tonsils. The tonsils were therefore better out than in.

Today we know that Nature wants healthy tonsils, even if large, left in the throat to fight off diseases of infancy and childhood, causing the tonsils to disappear gradually at teen age in most cases.

General rules suggested by Dr. Lederer as to when tonsils should be removed are:

1. Frequent attacks of acute tonsilitis with fever, fatigue, difficult breathing.

2. Recurring attacks of peritonsillar abscess (quincy).

3. Recurring or persistent swelling of glands of the neck.

4. Great enlargement of tonsils and (or) adenoids, producing mechanical obstruction to breathing or swallowing and causing alteration in speech.

Other conditions, which, added up, even if the above four conditions are not present, taken in a general sense which justify removal of tonsils are: (1) Repeated sore throats. (2) Unexplained fevers. (3) Dry tickling or spasmodic cough. (4) Chronic otorrhea or repeated attacks of series otitis media (chronic running ear). (5) Failure of the child to gain weight. (6) Diphtheria carriers. (7) Frequent and continuous head colds with mucus containing pus. (8) Diseased tonsils.

The tonsils should not be removed when (1) the patient is less than 3 years (preferable age is 5 to 6), (2) when acute local fever is present, albumin in urine or infectious diseases are present, (3) conditions where general anaesthetic is risky.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—If the King Committee looks into the income-tax case of Iowa's Gov. William Beardsley, it will find some interesting buck passing between the Justice Department and the Treasury.

The Treasury frequently complains that it sends tax-fraud cases to Justice, then Justice twiddles its fingers, fails to prosecute. But in the case of the governor of a state, it looks as if neither wanted to prosecute.

At any rate, before the Treasury sent the tax fraud of Gov. Beardsley to Justice, T-men phoned the Justice Department's tax division, asked whether Justice would prosecute a governor. Justice lawyers replied they would make no commitment, would look at the case, then decide.

So Treasury sent the case to Justice — "without recommendation." Justice tax attorneys, then under Lamar Caudle, took a look, tentatively decided for prosecution. Caudle agreed.

Later Caudle was ousted, and the Iowa governor's case was referred to Attorney General McGrath himself. He made a quick check, found this was the first time in 11 years the Treasury had sent a case to Justice "without recommendation." So McGrath decided he wasn't going to be the first A. G. in 11 years to be put on the spot. He sent the case back to the Treasury with a brief note: "What is your recommendation?"

African Holiday

If your the son of a general in the army engineers, you can get a summer vacation in Morocco—all expenses paid by the taxpayers.

At least that's what happened to the 20-year-old son of Maj. Gen. J. Stewart Bragdon, just before he retired as Deputy Chief of Army Engineers. The son became a $400-per-month "inspector" on an army engineer project in French Morocco; stayed just long enough for a summer vacation.

Curious fact is that young J. Stewart Bragdon, Jr., did not apply for the job. Word was passed to the contractor to hire him—a "recommendation" from the Mills Company to Atlas Constructors building air bases in French Morocco for the army engineers.

Atlas Constructors immediately took the hint and wrote a nice letter to the general's son at the University of Virginia.

"Mr. Ralph Mills has advised us that you are interested in employment on our project when your school term is over," formally wrote L. W. Sproat, Atlas personnel director. "I would appreciate your advising me of your availability date and would like also a resume of the work you have done in the past in order that I can best place you in our organization."

However, the general's son had no past construction experience. So the company simply labeled him "inspector," put him on the payroll at $400 per month, beginning June 17 with transportation, meals en route and medical expenses paid by Uncle Sam via the company.

Part of young Bragdon's salary was withheld to pay his fare home. Sure enough, just before the fall school term, Bragdon quit and was flown home. However, the full amount of the plane ticket hadn't been deducted from his pay, so Atlas was forced to make up the difference. As a result, Bragdon still owes Atlas—and the taxpayers—$179.85.

It's a cheap way to finance an overseas trip, if your dad happens to be an important general in the army engineers.

Senators Eye Oil

Senators didn't expect their remarks to leak into print when they talked about oil leases behind closed doors the other day. However, here is what they said at a private session of the Senate Interior Committee:

1. Sen. Jim Murray, Montana Democrat, wanted to know whether senators could claim a share in Indian oil rights by being adopted into the tribe.

2. Sen. Clint Anderson, New Mexico Democrat, sharply criticized the Interior Department for giving away oil leases by drawing names out of a hat.

The oil question was raised by Montana's meek, GOP Sen. Zales Ecton, who observed: "As you know, we discovered oil in Montana and it is on Indian lands up there, and Senator Murray and I have been besieged by the Indians on every hand to get these leases out and jarred loose."

But Murray seemed more interested in whether senators adopted into an Indian tribe as a political stunt might be eligible for some of the Indians' oil.

"I wonder," mused Murray, "if this committee would have any jurisdiction over this question of whether or not it is proper for us to be adopted into the Indian tribes up there and become eligible for some rights in connection with this oil?"

"You want to be adopted there?" asked Chairman Joe O'Mahoney, Wyoming Democrat.

"We have already been adopted," explained Murray.

"Senator, I don't believe they discovered oil since you and I have been adopted in those particular tribes," suggested Ecton. And the subject was dropped.

Leases in a Hat

New Mexico's Senator Anderson then broke in with his complaint about the oil-lease lottery.

"May I just burst out here now and say I think the drawing they had at Santa Fe was the most disgraceful thing that the Department of Interior has conducted for a long time," he protested. "Unquestionably, the government could have gotten millions of dollars for leases put up for sale.

"One filling-station operator at Santa Fe drew two numbers out of the hat for leases," added Anderson. "Strangely, the men knew in advance that they were the good pieces of ground, and this filling-station operator has two $20,000 leases just by having the numbers picked out of the hat. I think that is going pretty far."

The New Mexico senator demanded that the Interior Department "be required to come up here and tell us whether this is a modern, progressive way of handling oil."

"I think," he snorted, "if they did the same thing for the Indians in Montana, it would be terrible."

Chairman O'Mahoney promptly agreed that he "would be disposed to call upon the Interior Department to come up and report to us both with respect to the handling of these new Indian lands and the system mentioned by Senator Anderson."

Mass Jump Slated

Camp Drum, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—Paratroopers assigned to "Exercise Snowfall" are scheduled to rehearse their winter maneuver roles in mass jumps Friday and Saturday. A camp spokesman said yesterday about 500 members of the 11th Airborne Division would hit the silk in each of four flights, one in the morning and one in the afternoon of each day. The jumps will be made on the camp reservation, about a mile south of the village of Philadelphia. The paratroopers will be flown in C-46 and C-119 transport planes of the 18th Air Force Troop Carrier Command.

Murray Writes to Humphrey Regarding Red Conspiracy Legislation Affecting Labor

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 23 — Philip Murray, president of the CIO, has attempted to discourage Congress from enacting legislation that would emancipate American workers from the conspiracies of the Communists, who take control of key unions in the United States as a part of their plot to dominate the course of labor-management relations in vital industries.

Mr. Murray, in writing to Senator Humphrey, Democrat, of Minnesota, who heads a subcommittee which is studying the question, says that there should not be any legislation affecting the bargaining rights of Communist-controlled unions except after a showing that it is "vitally necessary to our national safety," and he adds: "We do not believe any such showing has been made."

This is virtually a challenge to the subcommittee to demonstrate by testimony what has been happening in Communist-controlled unions in recent years in this country. Mr. Murray asks where is the danger against which Congress seeks to legislate, and then says:

It is the possibility that a union may seek to instigate a work stoppage, not to rectify the just grievances of the workers, but to hamper production for our defense program and thus to aid Soviet Russia. But there has been no evidence of a single such stoppage despite a year and a half of the war in Korea and an even longer period of the cold war."

Has Mr. Murray overlooked the copper strike which has caused such a shortage of copper as to cut down auto production and cause tens of thousands of members of the CIO Auto Workers' Union to walk the streets of Detroit seeking employment? Or has Mr. Murray overlooked the costly dock strikes conducted by unions with Communist influences in them, thus delaying important shipments of goods?

The truth is that, while Mr. Murray claims that the CIO is ridding itself of Communists and has them on the run, the record of what has happened since the charges were preferred against CIO unions shows that there has not been as much alertness or vigilance as he would like to believe has prevailed.

Thus it took from March 1944—when the House Un-American Activities Committee, after lengthy hearings, published its first report citing 24 CIO unions as under Communist influence—until the CIO convention of 1949 to get eight of these unions expelled. Why did it take five years?

During a large part of those same five years, and in fact until 1948, Mr. Murray had at his side as general counsel a member of the Communist party—Lee Pressman—who did not confess until August 28, 1950, that he had been a party member. He stated that he had broken with the party only about thirty days before he made his confession to the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Everybody knows that a general counsel sits in on important policy matters and advises on many questions affecting constituent unions.

The House committee called attention in 1944 to the fact that 18 of the 49 CIO executive board members had Communist records.

Now it is assumed that the CIO has completely purged itself of all such influences, but can it be said that the interests of the United States would not have been better protected if there had been legislation which would have assisted the CIO in getting rid of Communist-controlled unions sooner?

Today the Communists can enjoy collective-bargaining rights in their respective unions. Congress is considering a change in that privilege. Mr. Murray says Communists swear falsely to non-Communist affidavits or they administer union affairs through "fronts" and hence, he argues, the Taft-Hartley provisions requiring anti-Communist affidavits from union officers are no good. What he is saying in effect is that, because persons conspiring to violate the laws of the United States are for the moment not being detected, it serves no useful purpose to have such laws on the statute books.

If the CIO record were one of having dealt promptly with charges of Communist infiltration, its advice not to pass any new laws might have greater weight. But having been soiled with Communist infiltration and having been gullible and having been deceived by Communists before the CIO should be among the forefront of those who are advocating adequate safeguards against Communist conspirators who capture American labor union through an abuse of collective-bargaining privileges.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Luxembourg, Jan. 22—I arrived in Luxembourg after dark by automobile from Paris and found three rooms reserved in the grand Hotel Brasseur with a big pitcher of pink tulips in the bedroom and a blooming pink azalea on a table in the sitting-room. The room between is a sort of dressing-room with a balcony overlooking the corner of the main street where the Luxembourg Super-Chief goes by morning and evening. The Super-Chief has a dinky engine which tinkles and squeals on the curve, a miniature box-car and two grimy, little, hard passenger cars originally painted cream and blue.

Starting on the 22nd, there will be a great national gala in honor of the 57th birthday of her royal highness, Grand Duchess Charlotte, including public festivities for the common people who seem to love her in the innocent, unbelievable, old-fashioned storybook way. These public exercises will wind up in a cortege, as they call it, with floats, masks, music, antics and all that sort of business. But the spirit of the occasion is a composition of personal loyalty, patriotism and innocent gaiety hardly touched with commerce.

Examining the cards on the flowers in my quarters and on a bunch of blue hot-house grapes the size of new potatoes, with a gold label on the stem, I learned that they were the gifts of Mrs. Perle Mesta, the minister of the United States, the heroine of the musical comedy "Call Me, Madam" and a friend of Harry Truman and of Ethel Merman who plays Madam La Minister in the show. The theme song of "Call Me Madam" is "I'm the Hostess With the Mostes' on the Ball." Madam La Minister did not go to the opening in New York but she did go one afternoon quite a while later, with Mrs. Truman and Margaret, who gets a robustious roasting in one scene where Ethel grabs a gold telephone in the American Legation and yells, "Hello, Har-ee-ee! How's it going with Margaret? Huh? Do you mean to tell me they have got critics in Peoria?"

Truman, who has the gangster's touchiness about his child, burned to a cinder over this but Madam Minister said she and the President's wife and daughter all enjoyed the show. This called for some endurance on Perle's part because it depicts her as a loud, vulgar American parvenue of the old-time burlesque version who nevertheless endears herself to the population of a paraphrase version of Luxembourg and to its officials and the ruling family. Mrs. Mesta says she and Ethel Merman are friends. She quite honestly confirms that fantastic situation in the show where the presentation of the new American lady minister to the Luxembourg foreign minister is delayed for an embarrassing interlude because she got mixed up and went to Belgium instead of Luxembourg. The way of it, however, was not that the Hostess with the Mostes' On the Ball, confused Luxembourg and Belgium but merely that she accepted an offer of guidance from a newspaper man on the assignment who had his own car and said he knew the way but made a wrong turn and led her excellency into the wrong country.

I have been almost entirely in the hospitable custody of Madam La Minister for three days and was guest of honor, if I may say so as a professional statement, at a state dinner in which she presented me in terms so complimentary that Har-ee-ee, if he hears the text, will fire her by phone. In this prejudicial atmosphere I have formed an opinion that Mrs. Mesta has endeared herself to the commonality of Luxembourg and at least ingratiated herself with the official list, although not necessarily with our State Department. In the streets, people, especially women, start at the sight of her big Cadillac (and this will raise the devil with the Lincoln-Ford outfit) and their faces come alight with smiles which, in my judgment, express friendship and pleasure, not supercilious amusement. In a large tea and pastry shop or restaurant, called Namur's, where the luxury is startling by comparison with the proud, sad self-denial of England and the abundance of rich candy stirs strange feelings vis-a-vis the Russian menace, a normal five o'clock clientele of local women noted her presence with a stir of glances and subdued comments and seemed to me to be friendly toward her.

The prime minister, Pierre Dupong, also has seen "Call Me Madam" and to the surprise of some of his colleagues liked it because it depicted Luxembourg as a proud, self-reliant little nation of stout people who turned down the Marshall Plan notwithstanding

ScoutReportShows Gains for Year '51

At the regular monthly meeting of the executive board of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, held last night at the Fair Street Reformed Church in Kingston, a formal year-end report was given by George V. Dennis, scout executive. This report showed that the Council had ended the year with a gain of four units and 237 boys over 1950. The 1951 long-term camping record shows 261 different boys for a total of 363 boy-weeks; another gain over the 1950 figures.

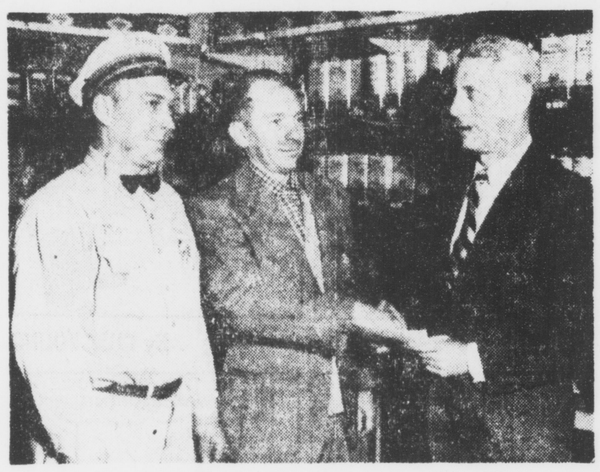

The percentage of trained unit leaders increased from 17 per cent to 33 per cent; a result of the well conducted and attended training courses held this fall. A total of 573 Cub Scout achievements were earned and recorded during the year and 1,128 Boy Scout rank advancements were earned together with 500 Merit badges. The commissioner staff has increased from 5 to 14 men, which will mean more and better service to all units and institutions. At the end of the year 177 boys or 44 per cent of the council membership are subscribing to Boys' Life—the Boy Scout magazine.

1952 goals and plans for achieving them have been set by each district in the council and approved by the executive board. If these goals are met, the council will increase by 12 packs and 13 troops and over 400 boys in 1952. At least six different training courses will be conducted during the year. Long-term camping goals show 275 different boys for 400 boy-weeks at the council camp alone. The goal for the council camporee to be held in June is 500 scouts and explorers from at least 40 troops.

Advancement goals show at least 75 per cent of all Cub Scouts achieving a rank during the year and 55 per cent of all Boy Scouts climbing the Scout advancement ladder at least one rung. The commissioner staff will increase until no commissioner will have no more than three units to service. All units will hold a charter review and re-register on time.

Council President George B. Matthews of Kingston, presided at the executive board meeting. Val Morrow, council commissioner of Maplecrest, reported on the council and district activities planned for the 42nd anniversary week Feb. 6-2. The newest Eagle Scout in the council, Joseph Thurin of Troop 3, told of his adventures in obtaining the top rank in scouting. Edward West of Allaben presented on behalf of the County American Legion, a "Good Citizenship" citation to Eagle Scout Thurin.

"Please comment on a situation that stirred us up recently," requests a Winnetka reader. "The discard pile was born frozen because the first card turned up was a red three. Both sides needed 120 points to meld.

"At my first turn I put down a red three. After a few rounds of play, I discarded a singleton queen, which gave the pack, including the red three, to our opponents.

"My partner, at his next turn, put down two red threes from his hand, commenting that he had held them in his hand to prevent our opponents from knowing how valuable the pack was to us.

"If we had obtained the discard pile, we would have melded all four red threes, instead of only three. The extra red three was worth 500 points to us.

"I claim that in the first place he was obliged by the rule of the game to put down the red threes as soon as he could.

"Morever, I think his strategy was very poor. If I had known how valuable the pack was, I would not have discarded that singleton queen. I could have discarded safely, but had no way of knowing that the pack was so important.

"Who is right?"

It is considered highly unethical to break a rule of the game deliberately no matter how clever it may be and regardless of whether or not you are willing to pay the penalty prescribed by the rulebook.

In this case, the rule is clear. You are obliged, by the rules, to put a red three down on the table as soon as your turn comes. The rule says that you are not allowed to keep a red three in your hand.

You can't break a rule simply because you think you will gain an advantage thereby. It's a matter of right and wrong, not a matter of advantage or disadvantage.

Every game has its own code of ethics, to be sure, and not everybody knows exactly what the code is. In the game of poker you can get away with much more than in Canasta or bridge.

But once you know the code you have to stick to it. Otherwise, people won't play with you; and there's no fun and no sense in playing Canasta all by yourself.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—A Republican assemblyman urges overhauling of the state alcoholic Beverage Control law to throw out what he calls "arbitrary regulations which encourage political influence to seep into" its administration. Assemblyman Anthony P. Savarese, Jr., of Queens proposed yesterday that a joint legislative committee be set up to study and revise the ABC law. Savarese said that "proper and equitable administration is not entirely possible under the present law." He said the law, when adopted in 1934, was "one of the finest of its type in the entire country," but that it had become a "patchwork of repealers and amendments."

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—Legislation to speed up bus service for school children in New York city was sponsored today by Queens Republicans. One bill would require that bus service be supplied for third-grade pupils who live one-half mile or more from their school. Such transportation now is provided only for children in kindergarten and the first two grades. The second bill would direct that all eligible pupils be carried to and from school within 15 minutes of the time their classes begin and end.

ScoutReportShows Gains for Year '51

At the regular monthly meeting of the executive board of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, held last night at the Fair Street Reformed Church in Kingston, a formal year-end report was given by George V. Dennis, scout executive. This report showed that the Council had ended the year with a gain of four units and 237 boys over 1950. The 1951 long-term camping record shows 261 different boys for a total of 363 boy-weeks; another gain over the 1950 figures.

The percentage of trained unit leaders increased from 17 per cent to 33 per cent; a result of the well conducted and attended training courses held this fall. A total of 573 Cub Scout achievements were earned and recorded during the year and 1,128 Boy Scout rank advancements were earned together with 500 Merit badges. The commissioner staff has increased from 5 to 14 men, which will mean more and better service to all units and institutions. At the end of the year 477 boys or 44 per cent of the council membership are subscribing to Boys' Life—the Boy Scout magazine.

1952 goals and plans for achieving them have been set by each district in the council and approved by the executive board. If these goals are met, the council will increase by 12 packs and 13 troops and over 400 boys in 1952. At least six different training courses will be conducted during the year. Long-term camping goals show 275 different boys for 400 boy-weeks at the council camp alone. The goal for the council camporee to be held in June is 500 scouts and explorers from at least 40 troops.

Advancement goals show at least 75 per cent of all Cub Scouts achieving a rank during the year and 55 per cent of all Boy Scouts climbing the Scout advancement ladder at least one rung. The commissioner staff will increase until no commissioner will have no more than three units to service. All units will hold a charter review and re-register on time.

Council President George B. Matthews of Kingston, presided at the executive board meeting. Val Morrow, council commissioner of Maplecrest, reported on the council and district activities planned for the 42nd anniversary week Feb. 6-2. The newest Eagle Scout in the council, Joseph Thurin of Troop 3, told of his adventures in obtaining the top rank in scouting. Edward West of Allaben presented on behalf of the County American Legion, a "Good Citizenship" citation to Eagle Scout Thurin.

Awarded Defense Bond

Girl—Mother, what is meant by the Progressive party?

Mother—Why, it's one of those parties where all the partners change after every hand.

There is money in it for the man who can invent bedclothes that cannot be set on fire by dropping a lighted cig in a bed.

Young Woman—What was the use of the eclipse?

Professor—Oh, it gave the sun time for reflection.

Since postal deliveries have been cut to only one a day, correspondence school courses have been extended to eight year courses!

Driver—Sorry, I'm pretty deaf.

Traffic Cop—Well don't worry. You'll get your hearing in the morning.

Joe—Lend me your blue pants tonight.

Jeff—Can't. I've got a date, and they're my best pants.

Joe—I've got a date too, and I have no other pants around because I counted on wearing yours.

Jeff—Sorry, I need 'em myself.

Joe—If you don't lend 'em to me our friendship is over.

Jeff—Then I guess it's over. I can go more places without your friendship than without my pants.

Producer—These love scenes are rotten. Can't the leading man act as if he were in love with the star?

Director—Can't act at all. Trouble is, he is in love with her.

"This may hurt you a little" said the absent minded dentist as he handed the patron his bill.

As Pegler Sees It

Merman's insistent song "Do You Want Any Money Today?" Mr. Dupong had difficulty getting seats and apparently never thought of trying the State Department or the press agent. He finally made it unobtrusively through friends who probably went to the gyps. He thought the piece was, on the whole, one to endear the people of Luxembourg to the Americans and the comic high spot was the bit where the American senator on a junket to Luxembourg pinched one of the local belles at the garden party and made her squawk.

Shot over and terribly shot up, and sitting in a spot where she will inevitably catch the ultimate hell of religious, cultural and moral extinction if the Russian war comes, Luxembourg nevertheless has rebuilt herself almost entirely and is prosperous and thrifty. Two young women have told me that one must not worry but must enjoy every hour. One of them said that if she lived in New York she would not dread the atom bomb but would hope it would kill her and her child instantly. The other, a beautiful girl who helped a detachment of American soldiers in a village called Fouhren in the Battle of the Bulge, spoke almost tearfully of a brave young man, Nogarten or Norgarten, who volunteered to leave the shelter of a battered house and expose himself in order to fire on the Germans because he was the only member of the squad who wasn't married. Is soldier Nogarten or Norgarten listening?

Insurance for Skiers

Sun Valley, Idaho (AP)—If you're going on a skiing vacation it would be a good idea to take out accident insurance, says Fred A. Picard, technical adviser to the U. S. Women's Olympic skiing team. Picard believes skiing isn't any more dangerous than taking a bath but many skiers are careless. Most accidents in skiing happen when the skier is overtired and tries to do what he isn't ready for yet.

Kingston Banks To Handle Funds

Woodstock, Jan. 22—At a meeting of the Woodstock Town Board, Monday night in the Town Hall, a resolution was passed that the board designate the State of New York National Bank of Kingston, as the depository for the funds of the supervisor and town clerk of the Town of Woodstock. Highway funds will be deposited in the National Ulster County Bank of Kingston.

The resolution was presented by Joseph Fitzsimmons, justice of the peace.

Grant Elwyn, town clerk, was appointed to serve another two year term as registrar of vital statistics, in accordance with the requirements of a public health law.

A resolution was also passed that Kenneth Wilson, town supervisor, will be appointed welfare officer for the year 1952, an office which he will serve without pay.

Valentines Show

Woodstock, Jan. 22—An exhibition of valentines, old and recent, will open in the gallery of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, February 9. Florence Ballin Cramer, who is arranging the exhibition has announced that there will be no formal opening on that date owing to the uncertainty of weather conditions. The exhibition will remain on view until the end of February.

School Report Ready

Woodstock, Jan. 22—The auditor's report of School District No. 2, for 1949, 1950 and 1951 may be inspected by anyone. Copies of the report are at the Woodstock School and the office of Warren Hutty on Mill Hill road.

Plan Restaurant

Woodstock, Jan. 22—The piece of property on the corner of Tannery Brook road and Tinker street, next to the Village Kitchen, has been purchased from Fred Stern by Mrs. Galy Bagaec, of New York and Mrs. Cowan, who has been a summer resident here. Construction has already started on the building which will house a new restaurant and delicatessen scheduled for a spring opening. The contractor for the building is George Meyhew.

Bearsville Lodge Officers Installed

Woodstock, Jan. 23—On Friday evening, Jan. 18, at Bearsville Lodge I.O.O.F. 533, District Deputy Grand Master Winston Van Kleeck and staff, from Shokan Lodge installed the following officers for the current term at a semi-public installation: William Weirner, noble grand; Alfred Garnett, vice grand; Clifford Carnright, recording secretary; Harold Reynolds, treasurer; Paul Rowe, financial secretary; Oscar Shultz, warden; Eugene Hung, conductor; Clyde Elwyn, outside guardian; George Braendly, inside guardian; Oscar Lettel, right support to the noble grand; John Peper, left support to the noble grand; Shaffer Vredenburg, right support to the vice grand; Frank Tackella, left support to vice grand; Edgar Baker, chaplain; George Eichler, past grand; Albert Montgomery, right seam support; Chris Schwabe, left seam support.

District Deputy Grand Master Brown from Greene county was present and assisted with the installation. Other notables from Greene county were Harriet Thorne, past assembly marshal; Ella Rexford, noble grand of Eleanor Heermance Lodge; Alicia Brown, noble grand of Frances E. Willard Lodge. Olive Shultis, noble grand of Agapae Rebekah Lodge, Bearsville, was also present. The noble grand and party from West Saugerties Lodge also attended. After the meeting, which had a large attendance from Agapae Rebekah Lodge and friends, refreshments were served.

Pianist Will Speak On Radio Program

Woodstock, Jan. 22—Hanus A. Schimmerling, pianist, composer and choral director, who will be the guest speaker at the Parent-Teacher Association meeting, Thursday, Feb. 7, at the Woodstock School, will speak on the Municipal Broadcasting Station, WKNY, Friday, January 25, at 2 p. m. His subject will be The Folk Music of Czechoslovakia, which he will illustrate with his own accompaniments. Mrs. Louise Zemlinsky, voice teacher and coach, who is a summer resident of the Maverick road, will sing on the program.

Mr. Schimmerling, who was scheduled to speak on Slavonic folk music at the New Paltz State Teachers College, January 9, will present the program at the college Tuesday, Feb. 5, at 1:30 p. m.

Food Lockers Are Planned for Village

Woodstock, Jan. 23—Ground has just been broken for the construction of a building which will contain the first unit of freeze lockers in this village. The one-story structure, 33 by 55 feet, will adjoin the Nook which was recently purchased by William Hand, who will operate the freeze lockers.

Approximately 400 food lockers, of modern, up-to-date design, will be ready for rental on a yearly basis to the public in the spring, according to Hand.

The locker building will be of cement block construction with a colonial front which has been designed to blend with the general character of the village. The architect's plans have been submitted to a town planning board for final approval.

Hand has announced that the restaurant on the first floor of the Nook will continue as hertofore, but that the second floor of the building will be remodelled into offices and showrooms.

Huffine Poses for Pike Illustration in True

Woodstock, Jan. 23—The artist is John Pike, and the model is his cartoonist friend and Woodstock neighbor, Dave Huffine, who posed fo rthe portrait of a Scotsman in a double-page spread illustration in the February issue of True, the Man's Magazine. Pike's brilliant watercolor illustration for the article titled Superhighway Above the Clouds, by Charles F. Blair, Jr., depicts a Scotsman, wearing Huffine's profile, on "weather ship Jig" picking up Blair's plane on his radar. In a double exposure technique, Blair's plane is shown streaking across the foreground of the painting at 530 miles an hour.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Jan. 23 — Adam Graver left Tuesday to spend a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Harms of Palisades Park, N. J. Monday night Mrs. William Hutty, his niece, entertained at a dinner party for Mr. Graver and members of the family and several friends.

Woodstock, Jan. 22 — Mrs. Fanny Elwyn will celebrate her birthday tonight at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Carey, who are entertaining at a family party.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Barker have arrived from Yonkers and will make their home on Ohayo Mountain.

Leo Herbert spent the weekend with his family in Bearsville before going to Philadelphia where he is now with the tryout of a new show soon to be produced on Broadway.

Jerry Jerominek has gone to New York and will return Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parnet, son of Nat Parnet, have moved to their new home on Elwyn Lane, which they purchased through A. Floyd Simmons.

Mordy Berkowitz was in this village over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. William Andrau went to New York today for their final citizenship hearings. They were accompanied by Mrs. Orestes Cleveland who appeared as witness.

Mrs. Alexander Semmler will fly to Europe early in February to join her husband who is on a special mission for the U. S. government, making a survey of music being produced under the American occupation in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Dean Elwyn are vacationing in Sarasota, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Floyd Simmons and their son Allen will leave for Clearwater, Fla., Jan. 28, and will return to this village in March. Mr. and Mrs. William Klementis will leave in their car at the same time for Clearwater but expect to return in February.

Mrs. Henry Houst has received a letter from her daughter, Mrs. Roy Reynolds, who with her husband is now in Australia. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds had expected to return to this village for a visit in the near future, but the trip has been postponed.

Streamlined Walkie-Talkie

New York (AP)—Latest developments in the walkie-talkie of the type that came out of World War 2 for one-man radiocasting has resulted in considerable reduction in size. Not only has the weight been cut to 29 pounds with corresponding reduction in size, but the range been doubled.

Warning About Licenses

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—The State Motor Vehicle Bureau warned motorists again today that 1952 license tabs must be attached to automobiles by midnight, Jan. 31. The bureau said renewals had been running "substantially" below those of this period last year. The 1951 license plate must be left on motor vehicles this year. The small "52" renewal tab must be attached to the lower right corner of the rear 1951 plate.

Announcing the Golden Anniversary—

Cadillac

...WITH THE FINEST PERFORMANCE OF ALL TIME!

Featuring 3 of Cadillac's Greatest Engineering Achievements!

THE NEW 190 H. P. CADILLAC ENGINE

Here is the most powerful, the most durable, and the most efficient automotive engine ever offered in a Cadillac car. Its power increase alone is almost 20%—and its new four-throated carburetor, larger exhaust valves, wider exhaust ports and new dual exhaust system make this engine one of the most dynamic performers of all time.

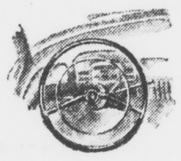

Fifty years ago, the first Cadillac car made its bow to the public. Today, as a fitting climax to those fifty years of progress, we are presenting in our showrooms the Golden Anniversary Cadillac—by far the finest car ever to bear this distinguished name. . . . It is easily the most beautiful of all Cadillacs. Numerous changes have sharpened and smartened the exterior design—while the wholly-new interiors are a revelation in comfort and luxury. . . . Performance is the finest of all time. The great Cadillac engine has a power increase of almost twenty per cent—and is even smoother and quieter in its operation. . . . There's a new Hydra-Matic Drive that gives the proper power application for every need. At a flick of the finger, you can have extra power and acceleration for city traffic and mountain driving—or wonderfully smooth, quiet, gas-saving performance for the open road. . . . And there's a new "power steering" mechanism, optional at extra cost, which reduces normal steering effort by as much as seventy-five per cent! . . . If ever it could be said of a car's performance that it is "out of this world," it can be said of the performance of the new Cadillac. The Golden Anniversary Cadillac is available in three series—the "Sixty-Two," the "Sixty Special" and the "Seventy-Five." . . . These new creations are now on display in our showrooms—and we invite you to see and inspect them at your earliest convenience.

THE NEW HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE

By introducing an entirely new performance range, Cadillac's Hydra-Matic provides the proper power for every need . . . extra acceleration and responsiveness for city and mountain driving; smooth, quiet, gas-saving performance for the open road. Optional at extra cost on Series 75. Standard equipment on all other models.

THE NEW CADILLAC POWER STEERING

This "power steering" mechanism eliminates as much as seventy-five per cent of all normal steering effort. It provides incredible handling ease, and yet does not interfere in any way with the driver's "road feel" or directional control. Available as an option at extra cost.

As Pegler Sees It

Merman's insistent song "Do You Want Any Money Today?" Mr. Dupong had difficulty getting seats and apparently never thought of trying the State Department or the press agent. He finally made it unobtrusively through friends who probably went to the gyps. He thought the piece was, on the whole, one to endear the people of Luxembourg to the Americans and the comic high spot was the bit where the American senator on a junket to Luxembourg pinched one of the local belles at the garden party and made her squawk.

Shot over and terribly shot up, and sitting in a spot where she will inevitably catch the ultimate hell of religious, cultural and moral extinction if the Russian war comes, Luxembourg nevertheless has rebuilt herself almost entirely and is prosperous and thrifty. Two young women have told me that one must not worry but must enjoy every hour. One of them said that if she lived in New York she would not dread the atom bomb but would hope it would kill her and her child instantly. The other, a beautiful girl who helped a detachment of American soldiers in a village called Fouhren in the Battle of the Bulge, spoke almost tearfully of a brave young man, Nogarten or Norgarten, who volunteered to leave the shelter of a battered house and expose himself in order to fire on the Germans because he was the only member of the squad who wasn't married. Is soldier Nogarten or Norgarten listening?

Insurance for Skiers

Sun Valley, Idaho (AP)—If you're going on a skiing vacation it would be a good idea to take out accident insurance, says Fred A. Picard, technical adviser to the U. S. Women's Olympic skiing team. Picard believes skiing isn't any more dangerous than taking a bath but many skiers are careless. Most accidents in skiing happen when the skier is overtired and tries to do what he isn't ready for yet.

Admiral Makes TV History Again with Spectacular New Features...Sensational Low Prices!

New tuning control panel of Admiral Television receiver with Radio

Now . . . brand new for '52! Another spectacular "first" from Admiral . . . the leader in television. Think of it! Television with radio built-in . . . both together in compact table models or consoles no bigger than required for television alone . . . both for less than other nationally advertised sets with television alone!

And what a radio! Its outstanding performance and superb tone is achieved in large measure by sharing circuits and precision engineered parts of Admiral's super-powered triple-X television chassis. Yes, built right into the television chassis, is a full size radio that brings in all standard broadcasts.

More than ever before you'll want a dependable radio handy to hear, as well as view on television, the history making events to be unfolded in this all-important election year. Many outstanding programs will be aired exclusively on radio. You won't want to miss them! With a new 1952 Admiral you can switch from television to radio in a flash.

New '52 Triple-X Chassis Revolutionizes Television Performance

Brand new and better than ever in '52 is Admiral's famous triple-X chassis . . . most powerful in television . . . now copper-clad for lifetime dependability. Most TV sets will give you a reasonably good picture these days. The real test of outstanding performance, however, is how close you can sit to the picture screen. With an Admiral you can sit as far, or as close, as you please and enjoy the sharpest, clearest pictures in television. That's why any room that will take a 9x12 rug is more than ample even for sets with Admiral's biggest-of-all 21" picture tube!

Gets UHF! No Converter Needed!

Hundreds of new UHF stations are promised for the coming months . . . several thousand will be on the air in the next year or two. You will be able to receive any and all of them with an Admiral . . . and without the use of an unsightly and costly outside or inside converter. That's because every Admiral television receiver is equipped with the built-in super turret tuner which provides for reception of new UHF stations by means of readily interchanged, inexpensive tuning strips.

New "Glare-Trap" Stops Reflections

Outstanding among Admiral's spectacular new features for '52 is a newly designed 21" all-glass tube with cylindrical face. Curved like a section of a giant drum standing on end, this brilliantly engineered picture tube completely rejects annoying reflections from room lights . . . provides 245 sq. inches of glare-free viewing surface. It's 20% bigger than a conventional 20" tube!

Other features for your viewing and listening pleasure include variable tone control for TV sound as well as radio . . . plug-in socket for record player . . . built-in directional Roto-Scope antenna . . . sensational cascode amplifier that makes possible amazing "fringe" area reception. Yes, feature for feature, Admiral television for '52 is engineered to outperform any set, anywhere, any time!

Greatest Values in Admiral History

Thirty-four brilliant new Admiral models are now in production...many of them already on display at your Admiral dealer...the greatest values in Admiral history. Think of it! An Admiral 17" table model with super-powered triple-X chassis for as little as $189.95*! A 17" half-door TV console with radio for $299.95*! A 20" table model priced as low as $239.95*! A brilliantly styled consolette with 21" cylindrical face picture tube and built-in radio for only $349.95*. Why settle for an obsolete, "carry-over" model even at a reduced price when you can get a brand new '52 Admiral with all the latest features, at the lowest prices in Admiral history!

Compare performance! Compare value! Compare features with this all important fact in mind. Every Admiral, beginning with the popular priced 17" table model at $189.95 has a built-in Roto-Scope antenna! Every Admiral features the super-powered triple-X chassis with full complement of tubes. Compare and your choice is certain to be Admiral television.

Slave-World of Narcotics

2: And They Can't Stop

By DON WHITEHEAD

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Uncounted thousands of teen-age boys and girls have walked into America's slave-world of narcotics looking for a momentary "thrill"—and found they are victims of a habit they cannot break.

Many enter this half-world with their eyes wide open, knowing full well the danger that is encased in a capsule of cocaine or heroin. They think they can get away with it without being "hooked."

But a youngster can become an addict in three days to six weeks after taking the first shot, fewer than one out of five, according to government hospital records, ever is cured of the habit once it takes hold. The agony of body and mind without narcotics is too much for most to bear.

To Crime, Otherwise

The road to addiction is well charted in the records of the U. S. Bureau of Narcotics and in revelations by the Senate's Crime Investigating Committee. Thousands of youngsters are on that road today which almost without fail leads to crime, prostitution and a useless and stupid life.

Almost in every case the young addict starts with marihuana cigarettes to get a thrill—to be one of the gang. Marihuana itself isn't a narcotic. But soon the kick in a marihuana cigarette isn't enough.

The next step usually is "snorting" (sniffing) cocaine or heroin—and then to "mainlining" (taking hypodermic injections directly into the blood stream).

Pattern Is Described

The teen-age pattern has been described to investigators by a young woman who was taken to a "reefer pad"—a marihuana party—by a girl friend in Baltimore, Md. There she was given her first "reefer" and later she told this story:

"We really did laugh and smoke and cry and dream. * * * there was plenty of music. Reefers make you like and just love music. Really they make you keen for music. They really increase your hearing so fine that you can pick out every note and then the right theme sort of gets in your joints and bloodstream. You cannot keep still; but, believe me, when it wears off, you droop, you get scared. I even saw shadows and things looked double. It gets my legs. They get slow.

'Oh, That Music'

"Then you grab and you grab for another stick (cigarette). I will tell you what my first stick did to me: water ran out of my eyes, I choked and coughed. I had a rush of funny feeling all over me, which made me very happy, and oh, that music. * * *

"Just when I was high, my girl friend told me to come up to the bathroom with her. I went. She got a mirror and emptied and spread one cap (capsule) of heroin on it. She took a razor blade and divided it into five even parts. This was a 5-grain cap of heroin. She gave me a straw and she had one. She snorted her three parts and I snorted the other two. This was my first heroin. It tasted something like quinine to me. It took a few minutes to act.

"I began vomiting. My stomach contracted and I had an awful pain.

And She Laughed

"* * * a week later I went back to my girl friend's house and I told her what happened and she laughed. I told her I didn't like it. But I tell you something within me made me go back.

"Her brother was there and he laughed, and then he said, 'you have not really had a kick. I will give you a real one much better than that.'

"He got out a hypo and a needle, and he told me to come in the kitchen. He fixed heroin in a cooker, filled the hypo and took my arm. This was my first shot.

"I vomited again but soon I felt a change. My face got slack. I looked in the mirror and saw my mouth was dropping. I began scratching my face and rubbing my nose. This feeling passed right into a feeling of elation. * * * it was swell. I got gay. Just everything was all right with me."

And so an addict was born into the world of physical and moral wrecks from which so few return.

'I Couldn't Stop'

One teen-age girl addict told senators: "I got to the point where I couldn't stop. I kept having sickness, headache, vomiting, swelling of the legs, eardrums beating, sweating, until there was nothing else I could do except continually keep on using it."

Another girl said: "It has made me lose interest in life itself. You know, when you are on that stuff you don't care what comes or goes or where you hurt or whatever you do. You just think about yourself."

And from the files of the U. S. Narcotics Bureau there is the typical story of a Chicago boy named Al who became an addict at 15:

Al attended high school where his friends smoked marihuana cigarettes. Al began smoking them, too, just for the sensation it gave him and to be one of the gang.

But after six months the "pot" (marihuana) wasn't enough. He wasn't getting the same lift and feeling of excitement he had experienced before. He complained about it to his friends.

"Why don't you try snorting?" one of them said. Others agreed it was the thing to do if he wanted a real "kick."

Expensive Stuff

So Al began snorting cocaine. It was expensive stuff, cocaine, smuggled into this country from abroad through the underworld that takes an estimated $182,000,000 a year from narcotics addicts.

Al needed at least $10 a day for his habit. He began stealing from his parents and then from others, pawning stolen goods for money with which to buy cocaine.

Then one day a dope peddler sold Al some heroin. He took it to the home of a friend who showed him how to "mainline" the dope into the veins of his arm. He had a tingling feeling all over his body. For a few hours he felt happy. All his frustrations faded away.

Al quit school. His friends taught him how to "boost"—to shop-lift in department stores to get the $10 to $20 a day he needed for dope.

The police caught him, of course, and sent him to jail. But he was out in a few months, back to the same old neighborhood, the same friends, the same environment—and the same slave-world of narcotics.

It was no trouble for Al to find the narcotics. In almost every city of any size in the country there are street peddlers waiting to keep Al and his kind supplied with narcotics—for a price.

(Tomorrow: The story of how narcotics agents trapped "Jim Yellow"—a big-time narcotics dealer.)

Plane Crash Kills Five at Miami

Miami, Fla., Jan. 23 (AP)—A privately-owned Lockheed Lodestar crashed and burned at Miami International Airport late yesterday and killed all five men aboard.

The plane belonged to Aerodex, Inc., a plane overhaul and maintenance firm with headquarters at the airport. All the victims worked for the company.

The plane, piloted by Benjamin Terry, 52-year-old vice president of the firm, lost altitude when its right engine failed shortly after taking off. Terry attempted to bring the ship in and crashed near a runway.

Port Director A. B. Curry said evidence indicated Terry may have sacrified his life and those of his passengers in a desperate gamble to avoid hitting two big transport planes that were loading at the busy terminal.

Polly Moran Is Ill

Hollywood, Jan. 23 (AP)—Polly Moran, who teamed with the late Marie Dressler in movie comedies during the 1930s, is hospitalized with a serious heart ailment. The 68-year-old actress was moved to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital last night from the Motion Picture Hospital at Calabrasas. She has been ill since last fall.

May Succeed Griffis

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Lincoln MacVeagh, American ambassador to Portugal, is reported to be slated to succeed Stanton Griffis as next envoy to Spain.

Marines to Meet

An important meeting of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the VFW home on Delaware avenue. All members are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

And then they yelled for Ballantine!

Said Annie, "Pardners, I agree,
So saddle up and follow me—

4
"For that jim-dandy flavor treat,
The top-notch beer that can't be beat!"

"She means It Tastes Better!"
Ballantine brews for flavor.
For lightness, yes.
For dryness, of course.
But first, last and always—
Ballantine brews for flavor!

Council to Take Up Vet Housing and New School Traffic

The Common Council will meet at 7:30 p. m., today in the council chamber, city hall, to act in behalf of the local veterans' temporary housing project in the Loughran Park area, and to consider traffic regulations in the vicinity of the new George Washington School.

The council must act before Feb. 1 in compliance with a state ruling that as it now stands will end such projects under state control by the first of next year. Cities must take over such projects if they are to continue beyond another year. It is possible, however, that the state may amend its recently announced order and extend the time limit.

The traffic proposals pertaining to the George Washington School area will probably be referred to the council's traffic control committee.

NEW STAR FOR DOUGHBOYS—The Army's Combat Infantryman Badge now has a star added, as above, to indicate that the wearer has earned it for the second time—in Korea in this instance. The blue and silver badge is given for satisfactory duty with an infantry regiment, or smaller unit, while that unit is engaged in active combat. New regulations call for adding a star for each badge earned after the initial award.

The flag was presented to the family of deceased by Chief Rohobaugh, assisted by Robert Walden, AOAN.

Train Service Case Evidence Continue

Further evidence was submitted Tuesday at a hearing in Albany before the Public Service Comission on the matter of discontinuing train service on the West Shore railroad between Weehawken and Albany. The matter had been adjourned from a hearing in Kingston in order that the railroad might submit additional figures on traffic and revenue.

Hearing Commissioner Williamson adjourned the matter until February 14 at 11 a. m. and also designated the following day as an open date in the event all of the evidence cannot be submitted on February 14.

At the hearing, which was devoted to taking of testimony on the part of the railroad, Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly represented the city; County Attorney Frederick Stang, the county. John Larkin appeared on behalf of Senator Arthur H. Wicks and William Stevens was counsel for the railroad. Richard Llope represented the Public Service Commission.

Proposal Is Studied

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—A proposal to expand the terse "wounded in action" notification given next-of-kin of casualties in the Korean war is being studied by the Defense Department, Rep. Steed (D-Okla.) said today. Steed said Secretary of Defense Lovett has asked the army, navy and air force for recommendations on two alternate proposals which he advanced: 1. A "follow-up" telegram to be dispatched as soon as the extent of injuries is determined. 2. Abolition of telegraphic notification and institution of an air mail service giving full details of the man's injuries and condition.

Carlsen Gets 'Blessing'

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Capt. Kurt Carlsen may return to the sea with the best wishes of the head of a coast guard board of inquiry which investigated the sinking of the freighter Flying Enterprise. Capt. Lewis Shackleford, presiding officer at the inquiry, told Carlsen yesterday he realized what he had been through and hoped his ordeal will not be repeated. Shackleford added: "Go back to the sea with my best wishes." Shackleford closed the hearing after Carlsen, of Woodbridge, N. J., had testified about the Flying Enterprise saga.

Proposals Are Submitted

London, Jan. 23 (AP)—Saudi Arabia's King Ibn Saud has submitted to Britain proposals designed to settle the bitter Anglo-Egyptian dispute over the Suez Canal and the Sudan. A foreign office spokesman said today the King handed the plan to the British ambassador to Saudi Arabia, G. C. Melham. Ibn Saud is reported to have outlined his proposals in messages about two weeks ago to Egypt's King Farouk and Egyptian Prime Minister Mahas Pasha.

Dewey Will Speak

Albany, Jan. 23 (AP)—Governor Dewey will make a "major" speech in New York city tomorrow night on American policy in the Far East. Dewey's secretary, James C. Hagerty, said today that the governor would "outline steps he believes our government should take immediately in the Far East to prevent another Korea in the Far East." Dewey will speak at the mid-winter meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board (Waldorf-Astoria).

Condition Is Good

Karl M. Nilsen, 24, a merchant seaman of New York, is in apparently good condition at the Kingston Hospital, authorities said today. He was injured last Thursday in an accident on the Thruway, about three miles north of Saugerties, the state police reported at the time.

Plead Guilty in Fix Try

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Selective buying maintained the stock market on a steady course today.

While recently active rails and some other leading sections of the list were either neglected or limited to narrow changes, a few favorites stepped out ahead with gains ranging to a dollar a share or more.

There were enough backward issues, however, to hold average prices just about at the 21-year high they reached on Tuesday.

The pace of trading slowed after an active opening, but flurries of demand for some radio-television and aircraft issues kept volume at a fairly good level.

Market analysts noted that after six successive advances, some profit-taking and consolidation of gains was to be expected. Some pointed out that the prospects of military spending and inflation remained unchanged as underlying influences on share trading.

Henry W. Bartsch, at transmitter, emergency coordinator of local Civilian Defense communications.

Plans Announced For CD Test Due Here Next Spring

Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, Kingston Civilian Defense director, met with his staff members at the city hall, Tuesday, to plan in detail the coordination of all branches of CD, stressing as the most important transportation and intercommunications to be utilized in all phases of operation in case of an attack.

It is planned to conduct a test raid in the spring, Davis said, to determine the efficiency and liaison of all departments within the organization.

Selected amatuer radio operators, organized for civil emergency service, are to serve at control centers, according to the plan and operate portable radio equipment for rescue work and other services.

Radio frequencies have been assigned for RACES, it was announced, and taxicabs equipped with radios will be useful as mobile communications disaster units, Davis said.

No Trace Found Of Alleged Thieves

Two men who reportedly robbed McCann's Highland Diner of about $600 early Tuesday morning were still at large today. No trace of the missing cash has been reported.

Investigation is still in progress, state police at Highland said. All area troopers were alerted immediately after the theft was reported at 7:20 a. m. Tuesday.

Edward Gibson, 40, night man at the diner, told troopers two men tied him in the kitchen and left with the cash box, containing between $600 and $700 in cash. They made a get-away in an automobile driven by a third man, Gibson said. State police said descriptions furnished by Gibson of the men and automobile were indefinite.

In Supreme Court Here Negligence Case Goes On

The $25,000 negligence action brought by Gertrude Damiano as administratrix of the estate of Jennie Vanderlyn, against Dr. Julius Blakley was continued today in Supreme Court. Plaintiff seeks to recover for the death of decedent who was injured in an accident on February 13, 1950, and from which she later died. Louis G. Bruhn appears for plaintiff and Hugh R. Elwyn for defendant.

There still remains a couple of additional cases which may be moved for trial before Justice Schirick adjourns the January term. Justice Schirick has canceled his reservations to attend the 75th annual meeting of the New York State Bar Association in New York in order to continue the term here.

Mysterious 'Al' Pays $500

Providence, R. I., Jan. 23 (AP)—George Saybol, 42, of Whitestone, L. I., alleged "money man" in the Rhode Island race-fixing scandal, and called a representatives of Al Mones, prominent Kingston, N. Y., bookmaker, was fined $500 and costs on one charge and given a suspended sentence on another by Judge John E. Mullen in Superior Court today. Saybol received a maximum two-year suspended state prison sentence with the maximum two years' probation. Saybol, who was indicted as "Al" because his identity was obscure at the time, was fined on a charge of corrupting jockey Pat Moore in a race at Narragansett Park Sept. 25, 1950, in which Moore rode a horse named Blunt, which, though a 9-5 favorite, ran fourth. Fazzano said Saybol allegedly paid Moore $1,000.

Blizzard Hits Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—A blizzard grounded airline flights in Buffalo today and cut visibility to less than a block on city streets. Winds averaged about 35 miles an hour, with gusts up to 50 miles. The snowfall was estimated at two to three inches at 10 a. m. The weather bureau said other sections of the state would be hit by nightfall.

Council to Take Up Vet Housing and New School Traffic

The Common Council will meet at 7:30 p. m., today in the council chamber, city hall, to act in behalf of the local veterans' temporary housing project in the Loughran Park area, and to consider traffic regulations in the vicinity of the new George Washington School.

The council must act before Feb. 1 in compliance with a state ruling that as it now stands will end such projects under state control by the first of next year. Cities must take over such projects if they are to continue beyond another year. It is possible, however, that the state may amend its recently announced order and extend the time limit.

The traffic proposals pertaining to the George Washington School area will probably be referred to the council's traffic control committee.

Until 1951, Nepal, on Tibet's southern border, had been governed by a hereditary prime minister for 104 years.

NEW STAR FOR DOUGHBOYS—The Army's Combat Infantryman Badge now has a star added, as above, to indicate that the wearer has earned it for the second time—in Korea in this instance. The blue and silver badge is given for satisfactory duty with an infantry regiment, or smaller unit, while that unit is engaged in active combat. New regulations call for adding a star for each badge earned after the initial award.

Train Service Case Evidence Continue

Further evidence was submitted Tuesday at a hearing in Albany before the Public Service Comission on the matter of discontinuing train service on the West Shore railroad between Weehawken and Albany. The matter had been adjourned from a hearing in Kingston in order that the railroad might submit additional figures on traffic and revenue.

Hearing Commissioner Williamson adjourned the matter until February 14 at 11 a. m. and also designated the following day as an open date in the event all of the evidence cannot be submitted on February 14.

At the hearing, which was devoted to taking of testimony on the part of the railroad, Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly represented the city; County Attorney Frederick Stang, the county. John Larkin appeared on behalf of Senator Arthur H. Wicks and William Stevens was counsel for the railroad. Richard Llope represented the Public Service Commission.

Proposal Is Studied

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—A proposal to expand the terse "wounded in action" notification given next-of-kin of casualties in the Korean war is being studied by the Defense Department, Rep. Steed (D-Okla.) said today. Steed said Secretary of Defense Lovett has asked the army, navy and air force for recommendations on two alternate proposals which he advanced: 1. A "follow-up" telegram to be dispatched as soon as the extent of injuries is determined. 2. Abolition of telegraphic notification and institution of an air mail service giving full details of the man's injuries and condition.

Carlsen Gets 'Blessing'

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Capt. Kurt Carlsen may return to the sea with the best wishes of the head of a coast guard board of inquiry which investigated the sinking of the freighter Flying Enterprise. Capt. Lewis Shackleford, presiding officer at the inquiry, told Carlsen yesterday he realized what he had been through and hoped his ordeal will not be repeated. Shackleford added: "Go back to the sea with my best wishes." Shackleford closed the hearing after Carlsen, of Woodbridge, N. J., had testified about the Flying Enterprise saga.

Proposals Are Submitted

London, Jan. 23 (AP)—Saudi Arabia's King Ibn Saud has submitted to Britain proposals designed to settle the bitter Anglo-Egyptian dispute over the Suez Canal and the Sudan. A foreign office spokesman said today the King handed the plan to the British ambassador to Saudi Arabia, G. C. Melham. Ibn Saud is reported to have outlined his proposals in messages about two weeks ago to Egypt's King Farouk and Egyptian Prime Minister Mahas Pasha.

Dewey Will Speak

Albany, Jan. 23 (AP)—Governor Dewey will make a "major" speech in New York city tomorrow night on American policy in the Far East. Dewey's secretary, James C. Hagerty, said today that the governor would "outline steps he believes our government should take immediately in the Far East to prevent another Korea in the Far East." Dewey will speak at the mid-winter meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board (Waldorf-Astoria).

Condition Is Good

Karl M. Nilsen, 24, a merchant seaman of New York, is in apparently good condition at the Kingston Hospital, authorities said today. He was injured last Thursday in an accident on the Thruway, about three miles north of Saugerties, the state police reported at the time.

Plead Guilty in Fix Try

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Selective buying maintained the stock market on a steady course today.

While recently active rails and some other leading sections of the list were either neglected or limited to narrow changes, a few favorites stepped out ahead with gains ranging to a dollar a share or more.

There were enough backward issues, however, to hold average prices just about at the 21-year high they reached on Tuesday.

The pace of trading slowed after an active opening, but flurries of demand for some radio-television and aircraft issues kept volume at a fairly good level.

Market analysts noted that after six successive advances, some profit-taking and consolidation of gains was to be expected. Some pointed out that the prospects of military spending and inflation remained unchanged as underlying influences on share trading.

Coordinator of CD Communications

Henry W. Bartsch, at transmitter, emergency coordinator of local Civilian Defense communications.

Plans Announced For CD Test Due Here Next Spring

Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, Kingston Civilian Defense director, met with his staff members at the city hall, Tuesday, to plan in detail the coordination of all branches of CD, stressing as the most important transportation and intercommunications to be utilized in all phases of operation in case of an attack.

It is planned to conduct a test raid in the spring, Davis said, to determine the efficiency and liaison of all departments within the organization.

Selected amatuer radio operators, organized for civil emergency service, are to serve at control centers, according to the plan and operate portable radio equipment for rescue work and other services.

Radio frequencies have been assigned for RACES, it was announced, and taxicabs equipped with radios will be useful as mobile communications disaster units, Davis said.

No Trace Found Of Alleged Thieves

Two men who reportedly robbed McCann's Highland Diner of about $600 early Tuesday morning were still at large today. No trace of the missing cash has been reported.

Investigation is still in progress, state police at Highland said. All area troopers were alerted immediately after the theft was reported at 7:20 a. m. Tuesday.

Edward Gibson, 40, night man at the diner, told troopers two men tied him in the kitchen and left with the cash box, containing between $600 and $700 in cash. They made a get-away in an automobile driven by a third man, Gibson said. State police said descriptions furnished by Gibson of the men and automobile were indefinite.

In Supreme Court Here Negligence Case Goes On

The $25,000 negligence action brought by Gertrude Damiano as administratrix of the estate of Jennie Vanderlyn, against Dr. Julius Blakley was continued today in Supreme Court. Plaintiff seeks to recover for the death of decedent who was injured in an accident on February 13, 1950, and from which she later died. Louis G. Bruhn appears for plaintiff and Hugh R. Elwyn for defendant.

There still remains a couple of additional cases which may be moved for trial before Justice Schirick adjourns the January term. Justice Schirick has canceled his reservations to attend the 75th annual meeting of the New York State Bar Association in New York in order to continue the term here.

Mysterious 'Al' Pays $500

Providence, R. I., Jan. 23 (AP)—George Saybol, 42, of Whitestone, L. I., alleged "money man" in the Rhode Island race-fixing scandal, and called a representatives of Al Mones, prominent Kingston, N. Y., bookmaker, was fined $500 and costs on one charge and given a suspended sentence on another by Judge John E. Mullen in Superior Court today. Saybol received a maximum two-year suspended state prison sentence with the maximum two years' probation. Saybol, who was indicted as "Al" because his identity was obscure at the time, was fined on a charge of corrupting jockey Pat Moore in a race at Narragansett Park Sept. 25, 1950, in which Moore rode a horse named Blunt, which, though a 9-5 favorite, ran fourth. Fazzano said Saybol allegedly paid Moore $1,000.

Blizzard Hits Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—A blizzard grounded airline flights in Buffalo today and cut visibility to less than a block on city streets. Winds averaged about 35 miles an hour, with gusts up to 50 miles. The snowfall was estimated at two to three inches at 10 a. m. The weather bureau said other sections of the state would be hit by nightfall.

Midwest Gets Real Winter Snow With Ice, Winds

(By The Associated Press)

Sub-zero cold spread over wide areas of the midwest today as wintry weather of snow, ice and strong winds hit areas from the Rockies to New England.

The Dakotas and western Minnesota dug out from a blizzard that nearly paralyzed transportation. Snowplow crews worked overnight in the biting cold to open the wind-drifted roads of packed snow in the blizzard belt.

It was 30 degrees below zero in Grand Forks, N. D., early today. Minnesota reported readings of -20 and it was -12 in Iowa. No immediate relief from the icy blasts was in prospect.

The Arctic air from western Canada that hit the northern Rockies and northern plains pushed across the mid-continent. It was cold southward to the Gulf of Mexico and eastward to the Appalachians.

There were snow flurries and strong winds over the Great Lakes region. Light snow fell from western Nebraska to parts of Wyoming, Montana and Idaho. Rain mixed with snow hit parts of Washington and Oregon.

Maine Has Snow

Snow and rain pelted the northeastern states yesterday. The snowfall measured three inches in northern Maine but the snow changed to rain in other parts of New England.

New York state reported a mixture of light snow, sleet and rain. Winds of 14 miles an hour, with gusts up to 32 mph, were reported in Buffalo.

A small tornado struck near Moultrie, in southern Georgia, last night, injuring eight persons, none seriously. The twister wrecked a score of homes.

Northern California was freeing itself from the worst snowstorm in a half century which hit the area earlier this month. But a forecast of warm rains appeared as possible threats to heavy runoffs from thaws in the snowpacked Sierras.

Delaney Convicted Of Taking Bribes

Boston, Jan. 23 (AP)—A federal jury last night convicted Denis W. Delaney, ousted Massachusetts Collector of Internal Revenue, on charges he accepted $7,500 in bribes and falsely certified payment of $180,000 in tax liens.

The jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated nine hours and 15 minutes before returning a verdict that Delaney was guilty of all six counts of two indictments.

Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., allowed Delaney to remain free in $2,500 pending his sentencing some time next week.

The 55-year-old Delaney faces maximum penalties of 18 years' imprisonment and fines of $37,500, and minimum penalties of six months' imprisonment.

Delaney Convicted

Delaney—the first top ex-official brought to trial in the current federal tax scandals—was convicted on the first count of the bribery indictment of accepting $2,500, on April 26, 1949, from Daniel Friedman, New York insurance man, to influence his action on taxes owed by Maxwell Shapiro and the Maxwell Shapiro Woolen Co., of Boston.

On the second count, he was convicted of taking another $2,500 bribe, on May 6, 1949, from Friedman in connection with the same case.

On the third count the jury found he took a $2,500 bribe on Aug. 11, 1949, also from Friedman in connection with taxes owed by the Massachusetts Steel Treating Corp. of Worcester.

On the second indictment Delaney was convicted on three counts of knowingly having false certificates filed Oct. 1, 1948, showing that $180,000 in tax liens had been paid.

The taxes involved Samuel and Eva Merker, Morris Leavitt and the Merker Counter Co., of Haverhill, which makes shoe parts.

Delaney was fired by President Truman last August and indicted on Sept. 16.

Papers Support Taft

Portland, Me., Jan. 23 (AP)—The Portland Press Herald, the Kennebec Journal of Augusta and the Waterville Sentinel announced today in page one editorials that they were supporting Senator Taft of Ohio for the Republican presidential nomination. The three newspapers are published by the Guy Gannett Publishing Co. The Portland Evening Express, another Gannett unit, has previously announced its preference for Taft. The newspapers said they were "convinced that the welfare of the United States will best be served by the election" of Taft to the presidency.

Midwest Gets Real Winter Snow With Ice, Winds

(By The Associated Press)

Sub-zero cold spread over wide areas of the midwest today as wintry weather of snow, ice and strong winds hit areas from the Rockies to New England.

The Dakotas and western Minnesota dug out from a blizzard that nearly paralyzed transportation. Snowplow crews worked overnight in the biting cold to open the wind-drifted roads of packed snow in the blizzard belt.

It was 30 degrees below zero in Grand Forks, N. D., early today. Minnesota reported readings of -20 and it was -12 in Iowa. No immediate relief from the icy blasts was in prospect.

The Arctic air from western Canada that hit the northern Rockies and northern plains pushed across the mid-continent. It was cold southward to the Gulf of Mexico and eastward to the Appalachians.

There were snow flurries and strong winds over the Great Lakes region. Light snow fell from western Nebraska to parts of Wyoming, Montana and Idaho. Rain mixed with snow hit parts of Washington and Oregon.

Maine Has Snow

Snow and rain pelted the northeastern states yesterday. The snowfall measured three inches in northern Maine but the snow changed to rain in other parts of New England.

New York state reported a mixture of light snow, sleet and rain. Winds of 14 miles an hour, with gusts up to 52 mph, were reported in Buffalo.

A small tornado struck near Moultrie, in southern Georgia, last night, injuring eight persons, none seriously. The twister wrecked a score of homes.

Northern California was freeing itself from the worst snowstorm in a half century which hit the area earlier this month. But a forecast of warm rains appeared as possible threats to heavy runoffs from thaws in the snowpacked Sierras.

Delaney Convicted Of Taking Bribes

Boston, Jan. 23 (AP)—A federal jury last night convicted Denis W. Delaney, ousted Massachusetts Collector of Internal Revenue, on charges he accepted $7,500 in bribes and falsely certified payment of $180,000 in tax liens.

The jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated nine hours and 15 minutes before returning a verdict that Delaney was guilty of all six counts of two indictments.

Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., allowed Delaney to remain free in $2,500 pending his sentencing some time next week.

The 55-year-old Delaney faces maximum penalties of 18 years' imprisonment and fines of $37,500, and minimum penalties of six months' imprisonment.

Delaney Convicted

Delaney—the first top ex-official brought to trial in the current federal tax scandals—was convicted on the first count of the bribery indictment of accepting $2,500, on April 26, 1949, from Daniel Friedman, New York insurance man, to influence his action on taxes owed by Maxwell Shapiro and the Maxwell Shapiro Woolen Co., of Boston.

On the second count, he was convicted of taking another $2,500 bribe, on May 6, 1949, from Friedman in connection with the same case.

On the third count the jury found he took a $2,500 bribe on Aug. 11, 1949, also from Friedman in connection with taxes owed by the Massachusetts Steel Treating Corp. of Worcester.

On the second indictment Delaney was convicted on three counts of knowingly having false certificates filed Oct. 1, 1948, showing that $180,000 in tax liens had been paid.

The taxes involved Samuel and Eva Merker, Morris Leavitt and the Merker Counter Co., of Haverhill, which makes shoe parts.

Delaney was fired by President Truman last August and indicted on Sept. 16.

Papers Support Taft

Portland, Me., Jan. 23 (AP)—The Portland Press Herald, the Kennebec Journal of Augusta and the Waterville Sentinel announced today in page one editorials that they were supporting Senator Taft of Ohio for the Republican presidential nomination. The three newspapers are published by the Guy Gannett Publishing Co. The Portland Evening Express, another Gannett unit, has previously announced its preference for Taft. The newspapers said they were "convinced that the welfare of the United States will best be served by the election" of Taft to the presidency.

Wins a Million

Al Jolson's widow, Mrs. Erle Jolson Krasna, and Attorney Charles Schwartz, executor of the mammy singer's four million dollar estate, sign a court-approved agreement in Los Angeles Jan. 22, under which she receives more than a million dollars as her community property settlement. Mrs. Krasna, 27, who married movie producer Norman Krasna in December, 1951, is already the beneficiary of a million dollar trust fund set up for her by Jolson. (AP Wirephoto).

Fire Company Gets Praise for Service To Kingston City

More than 100 members and guests attended the annual banquet of Rapid Hose Company No. 1, Tuesday evening in the dining hall of Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets, and heard speeches praising the volunteers for their service to the community.

Among those present were three of the oldest members in point of service, who can recall the early days of Rapid Hose and its fire fighting history, John Zeeh, Arthur VanDemark and Frank Myers.

Three members of the board of fire commissioners also were present, Charles Derrenbacher, who is vice president of Rapids; Frank E. Burr and Harold Van Bramer. Captin William Geary of the paid fire department was also among the guests.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk praised Rapid Hose Company for its service to the city over a long period of years, and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy joined him in the compliments.

Other speakers were the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, chaplain of the fire company, and pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, where the banquet was held, and President Joseph Bruck, president of the company, who announced that a ladies auxiliary is in the process of organization.

Dancing was enjoyed at the engine house on Hone street, after the meal, with music by the Catskill Mountaineers.

More than 280,000 eggs have been taken from a half-pound perch.

The westward movements of wool spinners began in 1825, with the opening of the Erie Canal.

Miss Eula Quick Is Wed to Ennis Thorne

Miss Eula Quick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Quick of Pautaukunk, was married to Ennis Thorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorne of Clintondale, at the Modena Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Inbler officiated.

The bridal gown was of Skinner satin, ballerina length, edged in apple blossoms, with a fingertip veil, falling from a tight fitting cap, also edged in apple blossoms. The bride carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Joyce Quick was her sister's only attendant. Her gown closely matched that of the bride, except that it was in blue Skinner satin. She carried yellow carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother, Melvin Thorne of Clintondale.

After a small reception, the couple left for a honeymoon in New York city. For traveling, Mrs. Thorne chose a gray and black checked suit with black accessories and wore a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Thorne is employed by the New York and New Haven Railroad.

GUESTS SHOULD CONTRIBUTE

If you want to sit next to each other, why ever go out? This in part answers the following question: "Will you please tell me why you say it is incorrect for husbands and wives to be seated next to each other at a dinner party? I enjoy my husband's company very much and certainly prefer to sit next to him rather than someone I find an utter bore."

When you accept an invitation you are expected to contribute something to the party given by your host or hostess, and if you simply want to six next to your own husband and talk to him, you are contributing nothing. Furthermore, to sit next to each other is certainly not broadening to your own horizons. Smoking at Table

Dear Mrs. Post: Do you consider it polite for a man to reach for one of the lighted candles on a dining table in a private house to light his cigarette?

Answer: It is quite proper if the candle is without a shade, which, of course, would make it completely impractical. In any case, the real question of politeness is whether the hostess permits smoking at her table or not. If others are smoking and no lighters or matches are passed to him, it is entirely commonplace behavior. On the other hand, if no one is smoking, to take cigarettes out of his own pocket and then help himself to the light of a candle would, in the house of a host or hostess who does not encourage smoking, be the extreme of rudeness.

Mother as Matron of Honor

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever permissible for the mother of the bride to act as her matron of honor? My daughter and I always have been very close and she would like very much to have me fill this position.

Answer: It would be very unusual, but not impossible if the wedding is very small and the mother the only attendant.

Miss Eula Quick Is Wed to Ennis Thorne

Miss Eula Quick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Quick of Pautaukunk, was married to Ennis Thorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorne of Clintondale, at the Modena Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Inbler officiated.

The bridal gown was of Skinner satin, ballerina length, edged in apple blossoms, with a fingertip veil, falling from a tight fitting cap, also edged in apple blossoms. The bride carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Joyce Quick was her sister's only attendant. Her gown closely matched that of the bride, except that it was in blue Skinner satin. She carried yellow carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother, Melvin Thorne of Clintondale.

After a small reception, the couple left for a honeymoon in New York city. For traveling, Mrs. Thorne chose a gray and black checked suit with black accessories and wore a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Thorne is employed by the New York and New Haven Railroad.

GUESTS SHOULD CONTRIBUTE

If you want to sit next to each other, why ever go out? This in part answers the following question: "Will you please tell me why you say it is incorrect for husbands and wives to be seated next to each other at a dinner party? I enjoy my husband's company very much and certainly prefer to sit next to him rather than someone I find an utter bore."

When you accept an invitation you are expected to contribute something to the party given by your host or hostess, and if you simply want to six next to your own husband and talk to him, you are contributing nothing. Furthermore, to sit next to each other is certainly not broadening to your own horizons. Judea Shrine Honors Mrs. Lucie Baker

Mrs. Lucie Baker, member of the supreme obituary committee of the Supreme Shrine of the United States and Canada, was honored last Thursday evening during a regular meeting of Judea Shrine 12.

The guest of honor was escorted and introduced to Mrs. Raymond Trumpait, worthy high priestess, and was then presented with an orchid corsage by her daughter, Miss Janice Baker. A degree shower in honor of wishes was given by the officers and past worthy high priestesses. Flowers and gifts from the Shrine were also presented to Mrs. Baker by Miss Baker, Mrs. Frank Strobel and Mrs. Walter Ostrander.

A program of entertainment preceded the meeting. Those participating included Miss Sheila and Bruce Hotaling in song and dance numbers. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John and Mrs. Felix Nettleton.

Miss Janice Baker, representing Winter, wore a white gown, forest green hat, cape and muff with silver trimming. Other officers representing Spring wore white gowns, yellow capes trimmed with daisies and carried yellow umbrellas.

Following the meeting refreshments were served in the dining room where the tables were decorated with fern, daisy favors and candles.

Group at YW Hears Greenwald Travel Talk

Herbert K. Greenwald, local travel agent, was a guest speaker during the regular meeting of New York Gamma Chi, Beta Sigma Phi, Tuesday night at the YWCA.

Mr. Greenwald talked to the group on the necessary plans before making an ocean voyage or plane trip and illustrated his talk with interesting and educational slides of various foreign countries.

Despite the inclement weather last night, there was a good attendance of members at the meeting as well as guests who attended on the special guest privilege night.

The next meeting of the sorority will be held Tuesday, Feb. 12.

Italy Eyes Mineral Search

Rome, (AP)—Iron-short Italy is watching with interest the progress in geological research near Viterbo, 50 miles north of here, where iron and manganese ore was found recently. The Italian Geological Institute, where samples of the ore were examined found "a very high iron content" and ordered further checks in the area for possible radio-active materials.

Bernice E. Irwin Becomes Bride of Gilbert E. Gray

The marriage of Miss Bernice Ellen Irwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Irwin of New Salem, to Gilbert Edward Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gray, 67 Ann street, this city, took place Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church. The Rev. Ernest L. Witte officiated at the ceremony. A reception for 50 guests followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Wedding music was played by Miss Irene Price, organist. Miss Nancy Miuccio was the soloist. Gladioli were used for decorating the church.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with rhinestone trimmed lace yoke, long pointed sleeves, and full skirt terminating in a train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a sequin tiara and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss Helen Irwin was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a pink satin and net gown and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Elsie Proper of Port Ewen and Miss Gilda Gray, the bridegroom's sister. Their blue satin and net gowns were styled like that worn by the honor attendant. They carried pink roses.

The flower girl was Miss Lea Ann Nelson, the bride's cousin. With her aqua satin gown, she wore a matching headpiece and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Grant Stoutenbergh of 47 St. James street, was his brother-in-law's best man. The ushers were Robert Rice of Port Ewen and Marcus Drum of Andrew street, this city.

When the couple return from a journey to New York City, they will reside in New Salem. For traveling, the bride chose a red wool suit with black accessories, and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Gray is a member of the graduating class '52 at Kingston High School and is employed at J. C. Penney Co.

Mr. Gray attended Kingston High School and is employed at Herzog's.

Mrs. Ross Describes Arab Life at Sorosis

Mrs. George W. Ross depicted Arab life in the small country of Lebanon for members of Sorosis Monday afternoon at a meeting with Mrs. Ward Brigham, 73 Linderman avenue.

At a business session preceding the talk, Mrs. William Ochs, president, presided. The organization voted to cooperate and participate in the forthcoming pageant to be produced as a part of the tercentennial celebration.

A letter of commendation was sent by Sorosis to the Board of Regents for its "favorable action taken in the matter of opening public schools with devotions."

Increase Knowledge

"Inasmuch as the Arab countries are assuming greater importance in world affairs, we should increase our knowledge and understanding of the Arabs," Mrs. Ross said as she unfolded an interesting picture of these peoples, gleaned through the eyes of an American woman, Mary Winifred Bushakra. Mrs. Bushakra, a Quaker graduated from Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania. Following her marriage, she went to live in the ancestral home of the Bushakra clan, forty miles from Beirut, Lebanon.

Interesting details were given about the life, customs and religion of these little known mountain people with their ancient and proud traditions. She stated that the principles of the Druse religion have not changed since it was founded in the eleventh century by Caliph Al-Hakim of Egypt. "The Druses emerge from Mrs. Bushakra's narrative as kindly, hospitable and intelligent people," said the speaker.

Mrs. Ward Brigham, program chairman, announced that the next meeting on Monday, Feb. 4, will take place in the home of Mrs. Theron Culver, 83 Washington avenue, instead of with Mrs. A. Noble Graham as scheduled.

To Discuss Pertinent Topics at Conference

MISS GERTRUDE NOAR

EDWARD H. LINNER

Among the many prominent speakers who will attend the third in a series of mid-term conferences for teachers at the Kingston High School on Thursday and Friday of this week, and who will discuss topics pertinent to educators will be Miss Gertrude Noar, representative of B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League whose topic will be Classroom Techniques. Grange News

Universal Military Training will come in for its share of attention at this session of Congress. There is some concern that it will be presented without a full hearing on both sides and that it is by no means too late to write your congressmen and senators if you are opposed to it. The Grange, both state and national, is definitely in opposition to UMT. The problem of farm help, far from easing off, has been steadily worse since Korea. Under the present draft system of providing men for the armed forces, some consideration by local boards is shown where manpower is found to be more urgently needed at home or on the farm. Under UMT there would be no way of providing deferment. Every young man regardless of how badly he was needed, would find himself in the services upon reaching age 18. It would be a good idea to express your opinion before it is too late.

A new Grange has been chartered in the Philippines. As far as we know, except for the Grange movement in Canada, of which there remain several Granges just over the border of some of our states, this is our first expansion on foreign soil, certainly across the seas. As here, Manila Grange No. 1, through its first master, Gonzalo Merino, expresses a need for helping the rural people of the Philippines, where agriculture is so important a part of their economy. We know of no friendlier folks to Americans than our Filipino cousins, and we applaud our national master's words of encouragement and welcome, and feel with him, "a new sense of importance and significance for our vast national farm fraternity."

Conservation essay contest has been announced. This is the one postponed from last year. The subject is "Conservation Farming and Abundant Living." In addition to state prizes of $100, $50 and $25, there will be six national awards with a top of $1,000. National winners will also get an all-expense paid trip to the sessions in Illinois in November. Open to all young people up to 21 years of age, the closing date is March 31, 1952. Not much time to enter, so be sure to ask your local master or lecturer right away for details.

Premature Funeral

Saigon, Indochina (AP) — The newspaper, Le Journal D'Extreme Orient, has just reported a "resurrection" in the all-Chinese twin city of Cholon. It said a 70-year-old Vietnamese woman "died" there recently and friends and relatives gathered in a mortuary to recite prayers. But, added the journal, the woman suddenly raised herself from the funeral couch. As far as is known, she's still living.

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

After she came home at night from her baby-sitting job, Margo went straight to bed. However, after school the next afternoon, she went out to her mother in the kitchen and said: "Mother, Mrs. Baker doesn't want me to baby-sit for her any more. She said I was an irresponsible person. Am I?"

Margo's mother, an emotional women, stopped chopping apples to pour wrath upon Mrs. Baker's head. She scored her accusation as absurd—yet the very next evening, annoyed to discover that Margo had not rinsed out the dish towels, she said crossly, "Mrs. Baker is right. You are irresponsible."

This is mighty feeble business, in my opinion. Before Margo's mother had a right to call her daughter "irresponsible," she should have inquired into causes for failure to rinse out the dish towels. If, for example, Margo neglected them to study for her geometry exam the next morning, she is not "irresponsible," but highly responsible.

But her mother didn't take the time to make an independent evaluation of the situation. She was too impressed with someone else's opinion of her daughter.

I am not for a moment suggesting we should turn a deaf ear to criticism of our children. What I am suggesting is that when our youngster is criticized, we carefully wiegh what has been said for truth and justice as soon as possible.

If our young daughter has been accused of irresponsibility, for example, we should decide pro or con the accusation.

If we decide that she is irresponsible, we should take steps to help her develop a better sense of responsibility.

If we decide that she is doing all right for a person of her age, we should dismiss the criticism from our minds.

Instead of repeating what we believe is an unjust and untrue accusation, we should try to clear it from her mind as well as from our own.

BEARING FALSE WITNESS

I would like to remind parents that one of the Commandments is quite specific about bearing false witness against our neighbors. Our children are our neighbors, too, and we should learn to question all criticism leveled against them, so that if it bears false witness against them, we do not sustain its falsehood.

Criticism, I must mention, is not always motivated by pure, disinterested humanitarianism.

It turned out that Mrs. Baker, for example, dismissed Margo from her job, not because she believed that Margo was irresponsible, but because Mrs. Baker's mother is coming to live with her. Mrs. Baker is just a young woman who doesn't like to feel accountable for other people's disappointments. She solves the problem of getting rid of Margo by making Margo take the responsibility for her dismissal.

Children should be taught, along with their instruction in other facts, that criticism is often the result of malice, envy, the desire to show off, the desire to destroy. Then they will not be constantly losing joy in their possessions and in themselves.

Our daughter won't stop wearing her most becoming dress because someone tells her it makes her skin look "blotchy." Our little son will not take sudden dislike for a new sled because a boy who hasn't a new one calls it "the sissy type."

One of our reasons for training children in self-knowledge and self-control is to equip them to resist irresponsible attack by envy-motivated criticism.

Only if they know their own weaknesses and are encouraged to correct them will they be able to take ungrounded criticism in one ear and let it out the other without giving it importance it does not deserve.

Judea Shrine Honors Mrs. Lucie Baker

Mrs. Lucie Baker, member of the supreme obituary committee of the Supreme Shrine of the United States and Canada, was honored last Thursday evening during a regular meeting of Judea Shrine 12.

The guest of honor was escorted and introduced to Mrs. Raymond Trumpait, worthy high priestess, and was then presented with an orchid corsage by her daughter, Miss Janice Baker. A degree shower in honor of wishes was given by the officers and past worthy high priestesses. Flowers and gifts from the Shrine were also presented to Mrs. Baker by Miss Baker, Mrs. Frank Strobel and Mrs. Walter Ostrander.

A program of entertainment preceded the meeting. Those participating included Miss Sheila and Bruce Hotaling in song and dance numbers. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John and Mrs. Felix Nettleton.

Miss Janice Baker, representing Winter, wore a white gown, forest green hat, cape and muff with silver trimming. Other officers representing Spring wore white gowns, yellow capes trimmed with daisies and carried yellow umbrellas.

Following the meeting refreshments were served in the dining room where the tables were decorated with fern, daisy favors and candles.

Group at YW Hears Greenwald Travel Talk

Herbert K. Greenwald, local travel agent, was a guest speaker during the regular meeting of New York Gamma Chi, Beta Sigma Phi, Tuesday night at the YWCA.

Mr. Greenwald talked to the group on the necessary plans before making an ocean voyage or plane trip and illustrated his talk with interesting and educational slides of various foreign countries.

Despite the inclement weather last night, there was a good attendance of members at the meeting as well as guests who attended on the special guest privilege night.

The next meeting of the sorority will be held Tuesday, Feb. 12.

Italy Eyes Mineral Search

Rome, (AP)—Iron-short Italy is watching with interest the progress in geological research near Viterbo, 50 miles north of here, where iron and manganese ore was found recently. The Italian Geological Institute, where samples of the ore were examined, found "a very high iron content" and ordered further checks in the area for possible radio-active materials.

Bernice E. Irwin Becomes Bride of Gilbert E. Gray

The marriage of Miss Bernice Ellen Irwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Irwin of New Salem, to Gilbert Edward Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gray, 67 Ann street, this city, took place Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church. The Rev. Ernest L. Witte officiated at the ceremony. A reception for 50 guests followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Wedding music was played by Miss Irene Price, organist. Miss Nancy Miuccio was the soloist. Gladioli were used for decorating the church.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with rhinestone trimmed lace yoke, long pointed sleeves, and full skirt terminating in a train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a sequin tiara and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss Helen Irwin was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a pink satin and net gown and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Elsie Proper of Port Ewen and Miss Gilda Gray, the bridegroom's sister. Their blue satin and net gowns were styled like that worn by the honor attendant. They carried pink roses.

The flower girl was Miss Lea Ann Nelson, the bride's cousin. With her aqua satin gown, she wore a matching headpiece and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Grant Stoutenbergh of 47 St. James street, was his brother-in-law's best man. The ushers were Robert Rice of Port Ewen and Marcus Drum of Andrew street, this city.

When the couple return from a journey to New York City, they will reside in New Salem. For traveling, the bride chose a red wool suit with black accessories, and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Gray is a member of the graduating class '52 at Kingston High School and is employed at J. C. Penney Co.

Mr. Gray attended Kingston High School and is employed at Herzog's.

Mrs. Ross Describes Arab Life at Sorosis

Mrs. George W. Ross depicted Arab life in the small country of Lebanon for members of Sorosis Monday afternoon at a meeting with Mrs. Ward Brigham, 73 Linderman avenue.

At a business session preceding the talk, Mrs. William Ochs, president, presided. The organization voted to cooperate and participate in the forthcoming pageant to be produced as a part of the tercentennial celebration.

A letter of commendation was sent by Sorosis to the Board of Regents for its "favorable action taken in the matter of opening public schools with devotions."

Increase Knowledge

"Inasmuch as the Arab countries are assuming greater importance in world affairs, we should increase our knowledge and understanding of the Arabs," Mrs. Ross said as she unfolded an interesting picture of these peoples, gleaned through the eyes of an American woman, Mary Winifred Bushakra. Mrs. Bushakra, a Quaker graduated from Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania. Following her marriage, she went to live in the ancestral home of the Bushakra clan, forty miles from Beirut, Lebanon.

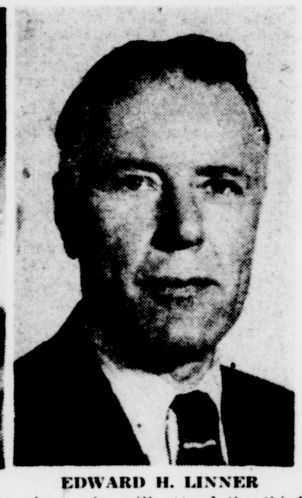

Interesting details were given about the life, customs and religion of these little known mountain people with their ancient and proud traditions. She stated that the principles of the Druse religion have not changed since it was founded in the eleventh century by Caliph Al-Hakim of Egypt. "The Druses emerge from Mrs. Bushakra's narrative as kindly, hospitable and intelligent people," said the speaker.

Mrs. Ward Brigham, program chairman, announced that the next meeting on Monday, Feb. 4, will take place in the home of Mrs. Theron Culver, 83 Washington avenue, instead of with Mrs. A. Noble Graham as scheduled.

Grange News

Universal Military Training will come in for its share of attention at this session of Congress. There is some concern that it will be presented without a full hearing on both sides and that it is by no means too late to write your congressmen and senators if you are opposed to it. The Grange, both state and national, is definitely in opposition to UMT. The problem of farm help, far from easing off, has been steadily worse since Korea. Under the present draft system of providing men for the armed forces, some consideration by local boards is shown where manpower is found to be more urgently needed at home or on the farm. Under UMT there would be no way of providing deferment. Every young man regardless of how badly he was needed, would find himself in the services upon reaching age 18. It would be a good idea to express your opinion before it is too late.

A new Grange has been chartered in the Philippines. As far as we know, except for the Grange movement in Canada, of which there remain several Granges just over the border of some of our states, this is our first expansion on foreign soil, certainly across the seas. As here, Manila Grange No. 1, through its first master, Gonzalo Merino, expresses a need for helping the rural people of the Philippines, where agriculture is so important a part of their economy. We know of no friendlier folks to Americans than our Filipino cousins, and we applaud our national master's words of encouragement and welcome, and feel with him, "a new sense of importance and significance for our vast national farm fraternity."

Conservation essay contest has been announced. This is the one postponed from last year. The subject is "Conservation Farming and Abundant Living." In addition to state prizes of $100, $50 and $25, there will be six national awards with a top of $1,000. National winners will also get an all-expense paid trip to the sessions in Illinois in November. Open to all young people up to 21 years of age, the closing date is March 31, 1952. Not much time to enter, so be sure to ask your local master or lecturer right away for details.

Premature Funeral

Saigon, Indochina (AP) — The nenswpaper, Le Journal D'Extreme Orient, has just reported a "resurrection" in the all-Chinese twin city of Cholon. It said a 70-year-old Vietnamese woman "died" there recently and friends and relatives gathered in a mortuary to recite prayers. But, added the journal, the woman suddenly raised herself from the funeral couch. As far as is known, she's still living.

Learn to Question Critics of Your Child

Food Stores Lead

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—Of the sixteen billion dollars spent in retail outlets in New York state last year, more than a fourth was rung up by food stores. The State Commerce Department reported yesterday that food stores took in $4,400,000,000 or 27 per cent of the 1951 retail sales total. The department said eating and drinking establishments attracted the second largest outlay—$1,700,000,000. General merchandising outlets, including department stores, were third with $1,600,000,000. The department said the eating and drinking sales represented a gain brought about in part by a shift of housewives and domestic workers to factory jobs created by the nation's defense program. Because of this, there was less food consumed in homes.

When the Life Masters Pairs Championship is held in New York February 7th and 8th, Helen Sobel will defend the title she won last year. As the name of the tournament indicates, only life masters of the American Contract Bridge League are eligible to compete.

Since this is the highest ranking a tournament player can get, and since it usually takes several years of top-flight play to earn the ranking, the life masters' pair game is a real dilly to play in and a joy to win.

One of Mrs. Sobel's recent hands will indicate why she is such a consistent winner. Just to test your own game, cover up the East-West cards of today's hand and decide how you would play the hand at a contract of six hearts.

You get a trump lead, and you draw two rounds of trumps. The opponents follow to both rounds of trumps, so you have no further trump drawing to worry about. The big question is how to limit the loss in the minor suits to one trick.

If you think the diamond finesse is going to work, you can run the spades to discard two clubs from the dummy. This limits the loss in clubs to one trick; and the success of the diamond finesse will then assure the slam.

If you think the diamond finesse is going to fail, you can discard a diamond from the dummy on one of the spades. This prevents loss of a diamond trick, but you will then have to make the right club play to bring home the slam.

Should you guess in this situation? If so, how should you guess?

Mrs. Sobel decided to have more than one guess for her contract. She ran the five spades, discarding two clubs from the dummy. She then entered dummy with a trump to lead a club towards her hand. East played a low club, and Mrs. Sobel put up the king from her hand. When this held, the slam was home.

East could have beaten the slam by putting up his ace of clubs. That would set up the king of clubs, which would be used to discard the losing diamond from dummy.

If West had shown up with the ace of clubs, Mrs. Sobel would still be in position to try the diamond finesse. Hence the slam would be made if East had the ace of clubs, or if East had the king of diamonds. This was a double chance, much better than a single guess.

BUTLER FURNITURE CO.
IT'S ON THE MAP
7 MILES A SAVING FOR EVERY MILE

Recently several of our customers have called to our attention the fact that there are many people in the Kingston shopping area who are misinformed about the Butler Furniture Co.

We are not a new business to the Kingston area, but have conducted an Upholstering, Refinishing & Antique restoring concern in Kingston and in the Town of Woodstock for many years . . . under the name of The Craftsman's Shop.

Previous to his arrival in Kingston, Mr. Butler was, for many years, the head of a large Upholstering concern serving the Boston suburban area; specializing in Interior Decorating and the construction of fine Custom-built furniture. This business is still operated by members of the 'Butler' family. The 'Butler's' have been in the furniture business for three genrations. Mr. Butler has also been associated with several furniture concerns in leading cities throughout the country, thus Mr. Butler has gained a wide lattitude of experience connected with the furniture business.

You can buy with confidence from the Butler Furniture Co. Mr. Butler, himself, knows intimately the proper construction fundamentals necessary in the making of fine furniture. You are not dealing with a 'Commission Salesman' when you buy at Butler's but with a man who knows furniture from the frame up . . . who builds many of the finer pieces sold here himself.

To our knowledge, we are the only furniture dealer in the county who will give you a 'FIVE YEAR WRITTEN GUARANTEE' with every piece of upholstered furniture we sell. We could not do this unless we knew what was, 'Underneath the Cover.' We know the furniture we show you is properly made and are willing to back our experienced judgment, 'In writing.' Ask your friends about 'Butler's'. We carry in our 'Satisfied Customers' files, the names of many of the finest families in the Kingston area.

You can afford to 'do business with Butler.' "Where the overhead is low . . . the prices are low." We admit our showroom is seven miles from Kingston, but we offer you a saving in DOLLARS and CENTS for every mile. Our budget terms are agreeable to everyone.

Come up any time. We would consider it a privilege to show you our new furniture line at your convenience. Open days, nights and week-ends. We want your business and appreciate it, but you are under no obligation to buy at any time.

If you are considering Re-upholstering work on your living room set, or, perhaps an odd chair, call Mr. Butler at Kingston 147-M-1 and he will be pleased to call at your home with a complete line of beautiful upholstery fabrics. His experience as a Decorator will be cheerfully offered to you, free of charge.

At this time our prices on re-upholstering are 25% lower and our new furniture line has been greatly reduced. YOU CAN SAVE NOW.

If West had shown up with the ace of clubs, Mrs. Sobel would still be in position to try the diamond finesse. Hence the slam would be made if East had the ace of clubs, or if East had the king of diamonds. This was a double chance, much better than a single guess.

Horse Throws Officer

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Homer Strong, 40-year-old mounted policeman, was thrown from the saddle when his horse shied on Ninth avenue near 38th street last night, and he was dragged half a block by his foot which was caught in a stirrup. He was treated at a hospital for contusions of the chest and a possible fracture of the left leg. He then returned to his home at 87-43 97th street, Woodside, Queens.

BUTLER FURNITURE CO.
IT'S ON THE MAP
7 MILES A SAVING FOR EVERY MILE

Recently several of our customers have called to our attention the fact that there are many people in the Kingston shopping area who are misinformed about the Butler Furniture Co.

We are not a new business to the Kingston area, but have conducted an Upholstering, Refinishing & Antique restoring concern in Kingston and in the Town of Woodstock for many years . . . under the name of The Craftsman's Shop.

Previous to his arrival in Kingston, Mr. Butler was, for many years, the head of a large Upholstering concern serving the Boston suburban area; specializing in Interior Decorating and the construction of fine Custom-built furniture. This business is still operated by members of the 'Butler' family. The 'Butler's' have been in the furniture business for three genrations. Mr. Butler has also been associated with several furniture concerns in leading cities throughout the country, thus Mr. Butler has gained a wide lattitude of experience connected with the furniture business.

You can buy with confidence from the Butler Furniture Co. Mr. Butler, himself, knows intimately the proper construction fundamentals necessary in the making of fine furniture. You are not dealing with a 'Commission Salesman' when you buy at Butler's but with a man who knows furniture from the frame up . . . who builds many of the finer pieces sold here himself.

To our knowledge, we are the only furniture dealer in the county who will give you a 'FIVE YEAR WRITTEN GUARANTEE' with every piece of upholstered furniture we sell. We could not do this unless we knew what was, 'Underneath the Cover.' We know the furniture we show you is properly made and are willing to back our experienced judgment, 'In writing.' Ask your friends about 'Butler's'. We carry in our 'Satisfied Customers' files, the names of many of the finest families in the Kingston area.

You can afford to 'do business with Butler.' "Where the overhead is low . . . the prices are low." We admit our showroom is seven miles from Kingston, but we offer you a saving in DOLLARS and CENTS for every mile. Our budget terms are agreeable to everyone.

Come up any time. We would consider it a privilege to show you our new furniture line at your convenience. Open days, nights and week-ends. We want your business and appreciate it, but you are under no obligation to buy at any time.

If you are considering Re-upholstering work on your living room set, or, perhaps an odd chair, call Mr. Butler at Kingston 147-M-1 and he will be pleased to call at your home with a complete line of beautiful upholstery fabrics. His experience as a Decorator will be cheerfully offered to you, free of charge.

At this time our prices on re-upholstering are 25% lower and our new furniture line has been greatly reduced. YOU CAN SAVE NOW.

'Move Newark Airport,' . . .

C-46 on a non-scheduled flight to Florida, caught fire after a takeoff from Newark Airport and dropped aflame into shallow Elizabeth river, less than a mile from the site of yesterday's disaster. Fifty-six persons died in the Dec. tragedy, which was the nation's second worst commercial plane wreck.

Residents in areas adjacent to Newark airport have protested lowflying planes for some time and Elizabeth's mayor James T. Kirk said last night his city lives under an "umbrella of danger."

Narrowly Missed School

Kirk said the twin-engine Convair that plunged out of the sky yesterday skimmed over Battin High School before it crashed 200 yards away from the school, where 1,000 girls had been released from classes 45 minutes earlier.

The plane could easily have crashed into the classrooms and the Miami plane just missed hitting a row of houses, he said.

Newark airport should be relocated "regardless of cost," said the mayor of this city of 112,000, located some 12 miles southwest of New York city. "We want it taken away from us!" he added.

To Ask Full Probe

New Jersey's Republican Senators Smith and Hendrickson announced in Washington they would ask for a full investigation of the crash and facilities at Newark Airport.

Rep. Case (R-N. J.) who lives in nearby Rahway, said a resolution would be introduced in the House today calling for creation of a special committee for a "thorough investigation of Newark Airport."

He said the probe would encompass the operation, expansion, supervision and regulation of the airport, with particular reference to the safety of the inhabitants of the airport area.

Hits Apartment Building

The silver Convair, inbound from Buffalo, hurtled into a three-story frame apartment building and exploded in a mass of leaping, orange flames that enveloped two nearby dwellings.

Screaming residents ran for safety. Eleven persons were injured, including nine occupants of nearby homes. Also hurt were a fireman and a rescue worker, who joined disaster units at the scene, just 2.8 miles from Newark Airport.

For 90 minutes, no one could get near the raging inferno, where the 18 passengers, three crew members and two company personnel aboard the plane were burned beyond recognition. For a time the roaring blaze threatened to engulf the entire block.

Area Is Blanketed

Clouds of steam and smoke blanketed the area, which is less than a mile from the spot where a Miami airline, non-scheduled plane crashed in the shallow Elizabeth river 38 days ago, killing 56 persons in the nation's worst commercial plane disaster.

Positive identification of Patterson—the first of the dead named here—was made through dental charts.

The plane had started its landing approach to Newark airport's runway 6 at 3:39 p. m. (EST) from a height of about 1,500 feet, using an instrument landing system, with an assist from Newark airport's radar. The ceiling was down to 400 feet and visibility was cut to three-fourths of a mile.

Drops From Radarscope

It was reported coming in on its glide path. Suddenly, the plane dropped out of view of the radarscope and crashed at 3:45 p. m. (EST).

While airport towermen frantically called the aircraft, it had plummeted out of the fog, narrowly missing Battin High School for girls and cut a fiery path close to the heart of this industrial city. The school's 1,000 pupils had been dismissed 45 minutes earlier.

"The plane hit one building and immediately it disintegrated into a mass of bricks and fire and seconds later the house next door was all in flames," said 29-year-old high school art teacher Michael Truss, who was 75 feet away.

Three Explosions

Peter Lesniak, a foundry worker, said he counted three explosions, followed by the screams of women and children. "I was there in a minute, but I couldn't do anything . . . I'll never forget the screams of the dying."

"It was a miracle any of the people got out of those houses," he added.

Disaster units rushed to the scene. Many of the rescue workers had been through all this in the Dec. 16 crash. They worked in the slanting rain, sometimes ankle deep in mud, amid the white glare of floodlights. Despite the weather, a crowd of more than 4,000 persons gathered behind the police barriers.

Some of those who lived near the scene hid tear-stained faces in handkerchiefs as they watched managled bodies being lifted gently from the rubble of splintered wood and shattered plane metal.

'My Baby Is in There'

A woman, restrained by neighbors, sobbed uncontrollably, "My baby is in there."

A few yards away, Albert Ragone, 34, wandered about in a daze. He came home from work to find his home in ruins, his wife and two young sons missing.

"I can't find them. I can't find them," he stammered.

The bodies of his wife, Annie, 30, and his sons, Emil, 3, and Robert, 14 months, later were removed from the wreckage, where the plane had splintered through their home at 306 Williamson St.

Among the 18 passenger victims was John F. Chester, 45, public relations director of the Carrier Air Conditioning Company of Syracuse, N. Y. He was a former general business editor of the Associated Press and a World War 2 war correspondent. Two other employes of the Carrier Corp. also were killed.

Four Students Killed

Four Syracuse University students bound home for a midterm vacation after exams, were among the victims.

The pilot, 33-year-old Capt. Thomas J. Reid, lived only three blocks from the spot where the plane crashed. His wife, Henrietta, said Reid had "just completed an airlift to Japan.

Mrs. Reid, mother of two children is expecting a third child next summer.

Two CAA officials on the plane, George T. Williams, chief of the CAA's Navigational Aids Section, and John D. Rice, acting chief of the radar group of the section, had been attending conferences in Syracuse on the development of radar equipment designed for airport use.

Check Begins At Once

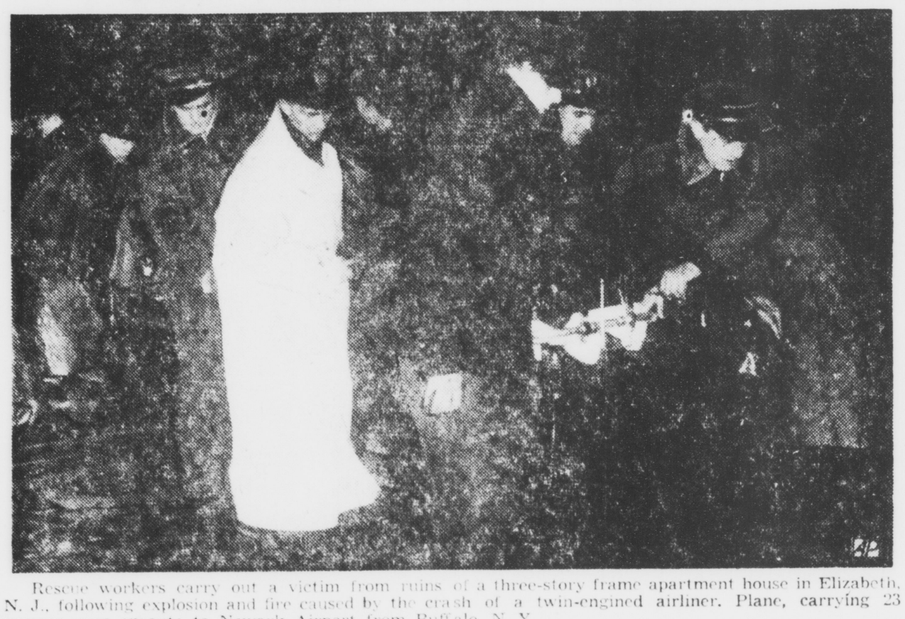

An immediate investigation into the cause of the crash was launched by Joseph O. Fluet, regional director of the Civil Aeronautics Board, who only recently completed a probe of the Florida-bound C-46 crash here.

The Convair was the same type of plane as the one that crashed into the East River in New York Jan 14. All 36 aboard were rescued.

Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., which makes the Convair, said Convair-liner transports had a record of 3,650,000,000 passenger miles of service without a fatality until yesterday's crash.

American Airlines said its accident record until the crash was 4,600,000,000 passenger miles flown since Nov. 29, 1949, without a fatality. On that date, 28 were killed in a crash at Dallas, Tex.

Remove Victim From Plane Disaster Scene

At Probation Parley

Edmund P. Burhans, chief probation officer for Ulster county, attended a conference of probation administrators Tuesday at Albany. The conference, held at the State Office Building, was attended by probation officials from areas two and three which includes the territory from Putnam and Rockland counties northerly along the Hudson and Lake Champlain to the Canadian border.

a reserve officer's "refresher course," President Roosevelt called him to Washington to become assistant secretary of war.

Was Doing KP Duty

At the time the President's telegram arrived, Patterson actually was dumping garbage cans while on kitchen police duty.

Patterson, who had been an infantry captain in World War I, took the $10,000-a-year temporary War Department job and relinquished his $12,000-a-year lifetime judgeship.

Within six months, Patterson became undersecretary of war. He then supervised the army's 100 billion dollar World War 2 procurement program.

Urged Buildup of Strength

In 1947, Patterson left the government to return to private law practice, but he continued to urge a buildup of American military strength.

At World War 2's end, he had said: "If we dissipate our military strength, we shall be asking for another war, a war more fateful than any we have yet known."

He was in Europe at the time the war started in Korea in 1950. Denouncing Russia, he said the North Koreans launched their attack at Moscow's command.

Patterson was married in 1920 to Miss Margaret Winchester of Baltimore. He leaves his wife; a son, Robert P. Jr. and three daughters, Susan, Virginia, and Mrs. Samuel R. Campbell, Jr., of Boston.

since December 12, 1950. He resigned as mayor of Toledo to accept the post.

Now 44, he has been in politics off and on for about 15 years, having served in the Ohio Legislature and as councilman, vice mayor and mayor of Toledo.

He said President Truman was "very kind about my decision. He said he would like to have me stay on as price director but did not want to interfere with any personal plans I might have."

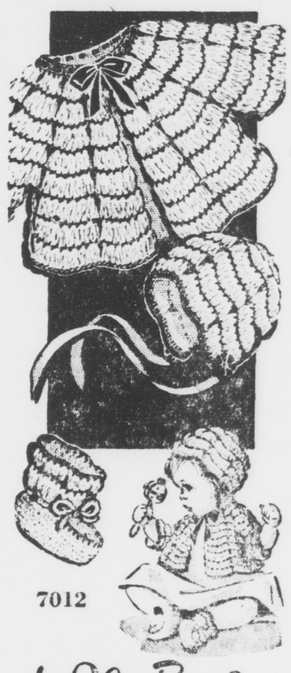

Askad about the fact that McGrath called at the White House almost simultaneously with him, DiSalle said he didn't even know McGrath was to be there.

Asked what job he had been offered in government, DiSalle replied—"I'd rather not say. There is a man in it."

The name of Guido J. Napoletano was omitted from the list of members of the Ulster County Bar Association who served on a committee which drafted proposed legislation to revise local city court procedure and extend its jurisdiction. The committee's recommendation was adopted by the Bar Association at a meeting Monday night and forwarded to the state Legislature with a recommendation it be adopted. Other committee members were Raymond Mino, chairman, Harry Gold, Bernard A. Culloton, James G. Connelly and Arthur A. Davis, Jr.

Witness Declares

first deputy fire commissioner, headed the racket during the O'Dwyer administration and that in the present administration of Mayor Vinvent R. Impellitteri the racket was taken over by Frank Sampson, Impellitteri's patronage dispenser.

Denies Connection

Last week Sampson, a former leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic party organization, denied any connection with the shakedown. Yesterday Sampson, who is not on trial and is not charged, said any further comment would have to await the end of the Moran trial.

The testimony by Smith followed earlier statements by Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Scotti, who said Moran and Sampson headed a ring of inspectors to "shake down" fuel oil installers.

Smith, under a 10 to 20 year prison sentence in the shakedown, testified that just before O'Dwyer's re-election in 1949 Moran said: "We are a little pressed for campaign funds."

The fireman said that thereafter he turned over about $2,500 a week to Moran, about $500 more than previously.

Before O'Dwyer left for the post in Mexico he elevated Moran to the $15,000 lifetime post as a city water commissioner. Impellitteri became acting mayor.

'Still Handling Things'

After Moran left the fire department, Smith said, the defendant "told me to continue on the same, that he's still handling things."

However, Moran was cut out of the picture three days after Impellitteri was elected in his own right in November, 1950. Smith testified that another convicted fireman, James A. Keohane, called him and said:

"I just got orders from Frank Powers (whom the prosecution identified outside the courtroom as a fire department clerk) that you're not getting the money any more—that the money is going to Frank Sampson."

Smith said he and Keohane went to see Moran. Smith said he and Moran had this conversation:

"I told Mr. Moran, 'Jim, there's no more money for you today' and he asked: 'How did that come about?'

"I told him the money was going to go to Frank Sampson, that Frank Powers had given the orders to Keohane . . .

"Moran said: 'If Frank Sampson is behind it, that is the case and you give him the money. We had a good run of it and it's the fortunes of war.'"

Moran already is appealing a five year federal prison sentence for committing perjury before the U. S. Senate Crime Committee on his testimony about his associations with a Brooklyn numbers racketeer.

The extortion trial continues today before an all-male jury.

You'll Be Sorry If You Miss This Silly Sale

YOU'D THINK A GUY LIKE ME DEALING IN DRUG STORE MERCHANDISE WOULD HAVE MORE SENSE THAN TO BUY THESE CATS AND DOGS. SO COME AND TAKE ADVANTAGE OF ME — I'M NOT PERFECT

★ ★ ★

Gee—You would think a guy like me would learn from experience.—It was just a year ago! I laid my cards down on the table and told you about all the junk I had accumulated throughout the year. I gave it to you, cost and below in my first silly sale—you got some real bargains and I got rid of a heap of stuff and everyone was happy. During the past year I got older—lost more hair, but didn't get any wiser—so here we go again—plenty of bargains to choose from and all at a steal! But if you get caught shoplifting the rules are, "you pay double."

LIP STICKS EVERY SHADE BUT YELLOW

They change the fashion colors on lip sticks so often and fast they always leave you holding the bag. And keepin' up with the new shades is driving me crazy. I know without looking I have every shade but yellow. Priced at $1.00. But I'll take 55c, 2 for $1.00. You won't make me mad if you take a handful 'cause I got 132 to sell at this price. You can't fool me much on lip sticks 'cause I've been smeared too often, or you can't fool me much 'cause I'm too ignorant. You buy a new shade and sell out at $1.20. Wire for some more of the same and by the time you get 'em, there's a brand new shade out that everyone is asking for, so it's a vicious circle, as this goes on and on and some of the damdest names, but they're all red, just different shades, purty red, purty cheap and all shades guaranteed Kissable.

IN THE COTTON — NOT THE CLOVER!

Being a big time Wall Street merchant, I figured I should read the Wall Street Journal. So, what did it get me—trouble. It said cotton was going up—and the only thing that went up was my cotton stock—thus you can have a full pound of sterile absorbent cotton for 1.19.

DO YOU HAVE HAIR?

Well if you do, brothers and sisters, I have the shampoos to go with it. With the advent of new modern shampoos, like White Rain, Dark Rain and Wet Rain some of the old stand-bys are standing on my shelf—so come and take them off at these prices:

25c Mar-o-oil Shampoo 6c
1.00 Curl-care Shampoo 48c
25c Rayve Shampoo 9c
60c Glo-ver Shampoo 29c

NO EXCUSE FOR BEING LATE NOW!

Here's a real Alarm Clock to keep you on time and away from the boss' frown. Regularly selling for $2.85—now being tossed to you for a measley $1.79. If you can beat this price, we'll wake you up personally!

POWDER? FACE — BUG — GUN

We got a stack of this stuff. Mostly Talcum and Body Powder. No difference only it makes you carry two items instead of one. Just shows how a guy's slogan, "We have it, we will get it or it isn't made" will get him in dutch.

How any one drug store or any one guy in his right mind could accumulate so many is beyond me, anyway many of them are nationally advertised. SNEEK in and get a couple 'cause they'll sure make you smell purty when you don't have time to take a bath. Not good as gifts but good for you and priced as low as 2 bits.

DO YOU HAVE ANY ELEPHANTS TO WASH?

We have enough soap on hand to supply a circus for umteen years. We have over a jillion different brands of soap and this is the item you can't get gypped on because soap's soap no matter in what shape or in Johnnie's mouth. If you can't find a soap priced to fit your budget, pick one out and we will give it to you. Nothing like good clean customers.

SVIRSKY ASKS FOR HELP

Some time ago (and brother, it's over a year ago) I bought some Don Juan Double Edge Razor Blades. In order to have them exclusive, I had to buy 1000 packages, 5 blades in a package and regular retail price is 25c. You can have as many as you want at 7c—less than 2c a blade. Guaranteed to cut your throat—and if you don't buy any—I'll cut mine.

OOO LA LA

Heres' a hot item—75c Evening in Paris and Mais Qui Perfume or Toilet Water 47c each. Buy several and you'll know what it's like to spend an "Evening in Paris."

SVIRSKY IS NOT THE ONLY SUCKER

Manufacturers have trouble too! They produce a lot more merchandise than they can sell; so what do they do—the same as I'm doing — putting it out for ½ price—take a look at this list and if I have any left you will be the sucker for not taking advantage of these prices—

2.50 Harriet Hubbard Ayer Hand Cream 1.25
4.95 L'Estrona Hormone Cream 2.95
2.50 Velvet of Roses Night Cream 1.00
2.00 Dorothy Gray Blustery Weather Lotion 1.00
2.00 Dorothy Gray Special Dry Skin Lotion 1.00
2.25 Dorothy Gray Salon Cold Cream 1.25
2.00 Dorothy Gray Liquefying Cream 1.25
2.25 Dorothy Gray Special Dry Skin Mixtures 1.00
2.00 Dorothy Gray Estrogene Hormone Lotion 1.00
1.38 Jergen's Four Purpose Cream 98c
1.00 Dorothy Gray Lipstick 2 for 1.00

EXTRA BONUS

Rybutal—is handing out 25 extra with the purchase of 100—I'll go them one better and donate 25 myself—so you will get 150 Rybutal for the price of 100-$5.95. Don't tell Gabriel Heatter or he would think he's slipping.

DO YOU HAVE ALL YOUR TEETH?

If so, you can afford to have a Tooth Brush for each tooth. 29c Tooth Brush 15c. Buy several.

NEED A PIPE — WITH YOUR SLIPPERS?

If you do—now is the time to get several! I'm selling Imported Briar Pipes of several manufacturers—made to sell for 1.50, 1.98 and 2.50 for 98c—and if you spend all your money for the pipes, I'll throw in a 25c package of Sugar Barrel smoking tobacco! This offer is so good, I'm taking a combination home, myself.

OUT OF THE RED

You'll keep out of the red with this Fountain Pen. It's a $1.00 number and we are selling them out for 63c. If your going to use red ink the price is double.

BE CUTE WITH CUTEX AT 50% OFF

We are closing out our Cutex Implement line. 50% off on Tweezers, Scissors, etc. Become a "cut-up" at half price—or pick up your pennies off the floor at a reduced rate.

THIS IS A HUMDINGER

Eversoft Hand Cream made by Lehn Fink—(and you know what Fink rhymes with) is forever collecting dust on my shelves so why don't you try it for a while! 2 25c jars for 33c. Don't buy too many—just 6 or 8.

GOING UP???

A real sharp shooter came in one day. "George," he says, "the price of Boric Acid and Epsom Salts is going up—why don't you put some in stock?" So I did—so what happens — everything else goes up — so here's where you come in. 1-Pound Epsom Salts 14c; 1-Pound Boric Acid Powder 19c.

GET ONE — JUST IN CASE

'Move Newark Airport,' . . .

C-46 on a non-scheduled flight to Florida, caught fire after a takeoff from Newark Airport and dropped aflame into shallow Elizabeth river, less than a mile from the site of yesterday's disaster. Fifty-six persons died in the Dec. tragedy, which was the nation's second worst commercial plane wreck.

Residents in areas adjacent to Newark airport have protested lowflying planes for some time and Elizabeth's mayor James T. Kirk said last night his city lives under an "umbrella of danger."

Narrowly Missed School

Kirk said the twin-engine Convair that plunged out of the sky yesterday skimmed over Battin High School before it crashed 200 yards away from the school, where 1,000 girls had been released from classes 45 minutes earlier.

The plane could easily have crashed into the classrooms and the Miami plane just missed hitting a row of houses, he said.

Newark airport should be relocated "regardless of cost," said the mayor of this city of 112,000, located some 12 miles southwest of New York city. "We want it taken away from us!" he added.

To Ask Full Probe

New Jersey's Republican Senators Smith and Hendrickson announced in Washington they would ask for a full investigation of the crash and facilities at Newark Airport.

Rep. Case (R-N. J.) who lives in nearby Rahway, said a resolution would be introduced in the House today calling for creation of a special committee for a "thorough investigation of Newark Airport."

He said the probe would encompass the operation, expansion, supervision and regulation of the airport, with particular reference to the safety of the inhabitants of the airport area.

Hits Apartment Building

The silver Convair, inbound from Buffalo, hurtled into a three-story frame apartment building and exploded in a mass of leaping, orange flames that enveloped two nearby dwellings.

Screaming residents ran for safety. Eleven persons were injured, including nine occupants of nearby homes. Also hurt were a fireman and a rescue worker, who joined disaster units at the scene, just 2.8 miles from Newark Airport.

For 90 minutes, no one could get near the raging inferno, where the 18 passengers, three crew members and two company personnel aboard the plane were burned beyond recognition. For a time the roaring blaze threatened to engulf the entire block.

Area Is Blanketed

Clouds of steam and smoke blanketed the area, which is less than a mile from the spot where a Miami airline, non-scheduled plane crashed in the shallow Elizabeth river 38 days ago, killing 56 persons in the nation's worst commercial plane disaster.

Positive identification of Patterson—the first of the dead named here—was made through dental charts.

The plane had started its landing approach to Newark airport's runway 6 at 3:39 p. m. (EST) from a height of about 1,500 feet, using an instrument landing system, with an assist from Newark airport's radar. The ceiling was down to 400 feet and visibility was cut to three-fourths of a mile.

Drops From Radarscope

It was reported coming in on its glide path. Suddenly, the plane dropped out of view of the radarscope and crashed at 3:45 p. m. (EST).

While airport towermen frantically called the aircraft, it had plummeted out of the fog, narrowly missing Battin High School for girls and cut a fiery path close to the heart of this industrial city. The school's 1,000 pupils had been dismissed 45 minutes earlier.

"The plane hit one building and immediately it disintegrated into a mass of bricks and fire and seconds later the house next door was all in flames," said 29-year-old high school art teacher Michael Truss, who was 75 feet away.

Three Explosions

Peter Lesniak, a foundry worker, said he counted three explosions, followed by the screams of women and children. "I was there in a minute, but I couldn't do anything . . . I'll never forget the screams of the dying."

"It was a miracle any of the people got out of those houses," he added.

Disaster units rushed to the scene. Many of the rescue workers had been through all this in the Dec. 16 crash. They worked in the slanting rain, sometimes ankle deep in mud, amid the white glare of floodlights. Despite the weather, a crowd of more than 4,000 persons gathered behind the police barriers.

Some of those who lived near the scene hid tear-stained faces in handkerchiefs as they watched managled bodies being lifted gently from the rubble of splintered wood and shattered plane metal.

'My Baby Is in There'

A woman, restrained by neighbors, sobbed uncontrollably. "My baby is in there."

A few yards away, Albert Ragone, 34, wandered about in a daze. He came home from work to find his home in ruins, his wife and two young sons missing.

"I can't find them. I can't find them," he stammered.

The bodies of his wife, Annie, 30, and his sons, Emil, 3, and Robert, 14 months, later were removed from the wreckage, where the plane had splintered through their home at 306 Williamson St.

Among the 18 passenger victims was John F. Chester, 45, public relations director of the Carrier Air Conditioning Company of Syracuse, N. Y. He was a former general business editor of the Associated Press and a World War 2 war correspondent. Two other employes of the Carrier Corp. also were killed.

Four Students Killed

Four Syracuse University students, bound home for a midterm vacation after exams, were among the victims.

The pilot, 33-year-old Capt. Thomas J. Reid, lived only three blocks from the spot where the plane crashed. His wife, Henrietta, said Reid had "just completed an airlift to Japan."

Mrs. Reid, mother of two children is expecting a third child next summer.

Two CAA officials on the plane, George T. Williams, chief of the CAA's Navigational Aids Section, and John D. Rice, acting chief of the radar group of the section, had been attending conferences in Syracuse on the development of radar equipment designed for airport use.

Check Begins At Once

An immediate investigation into the cause of the crash was launched by Joseph O. Fluet, regional director of the Civil Aeronautics Board, who only recently completed a probe of the Florida-bound C-46 crash here.

The Convair was the same type of plane as the one that crashed into the East River in New York Jan. 14. All 36 aboard were rescued.

Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., which makes the Convair, said Convair-liner transports had a record of 3,650,000,000 passenger miles of service without a fatality until yesterday's crash.

American Airlines said its accident record until the crash was 4,600,000,000 passenger miles flown since Nov. 29, 1949, without a fatality. On that date, 28 were killed in a crash at Dallas, Tex.

Remove Victim From Plane Disaster Scene

At Probation Parley

Edmund P. Burhans, chief probation officer for Ulster county, attended a conference of probation administrators Tuesday at Albany. The conference, held at the State Office Building, was attended by probation officials from areas two and three which includes the territory from Putnam and Rockland counties northerly along the Hudson and Lake Champlain to the Canadian border.

'None Knows Where or When' . . .

Was Doing KP Duty

At the time the President's telegram arrived, Patterson actually was dumping garbage cans while on kitchen police duty.

Patterson, who had been an infantry captain in World War I, took the $10,000-a-year temporary War Department job and relinquished his $12,000-a-year lifetime judgeship.

Within six months, Patterson became undersecretary of war. He then supervised the army's 100 billion dollar World War 2 procurement program.

Urged Buildup of Strength

In 1947, Patterson left the government to return to private law practice, but he continued to urge a buildup of American military strength.

At World War 2's end, he had said: "If we dissipate our military strength, we shall be asking for another war, a war more fateful than any we have yet known."

He was in Europe at the time the war started in Korea in 1950. Denouncing Russia, he said the North Koreans launched their attack at Moscow's command.

Patterson was married in 1920 to Miss Margaret Winchester of Baltimore. He leaves his wife; a son, Robert P. Jr. and three daughters, Susan, Virginia, and Mrs. Samuel R. Campbell, Jr., of Boston.

Witness Declares

first deputy fire commissioner, headed the racket during the O'Dwyer administration and that in the present administration of Mayor Vinvent R. Impellitteri the racket was taken over by Frank Sampson, Impellitteri's patronage dispenser.

Denies Connection

Last week Sampson, a former leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic party organization, denied any connection with the shakedown. Yesterday Sampson, who is not on trial and is not charged, said any further comment would have to await the end of the Moran trial.

The testimony by Smith followed earlier statements by Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Scotti, who said Moran and Sampson headed a ring of inspectors to "shake down" fuel oil installers.

Smith, under a 10 to 20 year prison sentence in the shakedown, testified that just before O'Dwyer's re-election in 1949 Moran said: "We are a little pressed for campaign funds."

The fireman said that thereafter he turned over about $2,500 a week to Moran, about $500 more than previously.

Before O'Dwyer left for the post in Mexico he elevated Moran to the $15,000 lifetime post as a city water commissioner. Impellitteri became acting mayor.

'Still Handling Things'

After Moran left the fire department, Smith said, the defendant "told me to continue on the same, that he's still handling things."

However, Moran was cut out of the picture three days after Impellitteri was elected in his own right in November, 1950. Smith testified that another convicted fireman, James A. Keohane, called him and said:

"I just got orders from Frank Powers (whom the prosecution identified outside the courtroom as a fire department clerk) that you're not getting the money any more—that the money is going to Frank Sampson."

Smith said he and Keohane went to see Moran. Smith said he and Moran had this conversation:

"I told Mr. Moran, 'Jim, there's no more money for you today' and he asked: 'How did that come about?'

"I told him the money was going to go to Frank Sampson, that Frank Powers had given the orders to Keohane . . .".

"Moran said: 'If Frank Sampson is behind it, that is the case and you give him the money. We had a good run of it and it's the fortunes of war.'"

Moran already is appealing a five year federal prison sentence for committing perjury before the U. S. Senate Crime Committee on his testimony about his associations with a Brooklyn numbers racketeer.

The extortion trial continues today before an all-male jury.

You'll Be Sorry If You Miss This Silly Sale

YOU'D THINK A GUY LIKE ME DEALING IN DRUG STORE MERCHANDISE WOULD HAVE MORE SENSE THAN TO BUY THESE CATS AND DOGS. SO COME AND TAKE ADVANTAGE OF ME — I'M NOT PERFECT

★ ★ ★

Gee—You would think a guy like me would learn from experience.—It was just a year ago! I laid my cards down on the table and told you about all the junk I had accumulated throughout the year. I gave it to you, cost and below in my first silly sale—you got some real bargains and I got rid of a heap of stuff and everyone was happy. During the past year I got older—lost more hair, but didn't get any wiser—so here we go again—plenty of bargains to choose from and all at a steal! But if you get caught shoplifting the rules are, "you pay double."

LIP STICKS EVERY SHADE BUT YELLOW

They change the fashion colors on lip sticks so often and fast they always leave you holding the bag. And keepin' up with the new shades is driving me crazy. I know without looking I have every shade but yellow. Priced at $1.00. But I'll take 55c, 2 for $1.00. You won't make me mad if you take a handful 'cause I got 132 to sell at this price. You can't fool me much on lip sticks 'cause I've been smeared too often, or you can't fool me much 'cause I'm too ignorant. You buy a new shade and sell out at $1.20. Wire for some more of the same and by the time you get 'em, there's a brand new shade out that everyone is asking for, so it's a vicious circle, as this goes on and on and some of the damdest names, but they're all red, just different shades, purty red, purty cheap and all shades guaranteed Kissable.

IN THE COTTON — NOT THE CLOVER!

Being a big time Wall Stree merchant, I figured I should rea the Wall Street Journal. So, wha did it get me—trouble. It sai cotton was going up—and the onl thing that went up was my cotto stock—thus you can have a fu pound of sterile absorbent cotto for 1.19.

DO YOU HAVE HAIR?

Well if you do, brothers an sisters, I have the shampoos to g with it. With the advent of new modern shampoos, like White Rain, Dark Rain and Wet Rain some of the old stand-bys are standing on my shelf—so come and take them off at these prices:

25c Mar-o-oil Shampoo 6c
1.00 Curl-care Shampoo 48c
25c Rayve Shampoo 9c
60c Glo-ver Shampoo 29c

NO EXCUSE FOR BEING LATE NOW!

Here's a real Alarm Clock to keep you on time and away from the boss' frown. Regularly selling for $2.85—now being tossed to you for a measley $1.79. If you can beat this price, we'll wake you up personally!

POWDER? FACE — BUG — GUN

We got a stack of this stuff. Mostly Talcum and Body Powder. No difference only it makes you carry two items instead of one. Just shows how a guy's slogan, "We have it, we will get it or it isn't made" will get him in dutch. How any one drug store or any one guy in his right mind could ccumulate so many is beyond me, anyway many of them are nationally advertised. SNEEK in and et a couple 'cause they'll sure make you smell purty when you on't have time to take a bath. Jot good as gifts but good for you nd priced as low as 2 bits.

DO YOU HAVE ANY ELEPHANTS TO WASH?

We have enough soap on hand o supply a circus for umteen ears. We have over a jillion different brands of soap and this is ne item you can't get gypped on cause soap's soap no matter in what shape or in Johnnie's mouth. f you can't find a soap priced to t your budget, pick one out and e will give it to you. Nothing like good clean customers.

SVIRSKY ASKS FOR HELP

Some time ago (and brother, it's over a year ago) I bought some Don Juan Double Edge Razor Blades. In order to have them exclusive, I had to buy 1000 packages, 5 blades in a package and regular retail price is 25c. You can have as many as you want at 7c—less than 2c a blade. Guaranteed to cut your throat—and if you don't buy any—I'll cut mine.

OOO LA LA

Heres' a hot item—75c Evening in Paris and Mais Qui Perfume or Toilet Water 47c each. Buy several and you'll know what it's like to spend an "Evening in Paris."

SVIRSKY IS NOT THE ONLY SUCKER

Manufacturers have trouble too! They produce a lot more merchandise than they can sell; so what do they do—the same as I'm doing — putting it out for ½ price—take a look at this list and if I have any left you will be the sucker for not taking advantage of these prices—

2.50 Harriet Hubbard Ayer Hand Cream 1.25
4.95 L'Estrona Hormone Cream 2.95
2.50 Velvet of Roses Night Cream 1.00
2.00 Dorothy Gray Blustery Weather Lotion 1.00
2.00 Dorothy Gray Special Dry Skin Lotion 1.00
2.25 Dorothy Gray Salon Cold Cream 1.25
2.00 Dorothy Gray Liquefying Cream 1.25
2.25 Dorothy Gray Special Dry Skin Mixtures 1.00
2.00 Dorothy Gray Estrogene Hormone Lotion 1.00
1.38 Jergen's Four Purpose Cream 98c
1.00 Dorothy Gray Lipstick 2 for 1.00

EXTRA BONUS

Rybutal—is handing out 25 extra with the purchase of 100—. I'll go them one better and donate 25 myself—so you will get 150 Rybutal for the price of 100-$5.95. Don't tell Gabriel Heatter or he would think he's slipping.

DO YOU HAVE ALL YOUR TEETH?

NEED A PIPE — WITH YOUR SLIPPERS?

If you do—now is the time to get several! I'm selling Imported Briar Pipes of several manufacturers—made to sell for 1.50, 1.98 and 2.50 for 98c—and if you spend all your money for the pipes, I'll throw in a 25c package of Sugar Barrel smoking tobacco! This offer is so good, I'm taking a combination home, myself.

OUT OF THE RED

You'll keep out of the red with this Fountain Pen. It's a $1.00 number and we are selling them out for 63c. If your going to use red ink the price is double.

BE CUTE WITH CUTEX AT 50% OFF

We are closing out our Cutex Implement line. 50% off on Tweezers, Scissors, etc. Become a "cut-up" at half price—or pick up your pennies off the floor at a reduced rate.

THIS IS A HUMDINGER

Eversoft Hand Cream made by Lehn Fink—(and you know what Fink rhymes with) is forever collecting dust on my shelves—so why don't you try it for a while! 2 25c jars for 33c. Don't buy too many—just 6 or 8.

GOING UP???

A real sharp shooter came in one day. "George," he says, "the price of Boric Acid and Epsom Salts is going up—why don't you put some in stock?" So I did—so what happens — everything else goes up — so here's where you come in. 1-Pound Epsom Salts 14c; 1-Pound Boric Acid Powder 19c.

GET ONE — JUST IN CASE

Walcott-Charles Return Bout Appears Due for Late March

Christenberry Rates Ez No. 1 Challenger

New York, Jan. 23 — (AP) — The pincers that have been tightening on heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott for the past twenty-four hours today had the ancient New Jersey battler ready to give up his lucrative exhibition tour and sign for a defense of his title.

But Jersey Joe, who probably will climb in the ring against Ezzard Charles whose crown he lifted last July 18, had one ally—Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, which has a contract with the champion.

When Norris heard that Bob Christenberry, the new chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, had ordered Walcott to defend his title within 15 days or have it vacated in New York, the IBC president said:

"I had thought it understood that Walcott was to be given the chance to make the most of the financial opportunities he has as champion before being required to defend."

But Christenberry obviously didn't see it that way. Originally, Walcott signed to defend his championship 90 days from July 18 and against Charles. That went by the boards though, when Walcott began cashing in on the crown. Now Christenberry apparently has decided the time has come to act. He also bypassed Rocky Marciano (winner over Joe Louis) and Harry Matthews of Seattle.

Charles Is No. 1

"As far as the New York State Athletic Commission is concerned," said Christenberry, "Ezzard Charles is the No. 1 challenger. We have nothing before us from Marciano, and I refuse to consider Matthews a contender for the heavyweight title."

Rumors have been making the rounds that Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's manager, would prefer Marciano to Charles. However, Marciano said he doesn't want to fight for the title unless Charles waives his right.

"So far as I know," said Norris, "Bocchicchio is agreeable to going through with his contract obligations. The Walcott-Charles match seemed assured until Marciano stepped into the spotlight with his knockout of Louis. We are hopeful of arranging the Walcott-Charles match for a late March or early April, which will leave time enough to prepare for a June bout between Marciano and the winner."

Have Three Bouts

Norris couldn't contact Bocchicchio, but Jersey Joe's manager issues a statement saying:

"We may decide to sign for three bouts within 15 days, probably a first bout with Matthews on the west coast and a title defense in June. We have a verbal agreement, made under duress, to defend against Charles. We will take one tuneup fight, preferably against Matthews, and I look with favor on signing for a title bout with either Marciano or Charles."

(Everytime a heavyweight champion steps in tthe ring, he risks his title. Bocchicchio did not explain how he proposed to get around this.)

Charles' manager Jake Mintz, showed no disposition to drop his fighter out of the running. He wired the IBC an official challenge for the title, along with a $5,000 forfeit.

That placed Bocchicchio and Walcott squarely on the spot, and the concensus among those close to the IBC was that it's going to be Jersey Joe and Ezzard in the ring the next time the champion climbs between the ropes.

President Albert E. Houghton's pronouncement in Schenectady on Monday that he would recommend suspension of operations by the Class C Canadian-American League in 1952 because it is "suicidal for a small minor league to buck television" appears to have been somewhat belated in the light of recent developments.

This week's issue of the Sporting News, organized baseball's Bible, carried an item about the "foldup" of the Can-Am League, while New York Yankee publicity releases over the weekend listed Amsterdam among the minor league affiliations they are dropping in 1952.

The Yankee statements said flat-footedly that the Can-Am League had folded.

Along comes the announcement that Mr. Houghton "will recommend" suspension of the Can-Am League when the league directors are assembled next Saturday. From this corner it looks like pretty poor timing on the president's part.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The Yankees have purchased two members of the Rome Colonels and one happens to be Lou Kramberg, the jack of all trades who opened the 1951 season with Kingston. The other is Sal Arduini, rubber-armed pitcher. Kramberg's record wasn't particularly impressive, a .228 batting average in 107 games with Kingston and Rome, but he is young and a potential star who can whack the long ball. Manager Hank Camelli tabbed Kramberg one of the best prospects in the league. The Bronx youth who shuttled between first base and the outfield goes to Three Rivers, Canada, in the fast Provincial League. Arduini, a 13-9 hurler with four shutouts, is tabbed for the Yankee farm at Quincy, Ill., in the Three-I-League. Can-Am official averages for 1951 are so voluminous that few sports eds. want to tackle them. A check revealed that a total of 154 players saw action last year, or roughly an average of 26 per team. Kingston led with 30. That gives you an idea of the turnover in manpower in A. E. Houghton's circuit.

Best Giant quip of the week: The Dodgers led the National League with 183 homers but Bobby Thomson undid them all with just one.

• Of Men and Mice:

Remember Johnny Raymond when he was an amateur welterweight out of Flatbush and one of the heaviest punching prospects in the area? He is now the coach and manager of Father Edmund Netter's CYO boxing squad at Haverstraw and says they have a novice heavyweight who can't miss. The big fellow makes his debut in the sub-novice division of the Golden Gloves this year. Unfortunately, Johnny didn't send along the name, or is he merely trying to keep him away from the professional mob. That wouldn't be so dumb, either. Raymond, whose proper name is Ramundo, had two stirring battles with Jackie Feldman of Schenectady and Young Melio, who later developed into the world's light heavyweight champion as Melio Bettina of Beacon. Al Barillari, the colorful player-manager of Gloversville Glovers, has been named pilot of the Granby, Canada (Provincial League) club which recently arranged a working agreement with the Phillies. Emil Gall, 1950 Kingston Colonial skipper, has moved into the front office ranks as general manager of the Scranton Red Sox of the Eastern League.

The New York Giants' 1952 press, radio and TV brochure has arrived. It's a splendid volume turned out by Garry Schumacher and had our Knute Beichert drooling. Particularly, the Willard Mullin front page drawing which shows Manager Leo Durocher reading "The Little Miracle of Coogan's Bluff" to a Giant behemoth who vaguely resembles Shanty Hogan. "Read it to me all over again, Leo," drools the Giant player.

If you consider yourself a veteran Yankee rooter don't mortgage the old homestead betting that Mel Allen tagged Joe Dimaggio with the nickname "Yankee Clipper." Do you know who did it?

Jack Dempsey was asked what he thought of Rocky Marciano, who won fame by knocking out Joe Louis. "Marciano is a strong fellow," admitted the old Manassa Mauler, "but he has a lot to learn.

"He can hurt you if he can catch you, but might have trouble against a moving target." Like Ezzard Charles?

Aussie Unknown Nearly Stops Savitt

Adelaide, Australia, Jan. 23 (AP)—Dick Savitt ran into tough opposition from Ian Ayre today and was almost eliminated from the Australian National tennis championships.

The defending champion from the United States made a great rally to win, 6-1, 6-4, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4, after being down, three games to none, in the fifth and deciding set.

Savitt thus advanced to the semi-finals along with Frank Sedgman, Mervyn Rose and Ken McGregor.

Sedgman whipped Don Candy in straight sets, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4. Rose went five sets before beating Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 2-6, 6-2. McGregor swept aside Geoff Brown, 6-4, 6-2, 12-10.

Saratoga Harness Prizes $195,000

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—Saratoga Raceway officials announced today that the 60-night summer harness racing meeting would feature 73 stake events worth $195,000 in purses.

Four $10,000 Grand Circuit stakes will headline the June 16-Aug. 23 program. They are the Arden Free-For-All trot, the Empire State Free-For-All pace, the Runneymede three-year-old trot and the Bostwick tyo-year-old trot.

Eight $5,000 races also are scheduled.

Hubbell Honored

Oklahoma City, Jan. 23 (AP)—Carl Hubbell, the former ace hurler of the New York Giants who is from Meeker, Okla., was made a member of the state's Hall of Fame today. Hubbell won 252 National League games during his baseball career. He pitched 46 scoreless innings in 1933 and won 16 straight games in 1935.

Fly-Casting Shows Mint for Williams

Boston, Jan. 23 (AP)—Slugger Ted Williams, now fishing in Florida, has been booked to resume his fly-casting exhibitions in both the Boston and New York sportsmen's shows, according to a management announcement. He will open a nine-day run here on Feb. 2.

According to promoter Sheldon Fairbanks, Williams received a total of $30,000 for his Boston and New York appearances two years ago and helped draw record attendances in both cities.

Recalled as a U. S. Marines flyer, Williams is under orders to report for a physical examination at the nearby Squantum Naval Air Base on April 2.

No-Can-Do Banquet

The No-Can-Do Bowling League will not bowl on Thursday because of the annual mid-season banquet at 7 p. m. at the Airport Inn.

Jack Kearns Favors Maxim-Ray Contest

Boston, Jan. 23 (AP)—Veteran manager Jack Kearns today said he favored a light heavyweight championship boxing bout between his Joey Maxim and Sugar Ray Robinson, the middleweight titlist, in June.

Kearns who has managed five other world titlists, including Jack Dempsey, said he has discussed such a match with Robinson.

Kearns also favors pitting Maxim against Rocky Marciano, unbeaten Brockton heavyweight, here in Boston.

Smith, Schrader Pace Dairy Win

Paul Smith and Dan Schrader furnished a steady flow of baskets to pace Jones Dairy to a 69-57 victory over Electrol last night in the YMCA League.

Smith, one of the loop's more prolific swishers, unloaded 19 points and Schrader hit for 17. Bob Dederick led Electrol with 16 and Ray Herrick added 13.

Adds 190 and 171 For 628 Series

Elizabeth Bruck, who throws one of the most powerful hook balls among the distaff keglers of the city, had it working with devestating effect in the week's session of the Women's Major League.

She fired a rousing 267 for a new league and seasonal record in Kingston and added 190 and 171 for a 628.

The 628 represented her first "600" in league competition.

After an opening spare in the first game, Miss Bruck threw a seven-timer, before running into a tap. She cleaned up the spare, then doubled and filled with eight in the tenth. Two misses and a split held her to 190 in the middle set despite a four-bagger. She boosted her average from 163 to 166.

Rose Schatzel's average dipped slightly to 195.23 for 45 games when she posted 552. Reta Frederick shot 219-506, Beverly Port 501, and Adabelle Markle 526.

Assault Charge Against Ryan

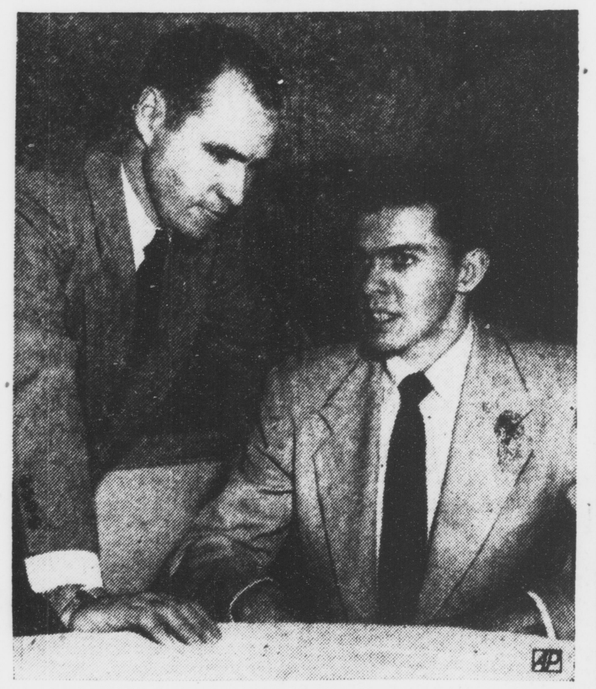

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Tommy Ryan, whose license to manage fighters in New York state already has been revoked for life, today was awaiting trial on charges of assault growing out of the dressing room fracas that followed the Ernie Durando-Rocky Castellani fight on Jan. 11.

Along with Ryan, his brother, Patty Eboli, was arrested yesterday as a result of two informations returned by a New York county grand jury which investigated the disturbance. Trial was set for Feb. 6.

Ryan was charged with trying to beat Referee Ray Miller and striking matchmaker Al Weill. Eboli was charged with assaulting Weill.

The disturbance came about when Miller stopped the fight when Castellani, managed by Ryan, was on the ropes. He awarded a knockout to Durando. The result was a major upset.

BOWLING

'Pop' Auchmoody's 655 New League High; Betty Bruck's 563 New Friendship Mark

Elting S. "Pop" Auchmoody, one of the grand old veterans of local bowling, and Elizabeth Bruck who is on a high scoring spree, were bowlers-of-the-night last night.

Auchmoody, former treasurer of the KBA and a sturdy city tournament competitor, knocked off solos of 186, 225 and 244 for a new high series record of 655 in the Central Rec League. The former high of 651 was held by Eddie Heins.

Miss Bruck, who powered a 267 solo the night before, hit 563, with 204, 182, 177, for a new individual triple mark in the Friendship League.

Clarence Herdman led the Silver Palace circuit with 192-223-172—587; G. Maggiore's 118-161-175—454 was high in the Business Girls and Mary Diamond's 134-168-170—472 topped the Hercules Women.

Other league leaders included John Auer of the Rosendale Chalet Leaders, 195-205-146—546; Max Chirlin 214, 221, 141 for 576 in the Good Neighbor and Ed Wyant, 170-193-172—535 for the Booster.

Joe Sangi Pounds 631

Joe Sangi unloaded a 257 solo and 631 triple for runnerup honors in the Central Rec, while Frank Bruno toppled 206-222—621. Bill Pieper hit 235—593; F. Robinson 200—557; Earl Sleight 545; Ronnie Mauro 544; Bill Lawrence 526; Ed Maxwell 201—517 and Ed Auchmoody 516.

Chrissie Wilson shot a runner-up 561 in the Friendship League and Evelyn Gross and Mollie Tiano tied with 495s. Others in the top bracket were Miriam Posner 487; Marge Jansen 486; Dot Rawding 485; Marge Logan 483, and Helen Mayer 482.

Herm Seelbach finished with 213—576 and Cosmos Costello blasted 254—575 in the Silver Palace. Other good pin spillers were Larry Jacobs 237—574; Percy Slover 203—566; Elwood Robinson 565; Lou Bruhn 203-203—546; Frank Russano 540; Paul Khederian 539; Bill Evans 535; Ralph Mayone 534; Vince Noble 527 and Jack Martin 525.

M. Levy Rolls 573

Runnerup in the Good Neighbor League was M. Levy with 201—573; Joe Singer 548; Sam Markowitz 210—538; M. Arlensky 201—537; Ben Marcus 536; Herm Arlensky 201—530; Seymour Kaplan 529 and H. Kohan 210—525. Ed Fropp banged a 221 solo and S. Samuels had 213.

Tony Canzoneri, not the famous old boxing champion, was second best with 531 in the Booster League. J. Gillen got show money with 204-509 and Roger Grossbohlin posted 507. Other top shooters were: Fred Hummell 208—498; Lorin Auchmoody 498; Joe Fabiano 493; Hype Senor 491; Pete Kowalenko 484; Bob Goldstein 480 and Jim Howard ditto.

H. Harris crashed the "400" club in the Business Girls with 446 and M. Leach shot 443. Others in the select circle were S. Raymond 425; P. Duffy 423; F. Norton and J. Grunenwald 414.

Rita Amarello's 471 was second best in the Hercules Women, while high single honors went to Jean Fatum with a 200 on the nose. The other top bracket pin spillers were Helen Buchholtz 452; Lorraine Dasher 441; Louise Jorgen 436; Chris Cole 421; Flo Maley 414; Jo Webster 413 and Kiki Smith 406.

Leroy Constant toppled 519 in the Chalet Leaders and Harry Houska was third with 200—501. Vern Freese equalled that mark and Bill Lawrence shot 491. Clary Buddenhagen posted 488 and H. Simpson shot 484.

Walcott-Charles Return Bout Appears Due for Late March

Christenberry Rates Ez No. 1 Challenger

New York, Jan. 23 — (AP) — The pincers that have been tightening on heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott for the past twenty-four hours today had the ancient New Jersey battler ready to give up his lucrative exhibition tour and sign for a defense of his title.

But Jersey Joe, who probably will climb in the ring against Ezzard Charles whose crown he lifted last July 18, had one ally—Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, which has a contract with the champion.

When Norris heard that Bob Christenberry, the new chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, had ordered Walcott to defend his title within 15 days or have it vacated in New York, the IBC president said:

"I had thought it understood that Walcott was to be given the chance to make the most of the financial opportunities he has as champion before being required to defend."

But Christenberry obviously didn't see it that way. Originally, Walcott signed to defend his championship 90 days from July 18 and against Charles. That went by the boards though, when Walcott began cashing in on the crown. Now Christenberry apparently has decided the time has come to act. He also bypassed Rocky Marciano (winner over Joe Louis) and Harry Matthews of Seattle.

Charles Is No. 1

"As far as the New York State Athletic Commission is concerned," said Christenberry, "Ezzard Charles is the No. 1 challenger. We have nothing before us from Marciano, and I refuse to consider Matthews a contender for the heavyweight title."

Rumors have been making the rounds that Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's manager, would prefer Marciano to Charles. However, Marciano said he doesn't want to fight for the title unless Charles waives his right.

"So far as I know," said Norris, "Bocchicchio is agreeable to going through with his contract obligations. The Walcott-Charles match seemed assured until Marciano stepped into the spotlight with his knockout of Louis. We are hopeful of arranging the Walcott-Charles match for a late March or early April, which will leave time enough to prepare for a June bout between Marciano and the winner."

Have Three Bouts

Norris couldn't contact Bocchicchio, but Jersey Joe's manager issues a statement saying:

"We may decide to sign for three bouts within 15 days, probably a first bout with Matthews on the west coast and a title defense in June. We have a verbal agreement, made under duress, to defend against Charles. We will take one tuneup fight, preferably against Matthews, and I look with favor on signing for a title bout with either Marciano or Charles."

(Everytime a heavyweight champion steps in the ring, he risks his title. Bocchicchio did not explain how he proposed to get around this.)

Charles' manager Jake Mintz, showed no disposition to drop his fighter out of the running. He wired the IBC an official challenge for the title, along with a $5,000 forfeit.

That placed Bocchicchio and Walcott squarely on the spot, and the concensus among those close to the IBC was that it's going to be Jersey Joe and Ezzard in the ring the next time the champion climbs between the ropes.

President Albert E. Houghton's pronouncement in Schenectady on Monday that he would recommend suspension of operations by the Class C Canadian-American League in 1952 because it is "suicidal for a small minor league to buck television" appears to have been somewhat belated in the light of recent developments.

This week's issue of the Sporting News, organized baseball's Bible, carried an item about the "foldup" of the Can-Am League, while New York Yankee publicity releases over the weekend listed Amsterdam among the minor league affiliations they are dropping in 1952.

The Yankee statements said flat-footedly that the Can-Am League had folded.

Along comes the announcement that Mr. Houghton "will recommend" suspension of the Can-Am League when the league directors are assembled next Saturday. From this corner it looks like pretty poor timing on the president's part.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The Yankees have purchased two members of the Rome Colonels and one happens to be Lou Kramberg, the jack of all trades who opened the 1951 season with Kingston. The other is Sal Arduini, rubber-armed pitcher. Kramberg's record wasn't particularly impressive, a .228 batting average in 107 games with Kingston and Rome, but he is young and a potential star who can whack the long ball. Manager Hank Camelli tabbed Kramberg one of the best prospects in the league. The Bronx youth who shuttled between first base and the outfield goes to Three Rivers, Canada, in the fast Provincial League. Arduini, a 13-9 hurler with four shutouts, is tabbed for the Yankee farm at Quincy, Ill., in the Three-I-League. Can-Am official averages for 1951 are so voluminous that few sports eds. want to tackle them. A check revealed that a total of 154 players saw action last year, or roughly an average of 26 per team. Kingston led with 30. That gives you an idea of the turnover in manpower in A. E. Houghton's circuit.

Best Giant quip of the week: The Dodgers led the National League with 183 homers but Bobby Thomson undid them all with just one.

• Of Men and Mice:

Remember Johnny Raymond when he was an amateur welterweight out of Flatbush and one of the heaviest punching prospects in the area? He is now the coach and manager of Father Edmund Netter's CYO boxing squad at Haverstraw and says they have a novice heavyweight who can't miss. The big fellow makes his debut in the sub-novice division of the Golden Gloves this year. Unfortunately, Johnny didn't send along the name, or is he merely trying to keep him away from the professional mob. That wouldn't be so dumb, either. Raymond, whose proper name is Ramundo, had two stirring battles with Jackie Feldman of Schenectady and Young Melio, who later developed into the world's light heavyweight champion as Melio Bettina of Beacon. Al Barillari, the colorful player-manager of Gloversville Glovers, has been named pilot of the Granby, Canada (Provincial League) club which recently arranged a working agreement with the Phillies. Emil Gall, 1950 Kingston Colonial skipper, has moved into the front office ranks as general manager of the Scranton Red Sox of the Eastern League.

The New York Giants' 1952 press, radio and TV brochure has arrived. It's a splendid volume turned out by Garry Schumacher and had our Knute Beichert drooling. Particularly, the Willard Mullin front page drawing which shows Manager Leo Durocher reading "The Little Miracle of Coogan's Bluff" to a Giant behemoth who vaguely resembles Shanty Hogan. "Read it to me all over again, Leo," drools the Giant player.

If you consider yourself a veteran Yankee rooter don't mortgage the old homestead betting that Mel Allen tagged Joe Dimaggio with the nickname "Yankee Clipper." Do you know who did it?

Jack Dempsey was asked what he thought of Rocky Marciano, who won fame by knocking out Joe Louis. "Marciano is a strong fellow," admitted the old Manassa Mauler, "but he has a lot to learn.

"He can hurt you if he can catch you, but might have trouble against a moving target." Like Ezzard Charles?

Aussie Unknown Nearly Stops Savitt

Adelaide, Australia, Jan. 23 (AP)—Dick Savitt ran into tough opposition from Ian Ayre today and was almost eliminated from the Australian National tennis championships.

The defending champion from the United States made a great rally to win, 6-1, 6-4, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4, after being down, three games to none, in the fifth and deciding set.

Savitt thus advanced to the semi-finals along with Frank Sedgman, Mervyn Rose and Ken McGregor.

Sedgman whipped Don Candy in straight sets, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4. Rose went five sets before beating Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 2-6, 6-2. McGregor swept aside Geoff Brown, 6-4, 6-2, 12-10.

Saratoga Harness Prizes $195,000

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—Saratoga Raceway officials announced today that the 60-night summer harness racing meeting would feature 73 stake events worth $195,000 in purses.

Four $10,000 Grand Circuit stakes will headline the June 16-Aug. 23 program. They are the Arden Free-For-All trot, the Empire State Free-For-All pace, the Runneymede three-year-old trot and the Bostwick two-year-old trot.

Eight $5,000 races also are scheduled.

Hubbell Honored

Oklahoma City, Jan. 23 (AP)—Carl Hubbell, the former ace hurler of the New York Giants who is from Meeker, Okla., was made a member of the state's Hall of Fame today. Hubbell won 252 National League games during his baseball career. He pitched 46 scoreless innings in 1933 and won 16 straight games in 1935.

Fly-Casting Shows Mint for Williams

Boston, Jan. 23 (AP)—Slugger Ted Williams, now fishing in Florida, has been booked to resume his fly-casting exhibitions in both the Boston and New York sportsmen's shows, according to a management announcement. He will open a nine-day run here on Feb. 2.

According to promoter Sheldon Fairbanks, Williams received a total of $30,000 for his Boston and New York appearances two years ago and helped draw record attendances in both cities.

Recalled as a U. S. Marines flyer, Williams is under orders to report for a physical examination at the nearby Squantum Naval Air Base on April 2.

Jack Kearns Favors Maxim-Ray Contest

Boston, Jan. 23 (AP)—Veteran manager Jack Kearns today said he favored a light heavyweight championship boxing bout between his Joey Maxim and Sugar Ray Robinson, the middleweight titlist, in June.

Kearns who has managed five other world titlists, including Jack Dempsey, said he has discussed such a match with Robinson.

Kearns also favors pitting Maxim against Rocky Marciano, unbeaten Brockton heavyweight, here in Boston.

Smith, Schrader Pace Dairy Win

Paul Smith and Dan Schrader furnished a steady flow of baskets to pace Jones Dairy to a 69-57 victory over Electrol last night in the YMCA League.

Smith, one of the loop's more prolific swishers, unloaded 19 points and Schrader hit for 17. Bob Dederick led Electrol with 16 and Ray Herrick added 13.

Adds 190 and 171 For 628 Series

Elizabeth Bruck, who throws one of the most powerful hook balls among the distaff keglers of the city, had it working with devestating effect in the week's session of the Women's Major League.

She fired a rousing 267 for a new league and seasonal record in Kingston and added 190 and 171 for a 628.

The 628 represented her first "600" in league competition.

After an opening spare in the first game, Miss Bruck threw a seven-timer, before running into a tap. She cleaned up the spare, then doubled and filled with eight in the tenth. Two misses and a split held her to 190 in the middle set despite a four-bagger. She boosted her average from 163 to 166.

Rose Schatzel's average dipped slightly to 195.23 for 45 games when she posted 552. Reta Frederick shot 219-506, Beverly Port 501, and Adabelle Markle 526.

Assault Charge Against Ryan

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Tommy Ryan, whose license to manage fighters in New York state already has been revoked for life, today was awaiting trial on charges of assault growing out of the dressing room fracas that followed the Ernie Durando-Rocky Castellani fight on Jan. 11.

Along with Ryan, his brother, Patty Eboli, was arrested yesterday as a result of two informations returned by a New York county grand jury which investigated the disturbance. Trial was set for Feb. 6.

Ryan was charged with trying to beat Referee Ray Miller and striking matchmaker Al Weill. Eboli was charged with assaulting Weill.

The disturbance came about when Miller stopped the fight when Castellani, managed by Ryan, was on the ropes. He awarded a knockout to Durando. The result was a major upset.

BOWLING

'Pop' Auchmoody's 655 New League High; Betty Bruck's 563 New Friendship Mark

Elting S. "Pop" Auchmoody, one of the grand old veterans of local bowling, and Elizabeth Bruck who is on a high scoring spree, were bowlers-of-the-night last night.

Auchmoody, former treasurer of the KBA and a sturdy city tournament competitor, knocked off solos of 186, 225 and 244 for a new high series record of 655 in the Central Rec League. The former high of 651 was held by Eddie Heins.

Miss Bruck, who powered a 267 solo the night before, hit 563, with 204, 182, 177, for a new individual triple mark in the Friendship League.

Clarence Herdman led the Silver Palace circuit with 192-223-172—587; G. Maggiore's 118-161-175—454 was high in the Business Girls and Mary Diamond's 134-168-170—472 topped the Hercules Women.

Other league leaders included John Auer of the Rosendale Chalet Leaders, 195-205-146—546; Max Chirlin 214, 221, 141 for 576 in the Good Neighbor and Ed Wyant, 170-193-172—535 for the Booster.

Joe Sangi Pounds 631

Joe Sangi unloaded a 257 solo and 631 triple for runnerup honors in the Central Rec, while Frank Bruno toppled 206-222—621. Bill Pieper hit 235—593; F. Robinson 200—557; Earl Sleight 545; Ronnie Mauro 541; Bill Lawrence 526; Ed Maxwell 201—517 and Ed Auchmoody 516.

Chrissie Wilson shot a runnerup 561 in the Friendship League and Evelyn Gross and Mollie Tiano tied with 495s. Others in the top bracket were Miriam Posner 487; Marge Jansen 486; Dot Rawding 485; Marge Logan 483, and Helen Mayer 482.

Herm Seelbach finished with 213—576 and Cosmos Costello blasted 254—575 in the Silver Palace. Other good pin spillers were Larry Jacobs 237—574; Percy Slover 203—566; Elwood Robinson 565; Lou Bruhn 203-203—546; Frank Russano 540; Paul Khederian 539; Bill Evans 535; Ralph Mayone 534; Vince Noble 527 and Jack Martin 525.

M. Levy Rolls 573

Runnerup in the Good Neighbor League was M. Levy with 201—573; Joe Singer 548; Sam Markowitz 210—538; M. Arlensky 201—537; Ben Marcus 536; Herm Arlensky 201—530; Seymour Kaplan 529 and H. Kohan 210—525. Ed Propp banged a 221 solo and S. Samuels had 213.

Tony Canzoneri, not the famous old boxing champion, was second best with 531 in the Booster League. J. Gillen got show money with 204-509 and Roger Grossbohlin posted 507. Other top shooters were: Fred Hummell 208—498; Lorin Auchmoody 498; Joe Fabiano 493; Hype Senor 491; Pete Kowalenko 484, Bob Goldstein 480 and Jim Howard ditto.

H. Harris crashed the "400" club in the Business Girls with 446 and M. Leach shot 443. Others in the select circle were S. Raymond 425; F. Duffy 423; F. Norton and J. Grunenwald 414.

Rita Amarello's 471 was second best in the Hercules Women, while high single honors went to Jean Fatum with a 200 on the nose. The other top bracket pin spillers were Helen Buchholtz 452; Lorraine Dasher 441; Louise Jorcan 436; Chris Cole 421; Flo Maley 414; Jo Webster 413 and Kiki Smith 406.

Leroy Constant toppled 519 in the Chalet Leaders and Harry Houska was third with 200—501. Vern Freese equalled that mark and Bill Lawrence shot 491. Clary Buddenhagen posted 488 and H. Simpson shot 484.

Eight Straight For Syracuse

(By The Associated Press)

The high-scoring Syracuse Nationals have embarked upon their longest winning streak of the season in quest for Eastern division honors in the National Basketball Association.

The Nats annexed their eighth straight last night at the expense of the Milwaukee Hawks, 93-82, to move 2½ games in front of the idle Boston Celtics in the Eastern loop race. In compiling the victory skein, Syracuse has tallied at least 92 points in each game.

The sharp-shooting Nationals hit on 45 per cent of their shots in the first half to assume a lead they never relinquished. A rhubarb between Syracuse player-coach Al Cervi and Milwaukee business manager Ben Kerner over a goal scored by the Hawks' Don Boven just as the half ended, enlivened the contest.

The Rochester Royals dropped into a first place tie with the idle Minneapolis Lakers in the western section as they lost a 68-65 verdict to the Indianapolis Olympians, who notched their 15th straight home-court success. Joe Graboski led the Indianapolis scoring attack with 25 markers.

A pair of clutch-scoring performances by Max Zaslofsky and Harry Gallatin enabled the New York Knicks to down the Philadelphia Warriors 82-78. With 6½ minutes to play and their team trailing by six points, Zaslofsky and Gallatin combined to go on a 12-point scoring spree that brought New York home in front.

Three New Opponents On Navy Grid Slate

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 23 (AP)—Navy formally unveiled its 1952 football schedule today and, as expected, it included two new Southern Conference foes and one from the Ivy League.

The Midshipmen replace Princeton, Rice and Northwestern from their 1951 schedule with Cornell, William and Mary and Duke.

Only Yale, William and Mary and Columbia will be played in "home" games, and there was no indication as to whether Baltimore or Annapolis would serve as home.

The schedule:

Sept. 27, Yale.

Oct. 4, Cornell at Ithaca; 11, William and Mary; 18, Maryland at College Park; 25, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Nov. 1, Notre Dame at Cleveland; 8, Duke at Durham; 15, Columbia; 29, Army at Philadelphia.

Attlesey Hurt

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Dick Attlesey, who holds the world 120-yard high hurdles championship and bettered the recognized mark for the 70-yard high hurdles only two weeks ago, will be out of competition for about three weeks. Attlesey, who suffered a pulled tendon in his leg warming up for the Philadelphia Inquirer games last week, said yesterday he would be forced to scratch himself from the Millrose Games this Saturday.

WHERE WINTER OLYMPICS WILL BE HELD

This is a view of Bislett Stadium in Oslo, Norway, where opening ceremonies of 1952 Winter Olympics will be held Feb. 14. Stadium, which seats 28,000, will also be scene of speed skating and some figure skating events.

Received an interesting item from R. Winslow oof Rosendale. It is the No. 27, 1951 copy of the Business Machines IBM, a small newspaper put out for their employes. The one item which Mr. Winslow marked with a heavy crayon is illustrated with a three column width photo of our Jan. 4, 1800 Ulster County Gazette. It is headed thus: "Miss Gannon's Hobby Reflects History" under picture it explains, "Reproduction of the first page of the Ulster County Gazette of Jan. 4, 1800, on which is superimposed an inside-page clipping giving an account of the funeral of George Washington. This newspaper is in the possession of Miss Margaret Gannon, of IBM Plant 2, whose hobby is collecting similar historical publications."

The item further states: "News didn't travel as fast 151 years ago as it does today and history records that the Ulster County Gazette of Jan. 4th, 1800, published in Kingston, N. Y., was the first newspaper in the United States to publish the account of the funeral of George Washington who died on Dec. 14th, 1799.

"This newspaper is a prized possession of Miss Margaret Gannon, of Dept. 606, IBM Plant 2, in whose family it has been a keepsake for several generations. This copy was handed down to Miss Gannon by her father and is a most important item in her periodical collection hobby. Family records trace it back as a family possession for 100 years." It also describes the paper itself and its contents which most of us are very familar with.

Whenever I see a copy of this paper I pull out my trusty little booklet called "The Ulster County Gazette and its Illegitimate Offspring" written by R. W. G. Vail, and reprinted by the New York Public Library in 1951 and compare at least the title and type with his various copies. I notice that copies 48 to 52 seem the nearest to Miss Gannon's copy, of which Mr. Vail writes: "Nos. 48-52 are all variant impressions from same or duplicate sets of plates made from the same set-up of type. This edition was published by Walter Gilliss of New York in 1876 for sale at the Philadelphia Centennial: At least 100,000 copies were printed then or later from these plates." I bought my copy of this interesting booklet from the Publication Division of the 5th Avenue Library at 42nd street, N. Y. for $1.50. I think Mr. Vail answers all the questions on this interesting little paper that was printed in Kingston and yet pops up all over the country daily because it was reprinted so often.

To my way of thinking, the 300 Anniversary group should take advantage to the fullest of this little Kingston printed paper which has kept Kingston, N. Y.'s name in newspaper items in no doubt every state in the union. Perhaps R. W. G. Vail would take time off from his busy life and bring up an exhibition of his "Ulster County Gazettes." I understand he has some 77 or more various copies. He either could exhibit them at the Senate House Museum or Library or some other arrangements could be made. There would be enough publicity attached to it that once and for all, the interested parties having copies and the newspapers throughout the country, could photograph and learn all the mysteries about poor Samuel Freer's little newspaper which became nationally famous after he died.

Albany, Jan. 23 (AP)—An economist told the 120th annual meeting of the State Agricultural Society today that "economic freedom is largely dead in the United States today."

F. A. Harper of the Foundation for Economic Education, Inc., of Irvington-on-Hudson, also told about 350 persons attending the traditional day-long meeting that "human freedom has already been lost to a considerable extent."

"There is imminent danger of losing most of what remains," he added in a prepared speech.

Several speakers criticized what they said was increasing governmental control of agriculture, private finances and business.

The theme of the meeting was "Can Human Freedom Survive in A Regimented World?"

Harper maintained that "the demise of freedom in other nations during our generation alone should shock anyone out of his complacency that continued freedom is assured here in 'the land of the freedom.'"

Reviewing current demands made by taxes on an individual's income and the operations of wage and price controls, Harper asked:

"Must we not agree, based on this evidence, that economic freedom is largely dead in the United States today?"

TV Surprise

Tokyo, Jan. 23 (AP)—Maj. Joseph A. Dries, allied censor at truce delegation headquarters in Munsan, Korea, telephoned his wife in Glen Burnie, Md., today while on a short trip to Tokyo. Mrs. Dries answered. Then the major heard a scream—and silence. Finally, his eight-year-old son, Chris, exclaimed: "Daddy, you're on television!" When the major first spoke, Mrs. Dries had glanced at her television set and saw her husband—in a film made last week at Panmunjom.

Your key to greater hauling profits

GM GENERAL MOTORS

GMC PRESENTS THE FIRST 2½-TON DIESEL

At last—Diesel economy and hill-leveling performance come to thousands of truckers who have never had any choice but gasoline power in the past!

TODAY America's foremost builder of Diesel trucks smashes the size-weight barrier that up to now has denied the many economies of Diesel power to haulers of medium-weight loads.

Today GMC offers users of equipment in the 19,500 GVW-35,000 GCW range a sensational new Diesel truck-tractor.

More Miles per Gallon

Because it is Diesel-powered, this new GMC Model D450-37 will cost you far less to run per mile, far less to maintain per year than any other 2½-tonner you've ever owned. All Diesel experience proves that.

Because it is a 2-cycle Diesel, it is a fast-starting, quick-accelerating, highly responsive truck with plenty of snap in traffic—a truck that will maintain a steady "on time" schedule even on hilly runs.

Fuel economy is automatic thanks to GMC's famous Fuel Modulator. Regardless of throttle pressure this engine never gets more fuel than it needs and makes the most of what it gets. Smooth driving is assured by "easy-turn" recirculating ball-bearing steering—even electric shifting on two-speed axle models.

Nationwide Service

Equally important to the thousands of truckers who can now enjoy the benefits of Diesel power for the first time, this new GMC D450-37 is backed by the nation's largest network of Diesel service stations.

Before you buy another truck, you owe it to yourself to investigate these new GMC welterweight Diesels if you want to cut costs! We will be glad to give you facts and figures that will open your eyes. Why not come in today?

Four farm families will be given the society's "century farm" citations at the dinner. These are awarded annually to those whose farms have been in the family for at least 100 years.

One of the families is Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Taber, Pawling.

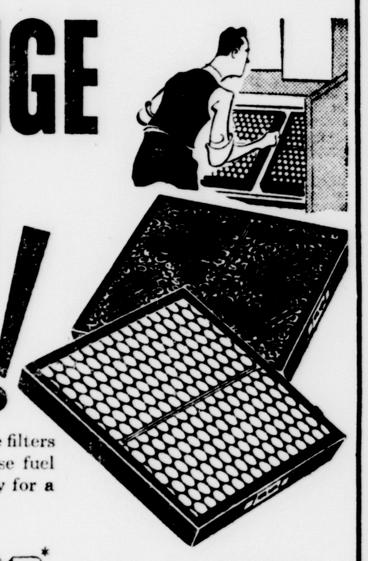

One of every four persons in the United States lives in a community where a steel mill is located.

TV Surprise

Tokyo, Jan. 23 (AP)—Maj. Joseph A. Dries, allied censor at truce delegation headquarters in Munsan, Korea, telephoned his wife in Glen Burnie, Md., today while on a short trip to Tokyo. Mrs. Dries answered. Then the major heard a scream—and silence. Finally, his eight-year-old son, Chris, exclaimed: "Daddy, you're on television!" When the major first spoke, Mrs. Dries had glanced at her television set and saw her husband—in a film made last week at Panmunjom.

More than 200 new virus diseases of crops have been discovered in the last 40 years.

Another major milestone in hauling progress

Your key to greater hauling profits

GMC PRESENTS THE FIRST 2½-TON DIESEL

At last—Diesel economy and hill-leveling performance come to thousands of truckers who have never had any choice but gasoline power in the past!

TODAY America's foremost builder of Diesel trucks smashes the size-weight barrier that up to now has denied the many economies of Diesel power to haulers of medium-weight loads.

Today GMC offers users of equipment in the 19,500 GVW-35,000 GCW range a sensational new Diesel truck-tractor.

More Miles per Gallon

Because it is Diesel-powered, this new GMC Model D450-37 will cost you far less to run per mile, far less to maintain per year than any other 2½-tonner you've ever owned. All Diesel experience proves that.

Because it is a 2-cycle Diesel, it is a fast-starting, quick-accelerating, highly responsive truck with plenty of snap in traffic—a truck that will maintain a steady "on time" schedule even on hilly runs.

Fuel economy is automatic thanks to GMC's famous Fuel Modulator. Regardless of throttle pressure this engine never gets more fuel than it needs and makes the most of what it gets. Smooth driving is assured by "easy-turn" recirculating ball-bearing steering—even electric shifting on two-speed axle models.

Nationwide Service

Equally important to the thousands of truckers who can now enjoy the benefits of Diesel power for the first time, this new GMC D450-37 is backed by the nation's largest network of Diesel service stations.

Before you buy another truck, you owe it to yourself to investigate these new GMC welterweight Diesels if you want to cut costs! We will be glad to give you facts and figures that will open your eyes. Why not come in today?

Lecture Comes in Handy

Great Falls, Mont. (AP)—Patrolmen Dean Bailey and Herbert Remus went to a police school lecture on "what to do if called on to attend a birth." The following day, they made a routine ambulance call—getting to a house just as Mrs. Noel Boule's baby was born. "That's when the lecture seemed a little hazy," they admitted. "Then the baby yelled like a Comanche . . . we knew we were okay."

Critically Ill

Actress Fannie Ward (above), the "eternal flapper," was in Lenox Hill Hospital, New York, Jan. 22, in a critical condition. Miss Ward, who admits to more than 80 years of age, was found unconscious in her Park avenue apartment by two friends. The hospital said she apparently has been in declining health for some time. (This is a 1950 photo of Miss Ward).

Disasters Hit China

Hong Kong (AP) — Ten million farmers on six million acres in Central and South China were affected by floods, drought, storm, pests and other calamities in the past few months, says the Hankow Communist newspaper. The amount of crop loss was not given.

Bills Proposed in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP) — Swift legislative approval was forecast today for Governor Dewey's proposed pay raises for the state police.

The governor declared yesterday that the troopers were underpaid and urged that the starting salary be increased from $1,680-a-year to $2,250. He also proposed a flat $570 boost be given all members of the force.

The recommendation was part of Dewey's highway safety program to reduce accidents.

The higher salaries were aimed at attracting recruits to the undermanned force. The state police has an authorized strength of 900 men, but there are about 700 troopers now.

Dewey also has called for a reduction in the strict physical requirements for appointment to the force.

Senator John H. Hughes, Syracuse Republican who has spearheaded moves to improve troopers' working conditions, probably will introduce the pay-raise bill Monday.

In addition to their pay, troopers receive food, lodging and equipment from the state.

School Bill Introduced

Meanwhile, Assemblyman Joseph Pinckney, Manhattan Democrat, introduced a bill that would require the Board of Regents to prescribe courses for public schools in religious and racial tolerance and in the history and culture of minority groups.

Personal income tax exemptions of $400 each for the first two dependent children, $600 for the third, $800 for the fourth and $1,000 for each additional child, were proposed by Assemblyman Harry Morr, Brooklyn Democrat.

The present exemption is $400 per dependent.

Assemblyman John R. Brook, Manhattan Republican, proposed that non-resident taxpayers be allowed the same state income tax deductions as those now given to New Yorkers.

Non-resident taxpayers are allowed a flat 10 per cent deduction, up to $500. Residents may claim individual deductions.

Other bills would:

Ban picketing of courthouses during trials. (Assemblyman Thomas A. Duffy, Long Island City Democrat).

Make it a felony instead of a misdemeanor to grow marijauna, or allow it to grow without license required under the public health law. (Assemblyman Elisha T. Barrett, R-Brightwaters).

Lecture Comes in Handy

Great Falls, Mont. (AP)—Patrolmen Dean Bailey and Herbert Remus went to a police school lecture on "what to do if called on to attend a birth." The following day, they made a routine ambulance call—getting to a house just as Mrs. Noel Boule's baby was born. "That's when the lecture seemed a little hazy," they admitted. "Then the baby yelled like a Comanche . . . we knew we were okay."

Critically Ill

Actress Fannie Ward (above), the "eternal flapper," was in Lenox Hill Hospital, New York, Jan. 22, in a critical condition. Miss Ward, who admits to more than 80 years of age, was found unconscious in her Park avenue apartment by two friends. The hospital said she apparently has been in declining health for some time. (This is a 1950 photo of Miss Ward).

Disasters Hit China

Hong Kong (AP) — Ten million farmers on six million acres in Central and South China were affected by floods, drought, storm, pests and other calamities in the past few months, says the Hankow Communist newspaper. The amount of crop loss was not given.

Bills Proposed in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP) — Swift legislative approval was forecast today for Governor Dewey's proposed pay raises for the state police.

The governor declared yesterday that the troopers were underpaid and urged that the starting salary be increased from $1,680-a-year to $2,250. He also proposed a flat $570 boost be given all members of the force.

The recommendation was part of Dewey's highway safety program to reduce accidents.

The higher salaries were aimed at attracting recruits to the undermanned force. The state police has an authorized strength of 900 men, but there are about 700 troopers now.

Dewey also has called for a reduction in the strict physical requirements for appointment to the force.

Senator John H. Hughes, Syracuse Republican who has spearheaded moves to improve troopers' working conditions, probably will introduce the pay-raise bill Monday.

In addition to their pay, troopers receive food, lodging and equipment from the state.

School Bill Introduced

Meanwhile, Assemblyman Joseph Pinckney, Manhattan Democrat, introduced a bill that would require the Board of Regents to prescribe courses for public schools in religious and racial tolerance and in the history and culture of minority groups.

Personal income tax exemptions of $400 each for the first two dependent children, $600 for the third, $800 for the fourth and $1,000 for each additional child, were proposed by Assemblyman Harry Morr, Brooklyn Democrat.

The present exemption is $400 per dependent.

Assemblyman John R. Brook, Manhattan Republican, proposed that non-resident taxpayers be allowed the same state income tax deductions as those now given to New Yorkers.

Non-resident taxpayers are allowed a flat 10 per cent deduction, up to $500. Residents may claim individual deductions.

Other bills would:

Ban picketing of courthouses during trials. (Assemblyman Thomas A. Duffy, Long Island City Democrat).

Make it a felony instead of a misdemeanor to grow marijauna, or allow it to grow without license required under the public health law. (Assemblyman Elisha T. Barrett, R-Brightwaters).

New York (AP) — Farm experts advise that amateur strawberry raisers should always protect the plants against low temperatures in the winter season. This can be done by covering the beds with straw, leaves, sawdust, or similar mulch. In the spring, only part of the mulch need be moved to a place between the rows, the remainder staying with the plants to help out both as fertilizer and as a reducer of weed growth.

Horticulturists Discuss Apple Pest

D. H. Palmiter (above, right) of the Geneva Experiment Station's Poughkeepsie laboratory shows the results of European Saw Fly infestation to D. M. Dalrymple, secretary-treasurer of the New York State Horticultural Society. Looking on is R. W. Dean (left) of the Poughkeepsie laboratory. The European Saw Fly, which will be a topic for discussion during the three-day Horticultural Show here this week, is a new pest which appeared last year in the Hudson valley. It has been found in Orange county as far north as Middlehope, and in other neighboring counties, but has not been reported in Ulster county. (Freeman Photo)

Mechanical Apple Picker

Gerow Schoonmaker of Wallkill inspects the new mechanical apple picker, on display at the New York State Horticultural Society's Eastern meeting at the armory here. Demonstrating the new device is Mrs. John Hopkins, representing its producers, the Farm Machinery Corporation of Canandaigua. One man using the mechanical picker is said to be able to do the work of three to five men hand picking. Described as the first "serious attempt" at mechanical apple picking, the machine resembles an over-sized tank model vacuum cleaner. Schoenmaker, well known Ulster county apple grower, is a former director of the Horticultural Society. (Freeman Photo)

Horticultural Society Opens . . .

The 4-H Clubs will have demonstrations in progress this afternoon, all day Thursday and Friday morning. The annual pie baking contest is scheduled for Thursday morning, when champion apple, cherry and currant pie bakers will be selected. The 4-H and Future Farmers of America will run their apple identification contests during the show.

Apple Picker Shown

Attracting a great deal of attention is a new apple picking machine, invented by G. E. Bullock of Rochester and shown publicly here for the first time in eastern New York and for the second time anywhere. Its first showing was at the Rochester meeting of the Horticultural Society last week.

Designed like a giant version of a tank model vacuum cleaner, the device exerts nine and a half pounds pressure to pluck the apple from the tree. Once the apple passes through a rubber gasket, the vacuum flow is cut and the apple rolls by gravity down a tube, which is entwined around a metal pole. Its makers, the Farm Machinery Corporation of Canandaigua, claim one man using this picker can do the work of three to five men hand picking, and that the device does not bruise or damage the fruit. The boom, which weighs just 12 pounds, permits the ordinary orchard tree to be picked clean from the ground, without the use of ladders.

Like any new device of its nature, the mechanical apple picker has caused much discussion among growers and what its affect upon the apple industry will be remains to be seen. It has been described as the first "serious attempt" at a mechanical apple picker.

Program Begins at 10

The speaking program got underway at 10 o'clock this morning with an invocation by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church in this city.

Fruit growers attending the opening session turned their attention to the control of insects that have reduced the quality and quantity of apples in many orchards during the past two seasons.

Dr. E. H. Glass of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva told the group he noted "an apparent resurgence of the red banded leaf roller last season." He added that the recommended leaf roller insecticides continued to perform well in 1951 experimental tests, refuting the idea that a resistant strain of the insect has developed or that the spray schedule was inadequate. Proper timing of the spray applications is important and varies according to the insecticide used, he said.

Reporting on experiments during the past season, Dr. P. J. Chapman said that trees where mites were controlled outyielded mite-damaged trees and made more vegetative growth.

M. E. Buckley, associate county agricultural agent in Columbia county, described spray programs in orchards. The programs cut apple maggot losses—which ranged to almost 100 per cent in 1950—to only a small percentage this year, he said.

He called abandoned orchards in certain sections of the Hudson Valley as "a thorn in the growers' sides." Apple maggot breeding and feeding in these abandoned orchards have made control a great battle, he said, adding that some maggot damage will result in trees near abandoned trees "even under the best of care and spraying."

Results Outlined

R. W. Dean, of the Poughkeepsie laboratory, outlined results of experimenting with spray programs over the past 40 years, concluding that as more and more experience accumulates, it has become evident that the method of timing sprays for apple maggot control needs to be revised to fit changing conditions. Spraying according to calendar dates has proved undependable, he pointed out, and schedules based on the beginning of emergence and peak emergence are unsatisfactory when relatively short-lived insecticides like DDT are used, he said. He predicted that each year's schedule will have to be "tailor-made" and that it will be necessary to vary the insecticides used and to "fit each one into its proper place in the season's program."

The schedule for Thursday:

9:30 a. m.—Cherry growers' program for promotion, L. A. Putnam, secretary, New York State Cherry Growers' Association.

10 a. m.—Report on the study of grape marketing, Kenneth Bullock, State Farm Bureau Federation.

10:15 a. m.—How We Increased the Sale of Apples, Max Brunk, Department of Marketing, Cornell.

10:45 a. m.—Our Markets Are Being Expanded, L. W. Marvin, N. Y. and N. E. Apple Institute, assisted by John Chandler and Truman Nold of Washington, D. C., and Alice Kline of The Apple Kitchen, New York city.

1:30 p. m.—Fruit Outlook, Cameron Garman, Burt.

1:45 p. m.—Fruit discussion, Where the Fruit Grower Fits Into the Changing National and International Picture, Porter Taylor, American Farm Bureau Federation.

2:30 p. m.—Qestions.

Thursday evening, at the Governor Clinton Hotel, annual banquet. Gerard Maier, chairman, C. C. DuMond, Jr., assisting. William Thies, Department of Pomology, Amherst, Mass., speaker, Topic: "Agriculture in Germany." Also, crowning of 4-H Pie Baking Queens by C. Chester DuMond, Sr., state agriculture commissioner.

Less Building Is Predicted for 1952 In Kingston Area

New building which lessened in 1951 will become scarcer this year, State Housing Commissioner Herman T. Stichman said in a state report on housing released today.

Housing permit valuation in the Kingston-Newburgh-Poughkeepsie area for urban places was $9,350,300. The state total was $648,202,100 as compared to $891,959,900 in 1950.

The total for the area including Kingston also covers Beacon, Middletown, Port Jervis, Ellenville, Goshen, Highland Falls, Saugerties, Walden, Wappinger Falls and Warwick as well as Newburgh and Poughkeepsie.

Permits in this area were issued for 629 dwelling units valued at $5,470,400 as compared to 790 dwelling units valued at $7,078,300 for 1950.

The total valuation for this year includes approximately $1,579,600 for additions, alterations and repairs to existing buildings, and $2,282,300 for non-residential structures. Included in these totals are 186 publicly aided dwelling units of 1950.

Federal limitations on materials and drastic cuts in the number of home units permitted along with proposed enactment of more severe credit controls, Stichman indicated, will lessen homebuilding and increase unemployment in the building trades.

This will bring about the worst building slump in the state and in the nation since the end of World War 2, he predicted. The general 1951 decline in the state, on the basis of permits, was 38 per cent under 1950.

Colliding Autos Damage Hydrant

A fire hydrant near 223 East Chester street was knocked down as two cars collided near that address last night.

A report at 5:46 p. m., by Officers James Burns and Louis Sapp, Jr., said a sedan operated north on East Chester street by William Kaznowski, R.D., Kingston, and a car driven by Richard Terpening, of 219 East Chester street, were in collision as the latter was making a left turn into Cassidy street. Both cars were damaged, but no injuries were reported.

The answers to everyday insurance problems *
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: I read not long ago about an Insurance Company suing an apartment house tenant for recovery of money the Company had paid the apartment owner for a fire loss. The Company held that the tenant was responsible for the fire. Is it possible for the Company to collect in such a case? Also is there any form of insurance which would protect the tenant?

ANSWER: Yes, the Company could collect if they could prove the tenant legally liable. Regarding insurance for the tenant's legal liability, it is a comparatively new coverage but it can be purchased. It is added to a Comprehensive Personal Liability policy and is quite inexpensive.

*If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

Horticulturists Discuss Apple Pest

D. H. Palmiter (above, right) of the Geneva Experiment Station's Poughkeepsie laboratory shows the results of European Saw Fly infestation to D. M. Dalrymple, secretary-treasurer of the New York State Horticultural Society. Looking on is R. W. Dean (left) of the Poughkeepsie laboratory. The European Saw Fly, which will be a topic for discussion during the three-day Horticultural Show here this week, is a new pest which appeared last year in the Hudson valley. It has been found in Orange county as far north as Middlehope, and in other neighboring counties, but has not been reported in Ulster county. (Freeman Photo)

Mechanical Apple Picker

Gerow Schoonmaker of Wallkill inspects the new mechanical apple picker, on display at the New York State Horticultural Society's Eastern meeting at the armory here. Demonstrating the new device is Mrs. John Hopkins, representing its producers, the Farm Machinery Corporation of Canandaigua. One man using the mechanical picker is said to be able to do the work of three to five men hand picking. Described as the first "serious attempt" at mechanical apple picking, the machine resembles an over-sized tank model vacuum cleaner. Schoonmaker, well known Ulster county apple grower, is a former director of the Horticultural Society. (Freeman Photo)

Horticultural Society Opens . . .

The 4-H Clubs will have demonstrations in progress this afternoon, all day Thursday and Friday morning. The annual pie baking contest is scheduled for Thursday morning, when champion apple, cherry and currant pie bakers will be selected. The 4-H and Future Farmers of America will run their apple identification contests during the show.

Apple Picker Shown

Attracting a great deal of attention is a new apple picking machine, invented by G. E. Bullock of Rochester and shown publicly here for the first time in eastern New York and for the second time anywhere. Its first showing was at the Rochester meeting of the Horticultural Society last week.

Designed like a giant version of a tank model vacuum cleaner, the device exerts nine and a half pounds pressure to pluck the apple from the tree. Once the apple passes through a rubber gasket, the vacuum flow is cut and the apple rolls by gravity down a tube, which is entwined around a metal pole. Its makers, the Farm Machinery Corporation of Canandaigua, claim one man using this picker can do the work of three to five men hand picking, and that the device does not bruise or damage the fruit. The boom, which weighs just 12 pounds, permits the ordinary orchard tree to be picked clean from the ground, without the use of ladders.

Like any new device of its nature, the mechanical apple picker has caused much discussion among growers and what its affect upon the apple industry will be remains to be seen. It has been described as the first "serious attempt" at a mechanical apple picker.

Program Begins at 10

The speaking program got underway at 10 o'clock this morning with an invocation by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church in this city.

Fruit growers attending the opening session turned their attention to the control of insects that have reduced the quality and quantity of apples in many orchards during the past two seasons.

Dr. E. H. Glass of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva told the group he noted "an apparent resurgence of the red banded leaf roller last season." He added that the recommended leaf roller insecticides continued to perform well in 1951 experimental tests, refuting the idea that a resistant strain of the insect has developed or that the spray schedule was inadequate. Proper timing of the spray applications is important and varies according to the insecticide used, he said.

Reporting on experiments during the past season, Dr. P. J. Chapman said that trees where mites were controlled outyielded mite-damaged trees and made more vegetative growth.

M. E. Buckley, associate county agricultural agent in Columbia county, described spray programs in orchards. The programs cut apple maggot losses—which ranged to almost 100 per cent in 1950—to only a small percentage this year, he said.

He called abandoned orchards in certain sections of the Hudson Valley as "a thorn in the growers' sides." Apple maggot breeding and feeding in these abandoned orchards have made control a great battle, he said, adding that some maggot damage will result in trees near abandoned trees "even under the best of care and spraying."

Results Outlined

R. W. Dean, of the Poughkeepsie laboratory, outlined results of experimenting with spray programs over the past 40 years, concluding that as more and more experience accumulates, it has become evident that the method of timing sprays for apple maggot control needs to be revised to fit changing conditions. Spraying according to calendar dates has proved undependable, he pointed out, and schedules based on the beginning of emergence and peak emergence are unsatisfactory when relatively short-lived insecticides like DDT are used, he said. He predicted that each year's schedule will have to be "tailor-made" and that it will be necessary to vary the insecticides used and to "fit each one into its proper place in the season's program."

The schedule for Thursday:

9:30 a. m.—Cherry growers' program for promotion, L. A. Putnam, secretary, New York State Cherry Growers' Association.

10 a. m.—Report on the study of grape marketing, Kenneth Bullock, State Farm Bureau Federation.

10:15 a. m.—How We Increased the Sale of Apples, Max Brunk, Department of Marketing, Cornell.

10:45 a. m.—Our Markets Are Being Expanded, L. W. Marvin, N. Y. and N. E. Apple Institute, assisted by John Chandler and Truman Nold of Washington, D. C., and Alice Kline of The Apple Kitchen, New York city.

1:30 p. m.—Fruit Outlook, Cameron Garman, Burt.

1:45 p. m.—Fruit discussion, Where the Fruit Grower Fits Into the Changing National and International Picture, Porter Taylor, American Farm Bureau Federation.

2:30 p. m.—Qestions.

Thursday evening, at the Governor Clinton Hotel, annual banquet, Gerard Maier, chairman, C. C. DuMond, Jr., assisting. William Thies, Department of Pomology, Amherst, Mass., speaker. Topic: "Agriculture in Germany." Also, crowning of 4-H Pie Baking Queens by C. Chester DuMond, Sr., state agriculture commissioner.

Less Building Is Predicted for 1952 In Kingston Area

New building which lessened in 1951 will become scarcer this year, State Housing Commissioner Herman T. Stichman said in a state report on housing released today.

Housing permit valuation in the Kingston-Newburgh-Poughkeepsie area for urban places was $9,350,300. The state total was $648,202,100 as compared to $891,959,900 in 1950.

The total for the area including Kingston also covers Beacon, Middletown, Port Jervis, Ellenville, Goshen, Highland Falls, Saugerties, Walden, Wappinger Falls and Warwick as well as Newburgh and Poughkeepsie.

Permits in this area were issued for 629 dwelling units valued at $5,470,400 as compared to 790 dwelling units valued at $7,078,300 for 1950.

The total valuation for this year includes approximately $1,579,600 for additions, alterations and repairs to existing buildings, and $2,282,300 for non-residential structures. Included in these totals are 186 publicly aided dwelling units of 1950.

Federal limitations on materials and drastic cuts in the number of home units permitted along with proposed enactment of more severe credit controls, Stichman indicated, will lessen homebuilding and increase unemployment in the building trades.

This will bring about the worst building slump in the state and in the nation since the end of World War 2, he predicted. The general 1951 decline in the state, on the basis of permits, was 38 per cent under 1950.

Casualties Reach 104,644

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 104,644 today, an increase of 261 since last week.

Two thousand years is the time required to spend a billion dollars, if you spend it at the rate of $1 a minute.

Colliding Autos Damage Hydrant

A fire hydrant near 223 East Chester street was knocked down as two cars collided near that address last night.

A report at 5:46 p. m., by Officers James Burns and Louis Sapp, Jr., said a sedan operated north on East Chester street by William Kaznowski, R.D., Kingston, and a car driven by Richard Terpening, of 219 East Chester street, were in collision as the latter was making a left turn into Cassidy street. Both cars were damaged, but no injuries were reported.

The answers to everyday insurance problems *
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: I read not long ago about an Insurance Company suing an apartment house tenant for recovery of money the Company had paid the apartment owner for a fire loss. The Company held that the tenant was responsible for the fire. Is it possible for the Company to collect in such a case? Also is there any form of insurance which would protect the tenant?

ANSWER: Yes, the Company could collect if they could prove the tenant legally liable. Regarding insurance for the tenant's legal liability, it is a comparatively new coverage but it can be purchased. It is added to a Comprehensive Personal Liability policy and is quite inexpensive.

*If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
